COMMITTEE IN SOLIDARITY WITH THE PEOPLE OF EL SALVADOR (CISPES) - RESTRICTIONS ON DISSEMINATION OF INFORMATION;
TRANSFER OF RECORDS TO THE NATIONAL ARCHIVES AND RECORDS ADMINISTRATION (NARA) BUDED: 12/14/90

Reference Buairtel 10/6/88, entitled "Committee In Solidarity With The People Of El Salvador (CISPES) - Restrictions On Dissemination Of Information," advising of restrictions on dissemination of information from "spin-off" investigations arising out of the CISPES investigation.

An agreement negotiated between the FBI and NARA dated 2/24/90, requires that all CISPES related file material (main files, "spin-off" files, see reference documents (serials), evidence, and indices records) are to be transferred to NARA for permanent retention.

As you are aware, FBIHQ is in possession of a large number of CISPES related field files as a result of previous requests that CISPES material be forwarded to FBIHQ for eventual transfer to NARA. However, the corresponding index records in some instances have not, to date, been retrieved and furnished to

DESTRUCTION OF FIELD FILES AND RECORDS RE:

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE ELECTRONIC SURVEILLANCE

(ELSUR) TAPES

Set forth herein is a disposition plan that permits the destruction of ELSUR tapes when 10 years old, thus, reducing significantly the storage space presently required for maintaining such tapes that are no longer of investigative value. While the disposition plan allows the field to identify and justify recordings to be destroyed, it accommodates the statutory direction to infuse the necessary FBIHQ review for a determination of historical interest in maintaining certain recordings. The field-prepared documentation will fulfill the requirement imposed by the National Archives and Records Administration that there be "written justification that the issue of legal rights has been examined, that the rights of individuals should be exhausted after so many years, [and] that the retained case file should satisfactorily document the major portions of tapes through synopses and verbatim transcripts. The existence of synopses and transcripts within the case file is especially significant since the majority of recordings are of conversations in a foreign language. The transcripts are generally no more than brief translations of these conversations.

The 10-year time frame is consistent with the requirements present in maintaining Title III ELSUR material (see Title 18, U.S. Code (USC), Section 2518 (8)(a)), and also takes into account the present state of technology which suggests that the chemicals used in producing tapes and digital materials will begin to break down after a 10- or 15-year period, thus leaving the recordings in a potentially nonrecoverable state.

The F0-year retention period will further permit the tapes to remain in existence for a period sufficiently long in time to satisfy the statute of limitations for actions against the Government. As provided by Title 28, USC, Section 2401(a), an action must be brought within 6 years from the time the right of action first accrues. Absent willful misrepresentation (i.e., denial of the existence of recordings), the statute of limitations would toll 6 years from the date the recordings were made. (See Spannaus v. United States Department of Justice, 643 F.Supp. 698 (DC. 1986) in which the 6-year statute of limitations was applied to Freedom of Information Act litigation.)

The 10-year retention period will satisfy both the legal requirements for the protection of individuals who are involved in litigation with the Government and the minimization requirements imposed by the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA). The plan will also allow for the retention of recordings during the pendency of any litigation involving the U.S. Government in which the recordings may be at issue.

PLAN OF DESTRUCTION

DESTRUCTION OF ORIGINAL FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE/FOREIGN COUNTERINTELLIGENCE (FCI) TAPE RECORDINGS:

All original tape recordings of ELSURS conducted by the FBI under the provisions of either FISA, those authorized by the Attorney General prior to FISA, and consensual monitoring authorized under the Attorney General Guidelines for FBI Foreign Intelligence Collection and Foreign Counterintelligence Investigations (FCIG) are to be retained in accordance with the following schedule:

SCHEDULE FOR DESTRUCTION

TIME PERIOD

All tapes collected prior to the enactment of FISA (pre-1979).

10 years

FISA Tapes

Tapes produced from ELSUR of foreign powers as defined by Section 101 (a) (1), (2), (3), (4), (5), and (6) of FISA.

10 years

SCHEDÜLE FOR DESTRUCTION

Tapes produced from ELSUR of agents of foreign powers as defined by Section 101 (b) of FISA.

10 years

Consensual Monitoring

Tapes produced from consensual monitoring or other monitoring activities as authorized pursuant to the FCIG.

10 years

After the expiration of the appropriate period, the field office should forward an airtel to FBIHQ marked to the attention of the Intelligence Division, captioned "Destruction of Original ELSUR Tape Recordings." This communication should request authority to destroy recordings and contain the following information:

- (a) The complete substantive case caption to include case character;
- (b) Information pertinent to the authorization.

 Specifically, who or what entity authorized the ELSUR usage, date authorization was granted and the number of days for which the authority was granted, i.e., authorized by the Attorney General January 7, 1972, for a period of 90 days; authorized January 23, 1980, by the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Court for a period of one year; or consensual monitoring authorized for 90 days pursuant to the FCIG;
- (c) Total number of original tape recordings made under the authorization specified above, i.e., total number of original recordings on hand in this matter and the number of tapes sought to be destroyed if different from the total on hand;
- (d) Case status (pending/closed);

(e) A statement that a field record review has been made ensuring that all potential legal issues have been resolved; that there is no pending litigation related to recordings subject to destruction; that no individual rights will be impaired through the destruction of recordings; and that the retained case file will satisfactorily document the information contained in the pertinent portions of tapes through synopsis or transcripts maintained within the case file.

No action should be taken by the field office prior to receipt of a response from FBIHQ.

DESTRUCTION OF COPIES OF ORIGINAL FCI TAPE RECORDINGS MAINTAINED IN AN AUXILIARY OFFICE (AO):

Copies of national security tape recordings maintained in an AO may be destroyed after a one-year period following contact with the office of origin (OO) to ensure original tape recordings are being retained as specified above. This contact should be initiated by the AO in an airtel prepared under the complete substantive case caption, to include the case character, and containing the following information:

(a) Information pertinent to the authorization, specifically, who or what entity authorized the ELSUR usage, the date authorization was granted, the number of days for which authority was granted, i.e., authorized by Attorney General January 7, 1972, for a 90-day period; authorized by the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Court February 23, 1980, for a one-year period; or consensual monitoring authorized for a 90-day period pursuant to the FCIG.

(b) The total number of copies of original recordings on hand in the AO.

Following this information, the AO should request the OO verify that the original recordings are on hand within the OO and are being retained for a period of 10 years. The AO should request that the OO provide this information in writing. Upon notification that original recordings are being maintained in the OO for a period of 10 years, AO may destroy copies on hand. Otherwise, copies of the original recordings should be forwarded to the OO in accordance with the current AO file destruction policy. All original documents supporting the ELSUR recordation, (e.g. executed consent forms, court orders, Attorney General/U.S. Attorney certifications and/or approvals, etc.) shall be forwarded to OO for appropriate retention in accordance with case file maintenance.

VOLUNTEERED TAPE RECORDINGS PERTAINING TO NATIONAL SECURITY MATTERS:

Original and/or copies of non-FBI ELSUR recordings, voluntarily turned over to the FBI by anyone outside the Bureau, shall be retained for a reasonable period of time, to be determined by the office in possession of the recording. Receipt of such recordings should be appropriately documented in the case file. When it is determined the recording is not of evidentiary value or no longer serves a purpose to the office, it should be returned to the contributor. The contributor should be contacted in this regard and advised it is no longer necessary to retain the recording within our custody. Request that the contributor retrieve the recording at the local FBI field office within a specified reasonable period of time. In the event the contributor does not wish to have the recording returned, or no effort to retrieve the recordings has been made within a reasonable period of time, the recording may be destroyed. The actual disposition of the recording should be recorded on the FD-597 (Receipt of Property Received/Returned/Released) and on the FD-192 (Bulky Exhibit-Inventory of Property Acquired as Evidence).

Manual changes are forthcoming.

DETAILS:

REASON FOR CHANGE

By referenced memorandum the Intelligence Division, in concert with the Information Management Division and representatives of the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA), developed a disposition plan that permits the destruction of FCI ELSUR-related tapes when ten (10) years old. The plan, when implemented, will reduce significantly the storage space presently required for maintaining ELSUR tapes. While the disposition plan allows the field to identify and justify recordings to be destroyed, it also accommodates the statutory direction to infuse the necessary FBIHQ review for a determination of historical interest in maintaining certain recordings. The field-prepared documentation will fulfill the requirement imposed by NARA that there be "written justification that the issue of legal rights be examined, that the rights of individuals should be exhausted after so many years, [and] that the retained case file should satisfactorily document the major portions of tapes through synopses and verbatim transcripts." The existence of synopsis and transcripts within the case file is especially significant since the majority of recordings are of conversations in a foreign language. The transcripts are generally no more than brief translations of these conversations.

The ten-year time frame is consistent with the requirements present in maintaining Title III ELSUR material (see 18, USC, Section 2518 (8)(a), and also takes into account the present state of technology which suggests that the chemicals used in producing tapes and digital materials will begin to break down after a ten/fifteen-year period, thus leaving the recordings in a potentially nonrecoverable state.

The ten-year retention period will further permit the tapes to remain in existence for a period sufficiently long in the Government. As provided by Title 28, USC, Section 2401(a), an action must be brought within six years from the time the right of action first accrues. Absent willful misrepresentation (i.e., denial of the existence of recordings), the statute of limitations would toll six years from the date the recordings were made. (See Spannaus v. United States Department of Justice, 643 F.Supp. 698 (DC 1986) in which the six-year statute of limitations was applied to Freedom of Information Act litigation.)

The ten-year retention period will satisfy both the legal requirements for the protection of individuals who are involved in litigation with the Government and the minimization requirements imposed by the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA). The plan will also allow for the retention of recordings during the pendency of any litigation involving the U.S. Government in which the recordings may be at issue.

These manual changes were coordinated with the Manuals Desk, Office Management Services Unit, Information Services Section, Information Management Division, prior to the preparation of this memorandum.

DETAILS:

In late 1987 FBIHQ began devising a plan to destroy retained ELSUR tapes and recordings related to the FBI's FCI mission which were no longer of value for investigative purposes. This followed the entry of an order in September of 1986 by Judge Harold H. Green of the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia in the case captioned American Friends Service Committee v. William H. Webster releasing the FBI from an injunction against destruction of FBI record information. Judge Green had previously enjoined the FBI from destroying FBI records in July, 1981 (Attachment 1).

A tentative plan for destruction of FCI related ELSUR material was prepared and discussed with appropriate representatives of the National Archives in accordance with the requirements of Title 44, United States Code (USC), Section 3302. This section requires that agency record information be destroyed only in accordance with regulations promulgated by the National Archives and Records Administration. These regulations are found in Title 36, Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), Section 1228, et seq. (Attachment 2).

Meetings were held between INTD, RMD, and representatives of the National Archives during 1988 and 1989. Because the proposed plan for destruction of FCI related recordings contemplated a method of destruction of elsur recordings maintained by the FBI which include recordings authorized by the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Court under the authority of the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA) (Title 50, USC, Section 1801, et seq.; recordings authorized by District Court pursuant to Title III; recordings authorized by the Attorney General, and recordings authorized by FBIHQ under authority provided in the FCIG; the National Archives requested that a review be made of the problems related to retaining the original recordings for historical preservation. The Archives specifically asked for an analysis of the volume of recordings to storage ratio and anticipated growth of storage problems (Attachment 3).

Destruction of Records

The function of providing a method of destruction of ELSUR-related recordings is in keeping with the FBI's statutory mandate to minimize the collection of elsur-related material. Congress expressly directed that all FISA derived recordings be destroyed when their retention is "not necessary for obtaining, producing, or disseminating foreign intelligence information. . . " (House Report 95-1283, Pt. I at page 56). It has been noted by Congress that minimization can best be achieved by the destruction of the recordings which evidence an ELSUR event. This is more important when viewing FISA related activity. Under FISA it is possible to automatically acquire and record all activity which transpires on a premises or facility subject to surveillance. This process allows for after acquisition review to minimize communications which may have been recorded. after acquisition process means that, during the collection of intelligence information, it is possible that information about U.S. persons, including persons who are not the authorized subjects of the surveillance, may inadvertently be acquired. FISA requires that such non-pertinent communications be minimized from the surveillance. This is accomplished by not logging or entering such communications into the General or ELSUR Indices. However, the logging of communications is discretionary. nonpertinent communication may be logged and indexed if, at the time of the communication, it appears that the recorded information may have value. Consequently, so long as the tapes are retained, the potential for recovering such communications exists and minimization is not absolute until such time as the recordings are destroyed.

While the tapes must be destroyed to fulfill minimization requirements, they should be retained for a sufficient period of time to satisfy the legal rights of individuals who claim through litigation that they have been the object of unlawful ELSUR related activity. Consequently, in cases where litigation is present involving ELSUR related recordings, the recordings are to be preserved until all legal appeals have been exhausted. (With regard to FISA authorized ELSURs, it should be noted that such instances are extremely/rare. In the first eleven years of FISA, there have been no more than fifty cases in which FISA authorized recordings have been the subject of litigation.

The following described plan of destruction of ELSURrelated material is believed to fulfill the field's need to reduce the storage space presently required for maintaining records which are no longer of investigative value. It is also believed that it will allow the field to identify and justify recordings to be destroyed and, yet, accommodate the statutory direction to infuse the necessary FBTHQ review for a determination of historical interest in maintaining certain recordings. The field-prepared document will fulfill the requirement imposed by the National Archives that there be "written justification that the issue of legal rights has been examined, that the rights of individuals should be exhausted after so many years, [and] that the retained case file should satisfactorily document the major portions of tapes through synopses and verbatim transcripts." The existence of synopses and transcripts within the case file is especially significant since the majority of recordings are of conversations in a foreign language. The transcripts are generally no more than brief translations of these conversations.

The ten-year time frame is consistent with the requirements present in maintaining Title III ELSUR material (see 18, USC, Section 2518 (8)(a)), and also takes into account the present state of technology which suggests that the chemicals used in producing tapes and digital materials will begin to break down after a ten\fifteen-year period, thus leaving the recordings in a potentially nonrecoverable state.

The proposed ten-year retention period will further permit the tapes to remain in existence for a period sufficiently long in time to satisfy the statute of limitations for actions against the Government. As provided by Title 28, USC, Section 2401(a), an action must be brought within six years from the time the right of action first accrues. Absent willful misrepresentation (i.e., denial of the existence of recordings), the statute of limitations would toll six years from the date the recordings were made. (See Spannaus v. United States Department of Justice, 643 F.Supp. 698 (DC. 1986) in which the six year statute of limitations was applied to Freedom of Information Act litigation.)

The proposed ten year retention period will satisfy both the legal requirements for the protection of individuals who are involved in litigation with the government and the minimization requirements imposed by FISA. The plan will also allow for the retention of recordings during the pendency of any litigation involving the U. S. Government in which the recordings may be at issue.

After the expiration of the appropriate period, the field office should forward an airtel to FBIHQ marked to the attention of the Intelligence Division, captioned "Destruction of Original ELSUR Tape Recordings." This communication should request authority to destroy recordings and contain the following information:

- a) The complete substantive case caption to include case character;
- b) Information pertinent to the authorization. Specifically, who or what entity authorized the ELSUR usage, date authorization was granted and the number of days for which the authority was granted, i.e., authorized by the Attorney General 1/7/72 for a period of 90 days; authorized 1/23/80 by the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Court for a period of one year; or consensual monitoring authorized for 90 days pursuant to the Attorney General Guidelines for FBI Foreign Intelligence Collection and Foreign Counterintelligence Investigations;
- c) Total number of original tape recordings made under the authorization specified above, i.e., total number of original recordings on hand in this matter and the number of tapes sought to be destroyed if different from the total on hand;
- d) Case status (pending/closed);
- e) A statement that a field record review has been made ensuring that all potential legal issues have been resolved; that there is no pending litigation related to recordings subject to destruction; that no individual rights will be impaired through the destruction of recordings; and that the retained case file will satisfactorily document the information contained in the pertinent portions of tapes through synopsis or transcripts maintained within the case file.

No action should be taken by the field office prior to receipt of a response from FBIHQ.

COPIES OF ORIGINAL TAPE RECORDINGS PERTAINING TO NATIONAL SECURITY MATTERS MAINTAINED IN AN AUXILIARY OFFICE (AO):

Copies of national security tape recordings maintained in an AO may be destroyed after a one-year period following contact with the office of origin (OO) to ensure original tape recordings are being retained as specified above. This contact should be initiated by the AO in an airtel prepared under the complete substantive case caption, to include the case character, and containing the following information:

- a) Information pertinent to the authorization, specifically, who or what entity authorized the ELSUR usage, the date authorization was granted, the number of days for which authority was granted, i.e., authorized by Attorney General 1/7/72 for a 90-day period; authorized by the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Court 2/23/80 for a one-year period; or consensual monitoring authorized for a 90-day period pursuant to the FCIG.
- b) The total number of copies of original recordings on hand in the AO.

Following the receipt of this information, the AO should request the OO verify that the original recordings are on hand within the OO and are being retained for a period of ten years. The AO should request that the OO provide this information in writing. Upon notification that original recordings are being maintained in the OO for a period of ten years, AO may destroy copies on hand. Otherwise, copies of the original recordings must be retained in the AO in accordance with the general ten-year destruction policy.

VOLUNTEERED TAPE RECORDINGS PERTAINING TO NATIONAL SECURITY MATTERS:

Original and/or copies of non-FBI ELSUR recordings, voluntarily turned over to the FBI by anyone outside the Bureau, shall be retained for a reasonable period of time, to be determined by the office in possession of the recording. Receipt of such recordings should be appropriately documented in the case file. When it is determined the recording is not of evidentiary value or no longer serves a purpose to the office, it should be returned to the contributor. The contributor should be contacted in this regard and advised it is no longer necessary to retain the recording within our custody. Request that the contributor retrieve the recording at the local FBI field office within a specified reasonable period of time. In the event the contributor does not wish to have the recording returned, or no effort to retrieve the recordings has been made within a reasonable period of time, the recording may be destroyed. actual disposition of the recording should be recorded on the FD-597 (Receipt of Property Received/Returned/Released) and onthe FD-192 (Bulky Exhibit-Inventory of Property Acquired as Evidence).

MEMORANDUM TO ALL SPECIAL AGENTS IN CHARGE

RE: DESTRUCTION OF FIELD FILES
AND RECORDS - FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE
ELECTRONIC SURVEILLANCE (ELSUR) TAPES

Set forth herein is a disposition plan that permits the destruction of ELSUR tapes when ten (10) years old, thus, reducing significantly the storage space presently required for maintaining such tapes that are no longer of investigative value. While the disposition plan allows the field to identify and justify recordings to be destroyed, it accommodates the statutory direction to infuse the necessary FBIHQ review for a determination of historical interest in maintaining certain recordings. The field-prepared documentation will fulfill the requirement imposed by the National Archives and Records Administration that there be "written justification that the issue of legal rights has been examined, that the rights of individuals should be exhausted after so many years, [and] that the retained case file should satisfactorily document the major portions of tapes through synopses and verbatim transcripts." The existence of synopses and transcripts within the case file is especially significant since the majority of recordings are of conversations in a foreign language. The transcripts are generally no more than brief translations of these conversations.

Re: Destruction of Field Files
and Records - Foreign Intelligence
Electronic Surveillance (ELSUR) Tapes

The ten-year time frame is consistent with the requirements present in maintaining Title III ELSUR material (see Title 18, U.S. Code (USC), Section 2518 (8)(a)), and also takes into account the present state of technology which suggests that the chemicals used in producing tapes and digital materials will begin to break down after a ten\fifteen-year period, thus leaving the recordings in a potentially nonrecoverable state.

The ten-year retention period will further permit the tapes to remain in existence for a period sufficiently long in time to satisfy the statute of limitations for actions against the Government. As provided by Title 28, USC, Section 2401(a), an action must be brought within six years from the time the right of action first accrues. Absent willful misrepresentation (i.e., denial of the existence of recordings), the statute of limitations would toll six years from the date the recordings were made. (See Spannaus v. United States Department of Justice, 643 F.Supp. 698 (DC. 1986) in which the six-year statute of limitations was applied to Freedom of Information Act litigation.)

The ten-year retention period will satisfy both the legal requirements for the protection of individuals who are involved in litigation with the Government and the minimization requirements imposed by the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA). The plan will also allow for the retention of recordings during the pendency of any litigation involving the U. S. Government in which the recordings may be at issue.

Memorandum from R. G. Prillaman to Mr. Christensen RE: Transfer of Records to the National Archives and Records Administration

Information Services Section, Information Management Division (IMD), has prepared 2,784 original files in the 44 classification for transfer to NARA inasmuch as the collection of files has been determined to have historical value and are subject to transfer to NARA pursuant to the civil matter, supra. The FBI Records Retention Plan and Disposition Schedule allows for case files within the 44 classification to be offered to NARA when the material is 30 years old. All of the 2,784 case files meet this criteria. The case files have been reviewed by the Civil Rights Unit of the Criminal Investigative Division (CID). By W. M. Baker to Mr. McCreight memorandum dated 6/7/89, CID advised that there was no objection to the transfer of these records to NARA. In addition, the case files have been reviewed by the Document Classification Unit, Freedom of Information - Privacy Acts Section, IMD, and are currently classified in accordance with Executive Order 12356.
