At 12:00 noon on June 14, 1973, you requested me to review the Anderson column and to determine whether the documents described there exist.

The column, a copy of which is attached, describes information alleged to be quoted from Justice Department field reports from Kansas City, Missouri, which is critical of Chief Kelley's dealings with minorities. The article states that the "field office" submitting the information urged Washington to make its concern known to effect positive changes in police-community relations.

I discussed this matter with Supervisors [redacted] and [redacted] of the Civil Rights Section of the General Investigative Division. They advised that the information could not be identified with any FBI reports and further that Chief Kelley has never been the subject of a complaint concerning such matters received by the FBI.

The references in the article to police-community relations and to Justice Department field reports suggest the possibility that this material may have been submitted by the Kansas City, Missouri, field office of the Community Relations Service of the Department of Justice. The current directory of the Department shows that the Community Relations Service has an office located at Kansas City, Missouri.

Memorandum to the Acting Director
Re: "Washington Post" Column,
June 14, 1973

At 2:31 p. m. I telephonically advised you of the results of my inquiry and suggested that we should discuss this matter with Pat McSweeney of the Office of Legislative Affairs in the Department, who is presently concerned with Chief Kelley's nomination to be Director of the FBI. You approved and I subsequently discussed the article with McSweeney. McSweeney advised that he had discussed this matter with Chief Kelley this morning and learned that the source of the information in the article was [redacted] of a group called ~~Freedom, Inc.~~, at Kansas City, who is an outspoken critic of Chief Kelley.

Kelley Criticized for 'Brutality' Role

By Jack Anderson

Justice Department field reports from Missouri, intended for official eyes only, severely criticize Kansas City Police Chief Clarence M. Kelley for his handling of police brutality cases. Kelley is President Nixon's latest choice as permanent director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"There have been several incidents in the last two years of perceived severe police brutality against minority citizens," stated one report filed from Kansas City last year. "No meaningful efforts have been made ... to show the public that the (Police Department) will not tolerate excessive use of force by its officers."

The report called on the Justice Department in Washington "for assistance in dealing with these situations." The field office urged Washington to make its concern known "to effect positive changes in police-community relations." However, there is no evidence that the Justice Department ever followed up in the recommendation.

Meanwhile, another report from Kansas City also criticizes Kelley's dealings with minorities. In April 1968, in the wake of Martin Luther King's assassination, riots broke out in Kansas City and six blacks were killed. A civil disorder report was called for and completed, but five years later many of its recommendations have gone unmet.

"The necessary steps, for example, have not been taken to regain local control of the police department," noted one report. "Human relations training should be intensified," it added. The report also recommended that Kelley's department review citizens' complaints more closely and hire more blacks. Even now, however, only seven per cent of Kelley's 1,300-man force is black.

The police department has earned praise for "a number of efforts" that have improved the department's relationship with the community. Kelley, for example, has experimented with storefront offices in the ghetto and has increased the size of his Community Relations unit.

But one report has noted: "To the extent that change has occurred, federal funding has been the impetus. To the extent that change has not occurred, racism has been the primary impediment." Without federal programs, claims this report, "very little change since the civil disorder would be in evidence."

Footnote: To Kelley's credit, he has made extensive use of computers and helicopters to cut Kansas City's crime rate. He is also sensitive to complaints about the misuse of electronic surveillance. Under Kelley, police use of wiretapping in Kansas City has been tightly controlled and reduced.

McGovern's Security Briefings—The White House gave George McGovern's security adviser, Paul Warnke, three security briefings during the 1972 campaign. The purpose was to assure continuity in case McGovern won the election.

Now President Nixon has divulged that in 1970 he authorized surveillance methods (1) which a security adviser warned were "clearly illegal" and (2) which the late FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover refused to implement. Thereafter, the President went ahead without Hoover to form his own private, para-police outfit, known as "the plumbers," inside the White House.

As justification, the President claimed radicals and revolutionaries were such a threat to the national security that extra-legal steps were necessary.

Yet not a word of this was ever mentioned to Warnke who, as an Assistant Defense Secretary under the late Lyndon Johnson, held the highest security clearance.

The White House briefings were conducted by Gen. Alexander Haig, then Henry Kissinger's No. 2 man. Warnke described them as no more than "textbook" summaries of foreign policy problems. "Domestic threats to national security were never even brought up," he told us.

"Much of the briefings were routine," he recalled.

One tantalizing tidbit that Warnke pried out of Haig involved India's Prime Minister, Indira Gandhi. Warnke asked why the U.S. had delayed naming a successor to Kenneth Keating as Ambassador to India. Haig confided that Madame Gandhi and Ambassador Keating had engaged in a spat shortly before Keating's departure. Haig described the lady's language as "vitriolic."

The White House, therefore, had decided to delay appointing a new Ambassador until Madame Gandhi cooled off.

Of more substance, Warnke disclose that the White House was optimistic about a Vietnam settlement days before the election. After his last briefing on Oct. 20, 1972, Warnke reported that Haig had been "circumspect" on the subject of Vietnam. "The net impression," wrote Warnke, "is that Henry Kissinger is working feverishly for a settlement." Six days later, Kissinger issued his famous "peace is at hand" statement.

But the domestic threat to national security, which President Nixon now cites as justification for the bizarre plumbers' operation, was never mentioned.

PURPOSE:

To furnish facts concerning column of Jack Anderson in 7/11/73 issue of "The Washington Post" which is captioned "Anti-War Vets Burglarized Twice."

BACKGROUND:

This refers to case involving indictment of Vietnam Veterans Against the War (VVAW) members for violation of Federal statutes including conspiracy to riot during Republican National Convention, 8/72.

Anderson's column suggests and insinuates that the VVAW activists, specifically defendant [redacted] in this case, were burglarized by "Watergate break-in teams." Anderson states in one sentence that SA [redacted] (Jacksonville Division) "confided to a Nixon youth worker that orders were out to 'nail' the leaders." Then Anderson goes on to identify the youth worker as [redacted] an aide to Senator Edward Gurney (R- Fla), and contradicts the previous sentence by admitting that [redacted] only stated that he "got the impression" from talking to the FBI that there was pressure to have the radical Vets arrested. Despite the obvious contradiction in Anderson's own statements, SA [redacted] has previously reported a telephone call from one of Anderson's associates, [redacted] during which [redacted] asked [redacted] about this matter and [redacted] refused to make any comment. SA [redacted] has advised Headquarters that he made no statement whatsoever to [redacted] during a single interview in December, 1971, that would leave any impression that there was any pressure whatsoever being exerted in this case from FBIHQ.

SUBJECT:

Anderson's column goes on to describe two alleged break ins at [redacted] residence in Gainesville, Florida, which was also VVAW headquarters in Gainesville. [redacted] has apparently been contacted by Anderson or [redacted] and given information indicating that [redacted] now believes law enforcement officers were responsible for these break ins. On the contrary, during late 1971, our informants did report that [redacted] residence was broken into and that [redacted] was well aware of the identities of the perpetrators and knew them to be local blacks who were searching for narcotics since they had purchased narcotics from [redacted] at his residence in the past. In fact, it was as a result of his identification of the blacks involved that [redacted] during 1/72, attempted to locate the automobile of one of the blacks responsible in order to blow it up with an incendiary device. This incident was reported by an FBI informant who will testify to this during forthcoming trial in this case.

Anderson's column also mentions the burglary of the office of Gainesville attorney [redacted] who represented [redacted] during 1/72. Anderson hints that this burglary, in which [redacted] claims [redacted] file was stolen, was also perpetrated by law enforcement officers. Perhaps, Anderson is unaware that [redacted] testified concerning this incident at a pretrial hearing in Pensacola, Florida, on 6/21/73. Her testimony was directly contradicted by investigating police officers and so obviously inaccurate that the Judge considered directing defendants to pay the cost of the hearing in which [redacted] testified. At present, Government attorneys are considering possibility of seeking perjury charges against [redacted].

OBSERVATIONS:
As noted above, Anderson's column is replete with half-truths, innuendo and insinuation. The information in this article is categorically without basis in fact. It should be stated herein for the record that evidence in this case has been developed by intensive FBI investigation with absolutely no utilization of surreptitious entry, electronic surveillance, mail interception or

No Secret FBI Files? Try These

By JACK ANDERSON
United Feature Syndicate

PATRICK Gray III got off to an unconvincing start as the new boss of the FBI by pleading with newsmen: "None of you guys are going to believe this — and I don't know how to make you believe it — but there are no dossiers or secret files."

We will be happy to tell poor Pat, since he's new around the FBI, where some of the secret files are stashed.

As a starter, he might ask to see the Jane Fonda file, No. 100-459279. The FBI apparently considers the tiny, if sometimes turbulent, Miss Fonda a menace to the nation.

The Fonda file is stuffed with reports marked "Confidential" and "Secret." One entry, dated April 30, 1971, is stamped "Top Secret — No Foreign Dissemination—No Dissemination Abroad."

This hush-hush document alleges darkly: "Between November 1970 and April 1971, Fonda toured college campuses across the country making anti-war speeches. A source advised (the FBI) the North Vietnamese Embassy in Moscow bought a plane ticket for Fonda to travel from the United States to Moscow and Hanoi via Paris on 3-17-71, though the trip was discontinued as all visas to North Vietnam were later cancelled."

Anderson

By perusing the secret FBI files, Pat Gray can also find out who's who and what's new in the black community. There's hardly an important black leader who doesn't rate a full FBI file.

For example, Gray can learn from reading the Coretta King file, No. 100-6351, that the martyred Martin Luther King's widow has shired the Byron detective agency to "maintain security" at her Atlanta home. This tidbit is stamped merely "confidential," although there's a lot of equally irrelevant information labeled "Secret."

Or Gray can read all about the personal affairs of Harry Belafonte, the talented black actor, by snooping through file No. 100-394716. A "Secret" background report starts off with the information that the "subject's true name is Harold George Belafonte."

THE NEW FBI chief will find all sorts of titillating tidbits in the files of such movie stars as Marlon Brando, Paul Newman, Rock Hudson, Tony Randall, Zero Mostel and others. None of them are accused of any crimes or suspected subversion. But the FBI keeps files on them anyhow.

Or, if Gray is a football fan, he can glean some fascinating facts from the FBI files on the likes of Joe Namath and Lance Rentzel.

For example, the FBI lists Namath under No. 505524F. His file declares: "Captioned individual, a member of the New York Jets of the American Football League, has never been the subject of an FBI investigation."

Yet the FBI has kept a faithful account of such miscellany as the report "from a reliable source that he frequents The Pussycat Bar in New York City."

Above all, newsmen should be skeptical — as Gray suggested they would be — that "there are no dossiers or secret files."

ONE dogged investigative reporter, I. F. Stone, file No. 100-37078, is checked out regularly by the FBI. A typical entry, dated March 17, 1967, and stamped "Confidential," reports:

"During 1966, subject spoke at several anti-Vietnam affairs. In his talks he was critical of the United States handling and participation in the Vietnam war.

"In February, 1966, subject observed to meet a Second Secretary (press) of the Embassy of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Washington, D.C., at a Washington, D.C. restaurant."

Throughout most FBI files is scattered gossip about the sex lives of the subjects, indicating that the FBI spends considerable time snooping into the bedrooms of prominent people.

If Pat Gray still doubts that the FBI keeps secret files, we will be happy to show him some xeroxed copies.

Scholar Steals Frankfurter Papers

By Jack Anderson

A light-fingered scholar has stolen papers of "incalculable value" from the collection of the late Justice Felix Frankfurter at the Library of Congress.

The theft of irreplaceable diaries, letters and memoranda—many hundreds of pages in all—has been kept secret for a year while FBI agents and the Library's own scholars turned-detectives have searched feverishly for the papers.

The loss was discovered in September, 1972, after an alert Library of Congress official noticed that a Frankfurter folder was empty. It had contained conversations between Frankfurter and the late Justice Louis Brandeis. A private researcher also reported a letter missing that he had seen among Frankfurter's papers earlier.

Alarmed, Library officials turned loose a hush-hush team of scholars in the vast Frankfurter file. Within a few days they had come up with a missing-items list that horrified them. Gone were five years of Frankfurter's personal diaries, numerous notes on conversations with the mighty, memos, letters and personal jottings about the men in government

Frankfurter had known so intimately.

"We realized we had been robbed blind," a senior Library official told my associate Les Whitten. "There was a tremendous amount missing of incalculable value."

Once the loss was assessed, the Library called in the FBI, which began discreetly interviewing scholars and researchers. To block further thefts, strict anti-thievery measures, previously dropped for budgetary reasons, were reinstated. All this was done without alerting the general public to the intense search going on for the missing papers.

But now, the quest has reached a dead end. Return of the documents, most Library officials recognize, depends on the delicate question of the scholar-thief's respect for the priceless of his historical heist. Whoever the renegade researcher is, the officials concede, he robbed with discrimination and intelligence, selecting the most historically valuable documents.

According to one theory, the scholar is laboring alone on a project and wants to make sure he is the only one able to pursue it. If this is the case, the officials pray the scholar will somehow arrange to get the papers or copies of them back to the Library so that future historians can study the remarkable life and times of Frankfurter, who died in 1965 at age 82 after serving 26 years on the Supreme Court.

To aid the recovery, we have offered to act as an intermediary between the unknown scholar and the Library. We will guarantee not to reveal his name or otherwise identify him if he will contact us.

Without being able to bind the Justice Department, we will try to persuade Attorney General Elliot Richardson, himself a legal scholar, that the return of the Frankfurter papers is more than worth calling off the search for the mysterious thief.

Footnote? The only comparable theft in the Library's 173-year history occurred in the 1940's, when the papers of poet Walt Whitman were sent away for wartime safekeeping. They were never recovered. More recently, the Library lost some valuable books, but a Library clerk has been arrested for the alleged theft.

Anderson Award—Capitol Hill duffers held their first Congressional Golf Tourney last year. Some of them seemed less interested in shooting par than in hauling home the prizes that were wangled from lobbyists. They were burdened down with TV sets, toilet seats and other valuable prizes—all collected from lobbyists who didn't dare say no to the congressmen.

Because we exposed this convivial cornucopia, the second Congressional Golf Tourney this year planned at first to give a "Jack Anderson Award" to the senator or representative who hit the ball farthest out of bounds.

But the idea was dropped by Rep. Burt Talcott (R-Calif.), who as tourney chairman caught most of the heat last year for putting the squeeze on the lobbyists. Nevertheless, he has gamely accepted the chairmanship again this year.

In a memo to his golfing colleagues on Capitol Hill, Talcott reports that "in spite of the Jack Anderson column," the congressmen will "play again this year." The event is scheduled on Sept. 24 at Andrews Air Force Base. But this time the prizes will be collected more discreetly by individual congressmen rather than through the organized, massive effort of a year ago.

Dear Senator Proxmire:

Having become disturbed over the events of the past few months (as I'm sure most Americans have) I decided to sit down and write you my concerns.

This whole matter of Watergate and related issues are surely most confusing. However, beyond the mere political implications, I am beginning to see something much more dangerous and sinister. I pray God that I am wrong, but too many developments have convinced me that our country is presently in danger of losing its matchless political system.

In order to bring this into focus, I am enclosing an article which appeared in Friday's "Milwaukee Journal" which indicates that Jack Anderson (if the article is correct) indeed has access to FBI files. In addition, he appeared on the NBC "Today" show one morning last week defiantly and brazenly showing and reading documents marked "Top Secret" regarding the Middle East War--one from the Department of State and I believe the other from the CIA. To me at least this indicates that there are some people in these departments who are not exactly concerned with the future and security of America. Add to this the case of Dr. Ellsberg and his revelations of the Pentagon papers, and I think anyone would have to come to the unfortunate conclusion that there are indeed serious leaks in some vital departments.

The reason I am writing this is because I feel this all has a direct relationship to the Watergate incidents. Some of the projects undertaken were a result of the fact that as one of the men testified the "FBI is a sieve". And I think all of these facts should be thoroughly investigated instead of making it merely a partisan political issue.

I am deeply concerned about the rights of all Americans--yes even the President's. It was extremely interesting to me that in [redacted] news conference he refused to divulge his conversation with the Attorney-General while at the same time demanding that the President make all of his private conversations available. My concern is that the rights and security of all Americans be protected and that we don't lose sight of that in the heat of a great partisan political battle. I hope you are not so naive to think that the persons behind this would not deal likewise with a Democratic President!

I would appreciate a brief reply regarding the FBI files.

Sincerely,

ENCLOSURE

ACLU Sues Nixon to Aid Jane Fonda

Los Angeles, Calif. - AP - A $2.3 million suit was filed Thursday on behalf of actress Jane Fonda against President Nixon and past and current government officials.

The complaint, alleging violations of Miss Fonda's constitutional rights, was filed in Federal Court by the American Civil Liberties Union Foundation. It names as defendants 20 individuals and two financial institutions.

Miss Fonda, holding a stack of papers that she said was an FBI dossier on her, told a news conference that she had been subjected to overt and covert physical surveillance, undercover intelligence gathering, burglary, intimidation and harassment because she was an outspoken critic of the Nixon administration and the war in Indochina.

She said the FBI file had been given to her by Washington columnist Jack Anderson. In Washington, Anderson said he had shown three or four Hollywood stars their FBI files, among them Miss Fonda, Marlon Brando and Tony Randall.

An Anderson associate refused to say how the columnist got the files.
