In the absence of explicit language, courts may use custom and practice to determine whether an employee had a reasonable expectation of continued employment. See generally Howard Univ. v. Best, 484 A.2d 958, 974 (D.C. 1984). Complainant's yearly contract had been renewed at the discretion of the Chief of Police without challenge or controversy each year since 2005 (MPD Response at 6), thereby creating a reasonable expectation that Complainant's contract would be renewed again. Complainant returned to work on September 26, 2011. (LOD at 4). Although she had requested to work on limited duty status, Complainant had actually resumed the normal duties of her position that she had been performing before taking leave. (Id.)<sup>8</sup> OHR previously found, on the merits, that Complainant had met her burden to prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, that Respondent's asserted reason for her termination was pretext for disability discrimination. (FO at 5). Thus, any refusal, albeit "discretionary," to renew her contract shortly thereafter would likely constitute discrimination or retaliation and thus cannot legitimately truncate Complainant's recovery.<sup>9</sup> Ultimately, Respondent offers only speculation, and no legitimate reason, why it would not have renewed Complainant's contract after previously renewing it each year since 2005. Complainant is entitled to recover for the full period of time, until March 26, 2014, that she reasonably expected to continue working, were it but for the discriminatory act.

Complainant's Mitigation of Damages

OHR adopts ALJ Carmichael's finding that Complainant successfully mitigated her damages, including ALJ Carmichael's conclusion that Respondent has not proven that Complainant did not mitigate her damages. (Third Proposed Decision and Order at 12-14). Specifically, ALJ Carmichael found that Complainant was not required to apply for particular positions, i.e., public school officer and Senior Police Officer via Special Order 101.12, as Respondent had contended in its MPD Brief, dated September 20, 2018,<sup>10</sup> noting that such opportunities were permissive but

<sup>7</sup> There appears to be no dispute that Complainant's mandatory retirement date was March 26, 2014. (Third Proposed Decision and Order at 4).

<sup>8</sup> Respondent contends that where an SPO is unable to perform "the full range of duties" required of a member of the Department, Respondent shall "retire the member as disabled regardless of whether the member is performing useful and efficient service that are less than the full range of duties." D.C. Code § 5-709(c). However, Ms. Schofield returned to work and performed "the normal duties of her position that she performed before taking leave," despite being advised to the contrary by her physician. (Third Proposed Decision and Order at 7).

<sup>9</sup> See, e.g., Barnabas v. Bd. of Trs. of Univ. of D.C., 686 F. Supp. 2d 95, 105-06 (D.D.C. 2010) (jury could infer that University's reduction of the plaintiff's teaching load was the first opportunity it had to retaliate seven months later).

<sup>10</sup> Respondent contends that Complainant failed to mitigate her damages because Complainant failed to avail herself of the "statutorily-created [opportunities] for retired police officers," namely the Special Police Officer position for D.C. Public Schools and the Senior Police Officer position. (MPD Brief at 9).

not required. (Id. at 14).<sup>11</sup> ALJ Carmichael also noted that Complainant requested reinstatement; Respondent did not offer Complainant reinstatement; and Complainant had adequately searched for comparable jobs. (Id.).

In addition to adopting ALJ Carmichael's recommended finding regarding Complainant's mitigation of damages, OHR herein delineates more fully Complainant's mitigation efforts and also cites to an applicable legal standard for damages mitigation under the DCFMLA. Although OHR could not locate a D.C. Court of Appeals case regarding the duty to mitigate damages under the DCFMLA or out of the D.C. Circuit under the federal counterpart, The Family & Medical Leave Act of 1993 (FMLA), the Fourth Circuit has found that the duty to mitigate applies in FMLA actions. An FMLA plaintiff has a duty to mitigate his damages by diligently "seeking and accepting new employment substantially equivalent to that from which [they] were discharged" Miller v. AT&T Corp., 250 F.3d 820, 838-39 (4th Cir. 2001) (adopting the duty to mitigate standard from Title VII, quoting Brady v. Thurston Motor Lines, Inc. 753 F.2d 1269, 1273 (4th Cir. 1985)); see also McDonnell v. Miller Oil Co., 110 F.3d 60 (4th Cir. 1997).<sup>12</sup> Significantly, and as delineated by ALJ Carmichael, the [Respondent] bears the burden of demonstrating that [Complainant] has failed to fulfill the duty to mitigate. Martin v. Cavalier Hotel Corp., 48 F.3d 1343, 1358 (4th Cir. 1995). Further, a Complainant in a discrimination action "need not go into another line of work, accept a demotion, or take a demeaning position," so as to mitigate. Ford Motor Co. v. EEOC, 458 U.S. 219, 231 (1982).

Complainant contends that pursuant to D.C.'s Department of Employment Services ("DOES") requirements, she contacted at least two to three employers each week, submitted detailed, certified written records outlining her job search to DOES, and signed a certificate with each report, so as to be eligible for unemployment benefits.<sup>13</sup> Complainant was paid unemployment insurance benefits from December 30, 2011, through April 20, 2013. (Mitigation Efforts at Exhibit A). Complainant states that she conducted daily searches for law enforcement and security positions in the employment section of the Washington Post (both online and in hard copy), Monster.com, Indeed.com, and Careerbuilder.com. (Id. at 2). Complainant submitted a copy of the resume she used with applications. (Mitigation Efforts at Exhibit C). Throughout 2013 and 2014, Complainant contends that she applied for several customer service, cashier, and security positions. (Id. at 3). Accordingly, based on the aforementioned efforts of Complainant, both CAIJ Simmons' and ALJ Carmichael's assessments, and the applicable legal standards, Complainant mitigated her damages as required.

<sup>11</sup> Respondent also appears to argue that Complainant failed to mitigate by purportedly not applying for the same job from which she was fired, and yet Respondent does not contend that it offered to return her to work and acknowledges that Complainant alleges that she actually did request reinstatement. (MPD Brief at 9). Respondent also disputes the adequacy of Complainant's job search efforts, which ALJ Carmichael found to be sufficient (Third Proposed Order at 13-14) and which OHR herein describes more fully.

<sup>12</sup> While OHR is not bound by the legal decisions interpreting the federal statute, those decisions may be considered persuasive authority. See Lenaerts v. District of Columbia Dept. of Employment Svs., 545 A.2d 1234, 1238 (D.C. 1988); see also Chang v. Inst. For Public-Private P-ships, Inc., 846 A.2d 318 (D.C. 2004) (asserting a D.C. Court of Appeals opinion that the federal FMLA is used to interpret the DCFMLA).

<sup>13</sup> The certification that Ms. Schofield was required to sign when she submitted her weekly job search reports to DOES states: "I hereby certify that these statements are true and correct. I understand that the law provides penalties for false statements to obtain or increase benefits." (Mitigation Efforts at 2).

Damages Calculation under the DCFMLA

OHR adopts in part ALJ Carmichael's finding that Complainant is entitled to damages under the DCFMLA, including ALJ Carmichael's finding that Complainant is entitled to back pay, as well as the cash equivalent of annual and sick leave she would have accrued,<sup>14</sup> and ALJ Carmichael's finding that Complainant's recovery need not be offset for unemployment and annuity payments, for the reasons explained by ALJ Carmichael. (Third Proposed Decision and Order at 15-22).

However, OHR modifies ALJ Carmichael's finding to the extent that, as explained supra at 5, the calculation must be made based on a longer recovery period. Specifically, based on the record, Complainant is entitled to wages and benefits based on a salary of $61,698 from December 10, 2011, to March 31, 2013, and a salary of $64,166 from April 1, 2013, to March 26, 2014.<sup>15</sup> Accordingly, Complainant's back pay and benefits awards are delineated below. OHR notes that the recovery period has been divided into six smaller periods, so that an accounting could be made for the change in salary, two-week pay period increments for annual and sick leave, and annual compounding of interest.

| December 10, 2011 – December 9, 2012 (26 pay periods)     |                     |

<sup>14</sup> Annual leave at 8 hours per two-week pay period and sick leave at 4 hours per two-week pay period.

<sup>15</sup> (Complainant's Damages and Calculations, dated June 12, 2017, at 7-10). Respondent confirmed that the base salary numbers Complainant proffered were accurate for the requisite time periods, although Respondent listed the latter period's salary as one dollar higher. (MPD Response Brief at 3-4). OHR will use Complainant's number, as it is closer to an actual 4% increase on $61,698, which would be $64,165.92.

Prejudgment Interest

OHR adopts in part ALJ Carmichael's finding that Complainant is entitled to prejudgment interest from December 10, 2011, through June 26, 2018 at 4% per annum (Third Proposed Decision and Order at 22), for the reasons explained by ALJ Carmichael, but OHR modifies the finding to calculate the interest to be compounded annually, pursuant to Jean-Baptiste v. District of Columbia 958 F. Supp. 2d 37, 48 (D.D.C. July 19, 2013), as follows.

| A              | = | $70,952.70 | = | wage and benefits earnings from 12/10/11 through 12/9/12 |
| B              | = | $73,201.42 | = | wage and benefits earnings from 12/10/12 through 12/9/13 |
| C              | = | $21,853.46 | = | wage and benefits earnings from 12/10/13 through 3/26/14 |
| A <sub>i</sub> | = | $2,838.11  | = | interest earned from 12/10/11 through 12/9/12            |
| B <sub>i</sub> | = | $5,879.69  | = | interest earned from 12/10/12 through 12/9/13            |
| C <sub>i</sub> | = | $6,989.02  | = | interest earned from 12/10/13 through 12/9/14            |
| D <sub>i</sub> | = | $7,268.58  | = | interest earned from 12/10/14 through 12/9/15            |
| E <sub>i</sub> | = | $7,559.32  | = | interest earned from 12/10/15 through 12/9/16            |
| F <sub>i</sub> | = | $7,861.69  | = | interest earned from 12/10/16 through 12/9/17            |
| G <sub>i</sub> | = | $4,457.69  | = | interest earned from 12/10/17 through 3/26/18            |

$$A_i = A \times 4\%$$

$$B_i = (A + A_i + B) \times 4\%$$

$$C_i = (A + A_i + B + B_i + C) \times 4\%$$

$$D_i = (A + A_i + B + B_i + C + C_i) \times 4\%$$

$$E_i = (A + A_i + B + B_i + C + C_i + D_i) \times 4\%$$

$$F_i = (A + A_i + B + B_i + C + C_i + D_i + E_i) \times 4\%$$

$$G_i = (A + A_i + B + B_i + C + C_i + D_i + E_i + F_i) \times 4\% \times 199/365$$

$$\text{Total interest} = A_i + B_i + C_i + D_i + E_i + F_i + G_i$$

Total interest award = $42,854.10

Please note that the above compound interest total was manually calculated using algebra. Calculus may also be used. For example, a compound interest calculator, found at <https://www.calculatorsoup.com/calculators/financial/compound-interest-calculator.php>, arrives at nearly<sup>16</sup> the same result when annually compounding interest on A for 6 and 199/365 years, B for 5 and 199/365 years, and C for 4 and 199/365 years.

Liquidated Damages

OHR adopts ALJ Carmichael's finding that liquidated damages are appropriately awarded to Complainant under the DCFMLA, pursuant to D.C. Code § 32-509(b)(6)(B)(ii), for the reasons explained by ALJ Carmichael. (Third Proposed Decision and Order at 23). Accordingly, based on the aforementioned calculations, Complainant is entitled to liquidated damages of $208,861.68.

Additional Damages under the DCHRA

OHR adopts ALJ Carmichael's finding that Complainant is not entitled to any additional damages under the DCHRA, for the reasons explained by ALJ Carmichael. (Third Proposed Decision and Order at 23-26). However, OHR notes that in a DCHRA claim against the government, the applicable citations are 4 DCMR § 126.1(a) for back pay and § 126.1(d) for withheld benefits.

CONCLUSION

Based on the foregoing, and pursuant to 4 DCMR § 120.1-3 and 4 DCMR § 1625.1-3, it is hereby:

ORDERED, that Complainant is awarded $417,723.36 in total damages, consisting of $166,007.58 in actual damages, $42,854.10 in prejudgment interest, and $208,861.68 in liquidated damages, to be transferred to Complainant, less applicable state and federal tax withholdings,<sup>17</sup> pending judicial review.<sup>18</sup>

However, for a resident alien, sole proprietor, or disregarded entity, see the instructions for Part I, later. For other entities, it is your employer identification number (EIN). If you do not have a number, see How to get a TIN, later.

1. The number shown on this form is my correct taxpayer identification number (or I am waiting for a number to be issued to me); and
2. I am not subject to backup withholding because: (a) I am exempt from backup withholding, or (b) I have not been notified by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) that I am subject to backup withholding as a result of a failure to report all interest or dividends, or (c) the IRS has notified me that I am no longer subject to backup withholding; and

Description: Ms. Schofield filed a discrimination complaint with the Office of Human Rights (OHR). OHR sustained a DCFMLA violation and awarded damages finding that, but for MPD's DCFLMA violation, Ms. Schofield's term position would have been renewed though her mandatory retirement age of 64.

Superior Court upheld OHR's damages award of $417,723.36, consisting of $166,007.58 for lost wages, annual leave, and sick leave; $42,854.10 in prejudgment interest at a rate of 4% per annum (compounded annually); and liquidated damages of $203,861.68 (under D.C. Code § 32-509(6)(B)(6)(ii)). Current payment request is for prejudgment interest and liquidated damages only ($42,854.10 in prejudgment interest + liquidated damages of $203,861.68) = $246,715.78

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA CIVIL DIVISION

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA : Case Number: 2017 CA 004064 P(MPA)
METROPOLITAN POLICE DEPARTMENT :

v. : Judge: Florence Y. Pan

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA OFFICE :

ORDER

This matter comes before the Court on petitioner District of Columbia Metropolitan Police Department’s Petition for Review (“MPD Pet.”), filed on June 12, 2017; petitioner’s Brief in Support (“MPD Brief”), filed on December 16, 2019; respondent District of Columbia Office of Human Right’s Response Brief (“OHR Resp.”), filed on January 30, 2020; and Intervenor Anita Schofield’s Response Brief (“Intervenor Resp.”), filed on January 30, 2020. The Court has considered the papers, the relevant law, and the entire agency record. For the following reasons, the Petition for Review is denied.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Anita Schofield was hired as a Senior Police Officer (“SPO”) at the D.C. Metropolitan Police Department (“MPD”) on August 22, 2005, after retiring as an MPD Detective with 25 years of service. See Administrative Record (“A.R.”) at 155 (Proposed Decision and Order), 388-89; see also id. at 2 (Final Order on the merits) (adopting findings of fact in the Proposed Decision and Order). As an SPO, Ms. Schofield was assigned to work in the Court Property Office of the Evidence Control Branch, where she sorted evidence and transported evidence from MPD’s property office to local courts. See id. at 256.

On July 13, 2011, Ms. Schofield’s physician told her that she needed hip replacement surgery as soon as possible to address pain caused by arthritis. See id. at 158. On July 14 or 15,

2011, Ms. Schofield called her supervising Lieutenant at MPD, told him that she planned to have surgery on July 18, and informed him that she would need to miss two weeks of work. See id. On the call, the Lieutenant did not tell Ms. Schofield that she needed to complete paperwork related to her leave; but on July 18, 2011, he requested that she go to the office to fill out paperwork. See id. Ms. Schofield was unable to do so because her surgery was scheduled for that day. See id.<sup>1</sup>

Ms. Schofield received a medical certification and D.C. Family and Medical Leave Act (“DCFMLA”) paperwork from her physician on July 11, 2011, which she submitted to MPD no later than August 11, 2011, along with a signed request for DCFMLA leave. See id. at 159. On August 11, 2011, MPD sent two sergeants to Ms. Schofield’s home to take her service weapon. See id. Ms. Schofield was also given written notice that she was entitled to 16 weeks of DCFMLA leave, that her job would not be affected until she exhausted this leave, and that she needed to submit certain DCFMLA forms. See id. Ms. Schofield submitted an updated medical certification form to MPD between August 11 and September 1, 2011. See id.

Ms. Schofield returned to work on September 26, 2011. See id. Although she was officially placed on light-duty status and was not permitted to carry a weapon, she resumed her normal duties. See id. MPD did not respond to Ms. Schofield’s DCFMLA request until October of 2011, when it sent her a memorandum dated September 13, 2011, denying her request as untimely. See id. at 159-60. On November 23, 2011, MPD told Ms. Schofield that she needed to submit additional DCFMLA forms by November 25, 2011. See id. Ms. Schofield submitted the requested paperwork on November 25, 2011. See id. That same day, MPD informed Ms.

Schofield that it would be placing her on sick leave effective November 28, 2011, and terminating her at the end of her leave on December 9, 2011. See id.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On July 3, 2012, Ms. Schofield filed a discrimination complaint with the D.C. Office of Human Rights (“OHR”), asserting that MPD had violated her rights under the DCFMLA, the Americans with Disabilities Act, and the D.C. Human Rights Act (“DCHRA”). See A.R. at 155. OHR investigated the complaint, and issued a Letter of Determination on December 23, 2013, finding probable cause on all three allegations. See id. Ms. Schofield and MPD elected to have the case resolved by a summary determination. See id. at 156. On April 30, 2014, the case was forwarded to OHR Chief Administrative Law Judge David C. Simmons (“CALJ Simmons”), who reviewed the administrative record and made a recommendation for a final decision. See id.

CALJ Simmons issued a Proposed Decision and Order on February 15, 2017, finding that MPD interfered with Ms. Schofield’s DCFMLA rights by failing to timely inform her of her right to DCMLA leave, and then denying her leave request. See id. at 155-173. CALJ Simmons also found that MPD retaliated against Ms. Schofield when it notified her that she would be terminated on the same day that she attempted to exercise her DCFMLA rights. See id. CALJ Simmons did not find that MPD discriminated against Ms. Schofield because of a disability. See id. Ms. Schofield filed Exceptions to the Proposed Decision and Order on March 15, 2017, and an addendum thereto on March 15, 2017. See id. at 180-188.

On May 12, 2017, OHR issued a Final Order on the merits of Ms. Schofield’s claims. See id. at 1-7. OHR adopted CALJ Simmons’s Proposed Decision and Order, except for CALJ Simmons’s discussion and conclusion with respect to Ms. Schofield’s discrimination claim. See id. at 6. OHR found that Ms. Schofield met her burden to prove that MPD engaged in disability discrimination by terminating her, instead of providing a reasonable accommodation for her disability of arthritis and a hip replacement. See id. OHR further ordered Ms. Schofield and MPD to file calculations of Ms. Schofield's damages. See id.

On June 12, 2017, MPD filed the instant Petition for Review of the Final Order. See MPD Pet. On September 9, 2017, Ms. Schofield filed a Notice of Intervention. On September 26, 2017, the parties jointly requested a stay of the instant proceedings until OHR issued a final decision on damages. The Court granted that request on September 29, 2017. See Order, dated September 29, 2017.

Ms. Schofield filed her damage calculations with OHR on June 12, 2017; and MPD filed its calculations on June 30, 2017. See A.R. at 8-34, 75-153. On February 1, 2018, CALJ Simmons's issued an initial Proposed Order on Damages, which recommended that Ms. Schofield recover for her DCFMLA claims (1) $19,219.68 for lost wages from December 10, 2011 (the day after she was terminated), to March 31, 2012 (the end of her contract with MPD); (2) $4,114.99 for the cash equivalent of annual leave that she would have accumulated before the end of her contract if she had not been terminated; and (3) $25,232.91 in liquidated damages, for a total of $50,465.82. See id. at 1075-98. CALJ Simmons found that Ms. Schofield failed to mitigate her damages by conducting a reasonably diligent search for substantially similar employment after her termination. See id. at 1086-87. Thus, CALJ Simmons determined that the appropriate period for calculating Ms. Schofield's damages was from December 10, 2011, to March 31, 2012, and not through March 26, 2014, the date of her mandatory retirement. See id.

On April 19, 2018, OHR remanded the case to CALJ Simmons for additional briefing and findings on Ms. Schofield's efforts to mitigate her damages. See id. at 1048-51. Ms. Schofield submitted evidence of her mitigation efforts on May 4, 2018. See id. at 1042-47.

CALJ Simmons issued a Second Proposed Order on Damages on June 26, 2018, finding that Ms. Schofield successfully mitigated her damages, and noting that MPD had not presented any contrary evidence. See id. at 1017-31. Accordingly, CALJ Simmons found that Ms. Schofield was entitled to “lost wages from April 1, 2012[,] until March 26, 2014, plus the value of her annual leave and interest (at 4% per annum) thereon;” as well as “lost wages from December 9, 2011[,] to March 31, 2012, interest thereon (at 4% per annum), plus liquidated damages equal to that entire amount” and 50% of her lost wages from December 9, 2011, to March 26, 2014, as compensation for her pain and suffering. See id. at 1028-29. Because CALJ Simmons was unable to calculate the monetary value of these damages based on the evidence in the record, he further found that Ms. Schofield should be required to produce a “worksheet” calculating her damages in accordance with his findings. See id.

On July 11, 2018, OHR learned that MPD had never received the first Proposed Order on Damages, OHR’s remand order from April 19, 2018, Ms. Schofield’s evidence of her mitigation efforts, and the Second Proposed Order on Damages. See A.R. at 1015-16. Accordingly, OHR sent the missing documents to MPD, and remanded the case back to CALJ Simmons. See id. On August 6, 2018, CALJ Simmons set a new briefing schedule to allow the parties to fully address Ms. Schofield’s damages. See id. at 1006-09. MPD filed a new brief on damages on September 20, 2018, and Ms. Schofield filed her response on October 25, 2018. See id. at 774-988.

On April 5, 2019, the case was transferred from CALJ Simmons to Administrative Law Judge Toya Carmichael (“ALJ Carmichael”). See id. at 713. On May 10, 2019, ALJ Carmichael issued a Third Proposed Order on Damages. See id. at 744-73. ALJ Carmichael concluded that (1) the time frame for calculating Ms. Schofield’s damages should be from December 10, 2011

(the day after she was fired), to March 31, 2012 (the end of her contract), because the evidence did not support a finding that her contract would be renewed; (2) Ms. Schofield properly mitigated her damages; (3) Ms. Schofield is entitled to damages of $57,374.30 under the DCFMLA; and (4) Ms. Schofield is not entitled to any damages under the DCHRA. See id. at 771. Ms. Schofield submitted her exceptions to the Third Proposed Order on Damages on May 30, 2019; MPD did not submit any exceptions. See id. at 720-743.

OHR issued a Final Order on Damages on August 19, 2019, adopting in part ALJ Carmichael's Third Proposed Order on Damages. See id. at 710-19. OHR adopted ALJ Carmichael's findings of fact, as well as her determinations that Ms. Schofield mitigated her damages and is not entitled to damages under the DCHRA. See id. at 710, 714-15, 718. OHR, however, found that the proper period for calculating Ms. Schofield's damages is from the day after she was fired to the date of her mandatory retirement -- December 10, 2011, to March 26, 2014. See id. at 713-714. Accordingly, OHR found that Ms. Schofield was entitled to damages under the DCFMLA totaling $417,723.36, and consisting of $166,007.58 for lost wages, annual leave, and sick time; $42,854.10 in prejudgment interest at a rate of 4% per annum (compounded annually); and liquidated damages of $203,861.68. See id. at 716-18.

APPLICABLE LAW

When reviewing a decision from an administrative agency, there is a "presumption of correctness of the agency's decision" and the burden is placed on the petitioner to demonstrate agency error. See Cooper v. District of Columbia Dep't of Emp't Servs., 588 A.2d 1172, 1174 (D.C. 1991); see also D.C. Code § 2-510(a) (authorizing judicial review of D.C. agency decisions); 4 DCMR § 1625.14 ("A party may appeal the final decision of OHR to the Superior Court of the District of Columbia"). The Court "must affirm OHR's action if it is supported by substantial evidence and otherwise in accordance with law.” See D.C. Dep’t of Pub. Works v. D.C. Office of Human Rights, 195 A.3d 483, 490 (D.C. 2018). “Substantial evidence is relevant evidence that a reasonable mind might accept as adequate to support a conclusion.” D.C. Dep’t of Pub. Works, 195 A.3d at 490. “The corollary of this proposition, however, is that we are not obliged to stand aside and affirm an administrative determination which reflects a misconception of the relevant law or a faulty application of the law.” See Zenian v. D.C. Office of Employee Appeals, 598 A.2d 1161, 1166 (D.C. 1991). The Court “will disturb the administrative finding . . . only if the record compels a contrary conclusion, meaning that the administrative finding was contrary to the overwhelming weight of the evidence in the record as a whole.” D.C. Dep’t of Pub. Works, 195 A.3d at 490.

ANALYSIS

The issue before the Court is narrow: MPD argues that the Final Order on Damages should be reversed because the time period OHR used to calculate Ms. Schofield’s damages is incorrect and unsupported by the record. See generally MPD Brief. OHR and Ms. Schofield respond that OHR’s determination on damages is supported by substantial evidence. See generally OHR Resp.; Intervenor Resp. The Court finds that MPD has not met its burden to show agency error.

An employer that has violated the DCFMLA is required to pay the affected employee “[a]ny wages, salary, employment benefits, or other compensation denied or lost to the employee due to the violation plus interest.” See D.C. Code § 32-509(b)(6). The employer must also pay “[a]n amount equal to the greater of:” the employee’s denied or lost wages, salary, benefits, and other compensation; or “[c]onsequential damages not to exceed an amount equal to 3 times” the amount of lost or denied compensation “plus any medical expenses not covered by the health insurance of the employee.” See id. Generally, a party must establish damages to a reasonable certainty. See Magdalene Campbell & Fort Lincoln Civic Ass’n v. Fort Lincoln New Town Corp., 55 A.3d 379, 387 (D.C. 2012) (“[a party] must establish both the fact of damages and the amount of damages with reasonable certainty. . . . [W]hat is required is some evidence which allows the trier of fact to make a reasoned judgment”) (internal citations omitted).

OHR determined that Ms. Schofield is entitled to back pay for the period from December 10, 2011, to March 26, 2014 – i.e., from the day after she was fired until the date of her mandatory retirement. See A.R. at 713-714. OHR found that MPD’s custom and practice of regularly renewing Ms. Schofield’s contract shows that Ms. Schofield had a reasonable expectation of having her contract renewed until March of 2014. See id. at 714 (citing Howard v. Best, 484 A.2d 958, 974 (D.C. 1984) (“custom and practice are relevant in the absence of an explicit [contract] provision” to determine whether an employee’s contract would be renewed)).

OHR relied on evidence that Ms. Schofield’s contract had been renewed yearly since 2005, and that she resumed the normal duties of her position when she returned to work after her surgery. See id. Because Ms. Schofield met her burden to show that her termination was discriminatory, OHR held that “any refusal, albeit ‘discretionary,’ to renew her contract shortly thereafter would likely constitute discrimination or retaliation and thus cannot legitimately truncate” Ms. Schofield’s recovery. See id.

OHR’s findings are supported by substantial evidence in the record. There is no dispute that Ms. Schofield’s contract was renewed annually from 2005 to 2011. See MPD Brief at 2; OHR Resp. at 7; A.R. at 750. The record also reflects that Ms. Schofield, her direct supervisor, her commanding officer, and other MPD employees all stated that Ms. Schofield returned to work and completed her normal duties following her surgery. See A.R. at 263 (Statement of Lieutenant Derek Gray), 266 (Statement of Nathan Sims, MPD Evidence Control Branch Inspector), 270 (Statement of Diana Hains, MPD Human Resources Director), 273 (Statement of Leeann Turner, MPD Corporate Support Bureau Executive Director). Although she was officially on limited-duty status upon her return, Ms. Schofield explained that this only impacted her ability to carry a firearm. See id. at 723.

MPD argues that the record shows that Ms. Schofield would not have met the physical requirements necessary for her contract to be renewed. See MPD Brief at 9-13. MPD relies on the physical standards set forth in the Updated 2011 Medical Guidelines of the Police and Fire Clinic (“the Guidelines”). See MPD Brief at 9 (citing 6A DCMR § 106.4; A.R. 821); see also A.R. at 819-41 (Guidelines). The Guidelines classify Ms. Schofield’s conditions of arthritis and a hip replacement as conditions that “could preclude” Ms. Schofield from performing the essential functions of a police officer. See A.R. at 819-41. But the Guidelines are not “strict standards,” nor are they “so excessively stringent as to needlessly prevent . . . an Incumbent from continuing as an active Police Officer” without an individualized assessment of the officer’s condition. See id. at 820. MPD fails to address Ms. Schofield’s ability to work in her specific assignment, as an SPO in the courthouse evidence control room, or the evidence in the record that she successfully performed her duties after returning to work after the surgery. See generally MPD Brief. Nor has MPD provided any evidence that Ms. Schofield was assessed according to the Guidelines and found unfit for duty as a SPO. See generally id.; see also Intervenor Resp. at 4; OHR Resp. at 10; A.R. at 820 (Guidelines are “intended to permit and foster the individualized assessment of each individual”). Accordingly, the Guidelines do not contradict OHR’s finding that Ms. Schofield could have reasonably expected her contract to be renewed for two more years, until her mandatory retirement.

The record evidence on Ms. Schofield's health also reasonably supports OHR's decision. Ms. Schofield's own physician expected her to make a full recovery as early as January 2012, and no later than April 2012. See A.R. at 985. When Ms. Schofield visited the D.C. Police and Fire Clinic on November 22, 2011, the physician's assessment of Ms. Schofield was that her condition was "improved." See id. at 986. The physician noted that although Ms. Schofield had "difficulty with going up the stairs" and was "unable to squat" at that time, she had "no new complaint," and her "hip pain has continued to improve." See id. Thus, neither the Guidelines nor evidence of Ms. Schofield's health show that "that the administrative finding was contrary to the overwhelming weight of the evidence in the record as a whole." See D.C. Dep't of Pub. Works, 195 A.3d at 490.

Given the substantial evidence in the record supporting OHR's conclusion, the Court affirms OHR's finding that Ms. Schofield is entitled to back pay and other relevant damages for the period of December 10, 2011, to March 26, 2014.

Accordingly, this 30th day of March, 2020, it is hereby

ORDERED that the Petition for Review of Agency Decision is DENIED; and it is further ORDERED that all future events scheduled in this matter are vacated, and the case is closed.

THE OFFICE OF HUMAN RIGHTS' FINAL ORDER ON DAMAGES, ADOPTING IN PART AND MODIFYING IN PART, THE INDEPENDENT HEARING
EXAMINER'S THIRD PROPOSED DECISION AND ORDER ON DAMAGES

The D.C. Office of Human Rights (OHR) has completed its review of Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Carmichael's Third Proposed Decision and Order on Damages, dated May 10, 2019, submitted to the Director's attention pursuant to 4 DCMR §§ 119.1 and 1624.1. On May 30, 2019, Complainant submitted her Exceptions to Third Proposed Decision and Order Regarding Damages ("Compl.'s Exceptions"). Respondent did not submit any exceptions. Pursuant to 4 DCMR §§ 120.1-.3 and 1625.1-.3, OHR hereby issues its Final Order on Damages as follows:

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On July 3, 2012, Anita Schofield ("Ms. Schofield" or "Complainant"), a former senior police officer ("SPO") at the Metropolitan Police Department ("MPD" or "Respondent"), filed a complaint with OHR. In it, she asserted that MPD (1) interfered with her rights under the District of Columbia Family Medical Leave Act ("DCFMLA") and the Family Medical Leave Act ("FMLA")<sup>1</sup>; (2) retaliated against her for asserting her DFMLA rights; and (3) discriminated against her on the basis of disability in violation of the Americans with Disabilities Act ("ADA") and the District of Columbia Human Rights Act ("DCHRA"). (Compl.'s Charge (July 3, 2012)). OHR investigated Complainant's allegations and found probable cause on all three claims. (Letter of Determination (Dec. 24, 2013) ["LOD"] at 23). On April 30, 2014, the matter was assigned to Chief Administrative Law Judge (CALJ) David C. Simmons of the D.C. Commission on Human Rights ("Commission") to sit as an Independent Hearing Examiner (IHE).

On April 14, 2015, the parties agreed to forfeit their rights to an administrative hearing and to resolve all claims through a summary determination proceeding. In cases against the government,

“[a]fter the probable cause determination and failure of the conciliation efforts, the Director may make a summary determination on the merits of a complaint based solely upon information in the complaint file.” 4 DCMR § 115.1 (emphasis added).<sup>2</sup> CALJ Simmons issued a Proposed Decision and Order recommending that the Director find on the merits in favor of Complainant with respect to her DCFMLA interference and retaliation claims. (Proposed Decision and Order (Feb. 15, 2017) [“PDO”]). As authorized by regulation, see 4 DCMR § 119.3, Complainant filed exceptions to the PDO on March 10, 2017, and added an addendum thereto on March 15, 2017.

On May 11, 2017, OHR issued a final order on the merits of Complainant’s claim. (Final Order Adopting in Part, and Modifying in Part, the Hearing Examiner’s Proposed Decision and Order (May 11, 2017) [“FO”]). In addition to adopting CALJ Simmons’ finding that Complainant succeeded on both of her DCFMLA claims, OHR also determined that Complainant succeeded on her DCHRA claim of illegal termination based on disability. (FO at 2-5). OHR ordered Complainant to provide information regarding her alternative employment, if any; her MPD salary; her filing costs, if applicable; and her additional medical expenses, if applicable. (FO at 6). Finally, OHR ordered MPD to submit its estimation of Complainant’s damages no later than 30 days following the date of the FO. (Id.).

On June 12, 2017, Complainant filed her damage calculations. (Complainant’s Damages and Calculation (June 12, 2017) [“Schofield’s Damages Calculations”]). The same day, MPD petitioned the Superior Court of the District of Columbia (“D.C. Superior Court”) to review OHR’s FO. (Response of the Metropolitan Police Department from Order Requiring a Response at Ex. A (June 30, 2017) [“MPD Response”]). Thereafter, on June 30, 2017, MPD filed its damages calculation. (MPD Response). On September 25, 2017, the parties jointly filed a motion in D.C. Superior Court to stay the proceedings pending the issuance of a final decision from OHR calculating damages. (Joint Motion to Stay Proceedings (Sept. 25, 2017)). Four days later, the D.C. Superior Court granted the parties’ joint motion to stay. (Order Granting Joint Motion to Stay Proceedings (Sept. 29, 2017)).

On February 1, 2018, CALJ Simmons issued a Proposed Decision and Order on Complainant’s Damages. (Proposed Decision and Order on Complainant’s Damages (Feb. 1, 2018) [“First Proposed Damages Order”]). He recommended the Director of OHR find that Complainant was entitled to recover her lost wages from December 10, 2011, to March 31, 2012, amounting to $19,219.68;<sup>3</sup> the cash equivalent of annual leave she would have accumulated between December

10, 2011, and March 31, 2012, amounting to $4,114.99 as of June 30, 2017; and liquidated damages equal to $25,232.91, the sum of her lost wages, annual leave, and interest. Accordingly, Complainant's total damages on her DCFMLA claims were $50,465.82. (First Proposed Damages Order at 17). CALJ Simmons suggested the Director of OHR limit Complainant's recovery, in pertinent part, because (1) she failed to produce evidence of her efforts to mitigate her damages, (see id. at 12-13); and (2) her annual contract was not subject to automatic renewal. (Id. at 13-15). He also respectfully requested that the Director reconsider her ruling that Respondent's actions amounted to disability discrimination under the DCHRA. (Id. at 17-20).

On April 19, 2018, the Director remanded the case to CALJ Simmons to determine Complainant's mitigation efforts, because the parties had not had a meaningful opportunity to present evidence on that issue. (Order Remanding Matter to Independent Hearing Examiner (Apr. 19, 2018) at 1 ["First Remand Order"]).<sup>4</sup> The Director also reaffirmed her finding that MPD violated Complainant's rights under the DCHRA. (Id. at 2). On May 4, 2018, Complainant submitted evidence of her mitigation efforts. (Compl. Statement Regarding Her Efforts to Mitigate Her Damages (May 4, 2018) ["Mitigation Efforts"]).

On June 26, 2018, CALJ Simmons issued a Second Proposed Damages Order, finding Complainant successfully mitigated her damages and noting that Respondent did not present any contrary evidence.<sup>5</sup> (Second Proposed Decision and Order on Complainant's Damages (June 26, 2018) at 4-5 ["Second Proposed Damages Order"]). CALJ Simmons also concluded that Complainant was "entitled to the full extent of her [DCFMLA] back-pay award," until March 26, 2014 (the day of Complainant's mandatory retirement). (Second Proposed Damages Order at 5-6). However, CALJ Simmons held Complainant was not entitled to liquidated damages, concluding that MPD was entitled to a good-faith reduction for reasonably believing Complainant's employment contract would not have been renewed automatically from March 31, 2012 (the last day of her 2011-12 contract) through March 26, 2014 (the date she would have been subject to mandatory retirement). (Id. at 6-7). As for backpay under the DCHRA, CALJ Simmons found Complainant could not receive such an award because it would amount to double recovery since she already was entitled to backpay under the DCFMLA. (Id. at 7). Finally, regarding compensatory damages under the DCHRA, CALJ Simmons found Complainant was entitled to half of what she would have earned between December 9, 2011 (the date of her unlawful termination) and March 26, 2014 (the date of mandatory retirement). (Id. at 7-8).

On July 11, 2018, OHR became aware that MPD had neither received nor been given an opportunity to respond to the following documents: First Proposed Damages Order (Feb. 2, 2018), Complainant's Exceptions to the First Proposed Damages Order (Feb. 22, 2018), OHR's First Remand Order (Apr. 19, 2018), Complainant's Mitigation Efforts (May 4, 2018), and Second Proposed Damages Order (June 26, 2018). That same day, OHR remanded the case back to CALJ Simmons and sent the above documents to Complainant and MPD. (Order Remanding Matter to Independent Hearing Examiner (July 16, 2018) [“Second Remand Order”] at 1; Order Setting Briefing Schedule at 2 (Aug. 6, 2018) [“Briefing Schedule”]).

<sup>4</sup> On February 22, 2018, Complainant submitted Exceptions to Judge Simmons' First Proposed Damages Order in which she asserted she was unaware of her need to produce evidence of her mitigation efforts.

On July 26, 2018, CALJ Simmons held a status conference with the parties to determine how to proceed. (Briefing Schedule at 1). During the conference, CALJ Simmons determined MPD needed an opportunity to respond to the following issues: (1) whether Complainant was entitled to damages under the DCFMLA including annual leave from December 11, 2011 through March 26, 2014, with 4% interest; (2) whether Complainant’s sick leave should be included in her DCFMLA award calculation; (3) whether Complainant was entitled to liquidated damages under the DCFMLA from April 1, 2012 through March 26, 2014; (4) whether Complainant was entitled to compensatory damages for her DCHRA disability discrimination claim, calculated at 50% of the wages benefits should would have received between December 9, 2011 and March 26, 2014; and (5) whether Complainant had successfully attempted to mitigate her damages. (Briefing Schedule at 2-3). On September 20, 2018, MPD filed its brief based on the Briefing Schedule. (Respondent Metropolitan Police Department’s Brief Regarding Unaddressed Issues (Sept. 20, 2018) [“MPD Brief”]). On October 25, 2018, Complainant filed her response to the MPD Brief. (Complainant’s Reply to Respondent’s Brief on Unaddressed Issues (Oct. 25, 2018) [“Schofield Brief”]).

MODIFICATION, IN PART, OF IHE’S THIRD PROPOSED DECISION AND ORDER

ALJ Carmichael’s Third Proposed Order on Damages

On April 5, 2019, this case was transferred to ALJ Carmichael. On May 10, 2019, ALJ Carmichael submitted the Third Proposed Decision and Order on Complainant’s Damages (“Third Proposed Decision and Order”), and the parties were given 20 days to submit exceptions. On May 30, 2019, Complainant submitted her Exceptions to the Third Proposed Decision and Order On Damages (“Compl.’s Exceptions”). Respondent did not submit any exceptions.

ALJ Carmichael’s Third Proposed Decision and Order concluded the following: (1) the proper time-frames for calculating Complainant’s damages are from December 10, 2011 to March 31, 2012, for back pay, annual leave, and sick leave, and December 10, 2011, through June 26, 2018, for interest; (2) Complainant adequately mitigated her damages; (3) Complainant is entitled to damages amounting to $57,374.30 under the DCFMLA; and (4) Complainant is not entitled to any additional damages under the DCHRA. (Third Proposed Decision and Order at 27). The instant Order adopts in part and modifies in part ALJ Carmichael’s proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law.

Findings of Fact

OHR adopts ALJ Carmichael’s findings of fact. (Third Proposed Decision and Order at 6-9).

Wage and Benefits Recovery Period

OHR modifies ALJ Carmichael’s recommendation with respect to the proper time period for calculation of damages. Although ALJ Carmichael recommended that the recovery period be confined to a roughly three-month period, between December 10, 2011 (the day after Complainant's termination), until March 31, 2012 (the end of Complainant's term appointment),<sup>6</sup> OHR finds that Complainant's proper wage and benefits (sick and annual leave) recovery period is from December 10, 2011, to March 26, 2014 (the date when Complainant would have been mandatorily retire), as explained more fully below.<sup>7</sup>

In the absence of explicit language, courts may use custom and practice to determine whether an employee had a reasonable expectation of continued employment. See generally Howard Univ. v. Best, 484 A.2d 958, 974 (D.C. 1984). Complainant's yearly contract had been renewed at the discretion of the Chief of Police without challenge or controversy each year since 2005 (MPD Response at 6), thereby creating a reasonable expectation that Complainant's contract would be renewed again. Complainant returned to work on September 26, 2011. (LOD at 4). Although she had requested to work on limited duty status, Complainant had actually resumed the normal duties of her position that she had been performing before taking leave. (Id.)<sup>8</sup> OHR previously found, on the merits, that Complainant had met her burden to prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, that Respondent's asserted reason for her termination was pretext for disability discrimination. (FO at 5). Thus, any refusal, albeit "discretionary," to renew her contract shortly thereafter would likely constitute discrimination or retaliation and thus cannot legitimately truncate Complainant's recovery.<sup>9</sup> Ultimately, Respondent offers only speculation, and no legitimate reason, why it would not have renewed Complainant's contract after previously renewing it each year since 2005. Complainant is entitled to recover for the full period of time, until March 26, 2014, that she reasonably expected to continue working, were it but for the discriminatory act.

Complainant's Mitigation of Damages

OHR adopts ALJ Carmichael's finding that Complainant successfully mitigated her damages, including ALJ Carmichael's conclusion that Respondent has not proven that Complainant did not mitigate her damages. (Third Proposed Decision and Order at 12-14). Specifically, ALJ Carmichael found that Complainant was not required to apply for particular positions, i.e., public school officer and Senior Police Officer via Special Order 101.12, as Respondent had contended in its MPD Brief, dated September 20, 2018,<sup>10</sup> noting that such opportunities were permissive but

<sup>7</sup> There appears to be no dispute that Complainant's mandatory retirement date was March 26, 2014. (Third Proposed Decision and Order at 4).

<sup>8</sup> Respondent contends that where an SPO is unable to perform "the full range of duties" required of a member of the Department, Respondent shall "retire the member as disabled regardless of whether the member is performing useful and efficient service that are less than the full range of duties." D.C. Code § 5-709(c). However, Ms. Schofield returned to work and performed "the normal duties of her position that she performed before taking leave," despite being advised to the contrary by her physician. (Third Proposed Decision and Order at 7).

<sup>9</sup> See, e.g., Barnabas v. Bd. of Trs. of Univ. of D.C., 686 F. Supp. 2d 95, 105-06 (D.D.C. 2010) (jury could infer that University's reduction of the plaintiff's teaching load was the first opportunity it had to retaliate seven months later).

<sup>10</sup> Respondent contends that Complainant failed to mitigate her damages because Complainant failed to avail herself of the "statutorily-created [opportunities] for retired police officers," namely the Special Police Officer position for D.C. Public Schools and the Senior Police Officer position. (MPD Brief at 9).

not required. (Id. at 14).<sup>11</sup> ALJ Carmichael also noted that Complainant requested reinstatement; Respondent did not offer Complainant reinstatement; and Complainant had adequately searched for comparable jobs. (Id.).

In addition to adopting ALJ Carmichael's recommended finding regarding Complainant's mitigation of damages, OHR herein delineates more fully Complainant's mitigation efforts and also cites to an applicable legal standard for damages mitigation under the DCFMLA. Although OHR could not locate a D.C. Court of Appeals case regarding the duty to mitigate damages under the DCFMLA or out of the D.C. Circuit under the federal counterpart, The Family & Medical Leave Act of 1993 (FMLA), the Fourth Circuit has found that the duty to mitigate applies in FMLA actions. An FMLA plaintiff has a duty to mitigate his damages by diligently "seeking and accepting new employment substantially equivalent to that from which [they] were discharged" Miller v. AT&T Corp., 250 F.3d 820, 838-39 (4th Cir. 2001) (adopting the duty to mitigate standard from Title VII, quoting Brady v. Thurston Motor Lines, Inc. 753 F.2d 1269, 1273 (4th Cir. 1985)); see also McDonnell v. Miller Oil Co., 110 F.3d 60 (4th Cir. 1997).<sup>12</sup> Significantly, and as delineated by ALJ Carmichael, the [Respondent] bears the burden of demonstrating that [Complainant] has failed to fulfill the duty to mitigate. Martin v. Cavalier Hotel Corp., 48 F.3d 1343, 1358 (4th Cir. 1995). Further, a Complainant in a discrimination action "need not go into another line of work, accept a demotion, or take a demeaning position," so as to mitigate. Ford Motor Co. v. EEOC, 458 U.S. 219, 231 (1982).

Complainant contends that pursuant to D.C.'s Department of Employment Services ("DOES") requirements, she contacted at least two to three employers each week, submitted detailed, certified written records outlining her job search to DOES, and signed a certificate with each report, so as to be eligible for unemployment benefits.<sup>13</sup> Complainant was paid unemployment insurance benefits from December 30, 2011, through April 20, 2013. (Mitigation Efforts at Exhibit A). Complainant states that she conducted daily searches for law enforcement and security positions in the employment section of the Washington Post (both online and in hard copy), Monster.com, Indeed.com, and Careerbuilder.com. (Id. at 2). Complainant submitted a copy of the resume she used with applications. (Mitigation Efforts at Exhibit C). Throughout 2013 and 2014, Complainant contends that she applied for several customer service, cashier, and security positions. (Id. at 3). Accordingly, based on the aforementioned efforts of Complainant, both CAIJ Simmons' and ALJ Carmichael's assessments, and the applicable legal standards, Complainant mitigated her damages as required.

<sup>11</sup> Respondent also appears to argue that Complainant failed to mitigate by purportedly not applying for the same job from which she was fired, and yet Respondent does not contend that it offered to return her to work and acknowledges that Complainant alleges that she actually did request reinstatement. (MPD Brief at 9). Respondent also disputes the adequacy of Complainant's job search efforts, which ALJ Carmichael found to be sufficient (Third Proposed Order at 13-14) and which OHR herein describes more fully.

<sup>12</sup> While OHR is not bound by the legal decisions interpreting the federal statute, those decisions may be considered persuasive authority. See Lenaerts v. District of Columbia Dept. of Employment Svs., 545 A.2d 1234, 1238 (D.C. 1988); see also Chang v. Inst. For Public-Private P-ships, Inc., 846 A.2d 318 (D.C. 2004) (asserting a D.C. Court of Appeals opinion that the federal FMLA is used to interpret the DCFMLA).

<sup>13</sup> The certification that Ms. Schofield was required to sign when she submitted her weekly job search reports to DOES states: "I hereby certify that these statements are true and correct. I understand that the law provides penalties for false statements to obtain or increase benefits." (Mitigation Efforts at 2).

OHR adopts in part ALJ Carmichael's finding that Complainant is entitled to damages under the DCFMLA, including ALJ Carmichael's finding that Complainant is entitled to back pay, as well as the cash equivalent of annual and sick leave she would have accrued,<sup>14</sup> and ALJ Carmichael's finding that Complainant's recovery need not be offset for unemployment and annuity payments, for the reasons explained by ALJ Carmichael. (Third Proposed Decision and Order at 15-22).

However, OHR modifies ALJ Carmichael's finding to the extent that, as explained supra at 5, the calculation must be made based on a longer recovery period. Specifically, based on the record, Complainant is entitled to wages and benefits based on a salary of $61,698 from December 10, 2011, to March 31, 2013, and a salary of $64,166 from April 1, 2013, to March 26, 2014.<sup>15</sup> Accordingly, Complainant's back pay and benefits awards are delineated below. OHR notes that the recovery period has been divided into six smaller periods, so that an accounting could be made for the change in salary, two-week pay period increments for annual and sick leave, and annual compounding of interest.

<sup>15</sup> (Complainant's Damages and Calculations, dated June 12, 2017, at 7-10). Respondent confirmed that the base salary numbers Complainant proffered were accurate for the requisite time periods, although Respondent listed the latter period's salary as one dollar higher. (MPD Response Brief at 3-4). OHR will use Complainant's number, as it is closer to an actual 4% increase on $61,698, which would be $64,165.92.

Prejudgment Interest

OHR adopts in part ALJ Carmichael’s finding that Complainant is entitled to prejudgment interest from December 10, 2011, through June 26, 2018 at 4% per annum (Third Proposed Decision and Order at 22), for the reasons explained by ALJ Carmichael, but OHR modifies the finding to calculate the interest to be compounded annually, pursuant to Jean-Baptiste v. District of Columbia 958 F. Supp. 2d 37, 48 (D.D.C. July 19, 2013), as follows.

|                |   |             |   |  |

$$B_i = (A + A_i + B) \times 4\%$$

$$C_i = (A + A_i + B + B_i + C) \times 4\%$$

$$D_i = (A + A_i + B + B_i + C + C_i) \times 4\%$$

$$E_i = (A + A_i + B + B_i + C + C_i + D_i) \times 4\%$$

$$F_i = (A + A_i + B + B_i + C + C_i + D_i + E_i) \times 4\%$$

$$G_i = (A + A_i + B + B_i + C + C_i + D_i + E_i + F_i) \times 4\% \times 199/365$$

$$\text{Total interest} = A_i + B_i + C_i + D_i + E_i + F_i + G_i$$

Total interest award = $42,854.10

Please note that the above compound interest total was manually calculated using algebra. Calculus may also be used. For example, a compound interest calculator, found at <https://www.calculatorsoup.com/calculators/financial/compound-interest-calculator.php>, arrives at nearly<sup>16</sup> the same result when annually compounding interest on A for 6 and 199/365 years, B for 5 and 199/365 years, and C for 4 and 199/365 years.

Liquidated Damages

OHR adopts ALJ Carmichael's finding that liquidated damages are appropriately awarded to Complainant under the DCFMLA, pursuant to D.C. Code § 32-509(b)(6)(B)(ii), for the reasons explained by ALJ Carmichael. (Third Proposed Decision and Order at 23). Accordingly, based on the aforementioned calculations, Complainant is entitled to liquidated damages of $208,861.68.

Additional Damages under the DCHRA

OHR adopts ALJ Carmichael's finding that Complainant is not entitled to any additional damages under the DCHRA, for the reasons explained by ALJ Carmichael. (Third Proposed Decision and Order at 23-26). However, OHR notes that in a DCHRA claim against the government, the applicable citations are 4 DCMR § 126.1(a) for back pay and § 126.1(d) for withheld benefits.

CONCLUSION

Based on the foregoing, and pursuant to 4 DCMR § 120.1-3 and 4 DCMR § 1625.1-3, it is hereby:

ORDERED, that Complainant is awarded $417,723.36 in total damages, consisting of $166,007.58 in actual damages, $42,854.10 in prejudgment interest, and $208,861.68 in liquidated damages, to be transferred to Complainant, less applicable state and federal tax withholdings,<sup>17</sup> pending judicial review.<sup>18</sup>

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Part I Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. The TIN provided must match the name given on line 1 to avoid backup withholding. For individuals, this is generally your social security number (SSN). However, for a resident alien, sole proprietor, or disregarded entity, see the instructions for Part I, later. For other entities, it is your employer identification number (EIN). If you do not have a number, see How to get a TIN, later.

Notes: If the account is in more than one name, see the instructions for line 1. Also see What Name and Number To Give the Requester for guidelines on whose number to enter.

Part II Certification

Under penalties of perjury, I certify that:

1. The number shown on this form is my correct taxpayer identification number (or I am waiting for a number to be issued to me); and
2. I am not subject to backup withholding because: (a) I am exempt from backup withholding, or (b) I have not been notified by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) that I am subject to backup withholding as a result of a failure to report all interest or dividends, or (c) the IRS has notified me that I am no longer subject to backup withholding; and
3. I am a U.S. citizen or other U.S. person (defined below); and
4. The FATCA code(s) entered on this form (if any) indicating that I am exempt from FATCA reporting is correct.

Certification instructions. You must cross out item 2 above if you have been notified by the IRS that you are currently subject to backup withholding because you have failed to report all interest and dividends on your tax return. For real estate transactions, item 2 does not apply. For mortgage interest paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, contributions to an individual retirement arrangement (IRA), and generally, payments other than interest and dividends, you are not required to sign the certification, but you must provide your correct TIN. See the instructions for Part II, later.

Jed – and so it begins.....

This is what I was trying to prevent.

- They want this process to begin ASAP (and it should) and it is indeed totally separate from the construction.
- How quickly we proceed and how cooperative we are will impact the ultimate dollar amount. They are appalled at the lack of urgency. We should immediately respond to this email.
- DGS is determined to use Salut and want to see Zurich's report. They also asked if Zurich will pay the mark up for minority vendors.
- Zurich honestly believe that this process should be under ORM's jurisdiction – I have already explained to them that that's not the District's process.

Are you available for a call?

I wanted to circle back on this as we begin a new week.

My understanding is Meridian was on site last week and provided 3 vendors BMS CAT, Belfor and Interstate who are on Zurich's approved list for remediation/restoration. How would you like to proceed on your end with starting the process of engaging a firm? I understand there may be a need for multiple bids as DC protocol so the sooner this process begins the better.

Also, with regard to the damaged contents, thank you for the inventory. For now we request any damaged content remain on site. I'm working with Zurich to see how they want to proceed with further evaluation of these items.

Any questions please let me know or if you'd like to schedule a site meeting/call with the consultants let me know.

Thanks again for your help.

Thank you, Meridian will move forward with their 12/28 site visit.

To confirm we have advised all involved consultants to only discuss the claim with members of the Risk Management team when they are on site, whether it be Mr. Preston or Mr. Healy. Apologies for the confusion earlier today.

As always an concerns please call me directly to discuss. We will update Zurich as necessary.

Looks like Meridian would like to be on site a week from today Monday 12/28 at 8:30am to start the moisture mapping.

Can someone from RM be on site to meet them at that time?

With regard to the other additional consultant Meridian, they would like to wait for the IH final report before inspecting the location. Our understanding is the IH should have their final findings over either this week or next per comments in our meeting Thursday.

Thanks Jeffrey,

Tuesday is fine for JS Held. ORM will meet him at Peabody. We just need a timeframe for arrival and also need to know if he needs to speak with anyone special.

Appreciate your diligence. We promise to be very responsive.

Jane,

Thanks for discussing this with me yesterday. As the claim progresses we will have requests for information that will be sent.

As discussed Zurich is engaging additional consultants to evaluate the potential moisture to the building and the technology impacted.

Chris Antinora, also with JS Held, will be the technology expert. He would like to visit the location Tuesday 12/22 or Weds 12/23 of this coming week. Please let me know the availability of your staff to accommodate this inspection. Chris will be traveling from NJ but could be on site in the AM.

Zurich has engaged Meridian to moisture map the location. We are corresponding with them now and will reach out to schedule their site visit once I have some feedback.

I'm in the process of reviewing the submitted support. As the claim progresses we will have requests for information that will be sent to this thread only. We will not be commenting to any other involved party from DC Govt per your request.

Thanks again for your help any questions let me know.

Thank you for taking time this AM to discuss this loss with me. I will be the primary local contact for Zurich and report directly to Mr. Parris. As requested all contact on my end will come thru you.

Tim Swift with JS Held will be the new building consultant engaged by Zurich.

Either Tim or myself will try to be present tomorrow on site (weather permitting).

I understand you won't be present, can you provide the names of the insurance persons that will be?

As discussed, we don't yet have the supporting document so until we can complete a full review I don't want to schedule any calls with the involved parties. Once we are in a position to discuss I'll reach out to you so we can arrange as call.

Any questions please let me know.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

January 3, 2021

Presidential Inaugural Committee Announces Programming to Honor Inaugural Traditions, Safely Engage Americans Across the Country

and Virtual Parade Across America*

WASHINGTON — Today, the Presidential Inaugural Committee (PIC) announced additional details about inauguration that will follow the official swearing-in ceremony on January 20, which will include a Pass in Review on the East Front of the Capitol, a Presidential Escort to the White House, and a virtual parade across America.

"This is an exciting opportunity to work with Americans across the country to showcase President-elect Biden and Vice President-elect Harris' steadfast commitment to a diverse, inclusive, and unified nation. There are many grand traditions to the inaugural and we plan to honor them by highlighting more of our nation's people than ever before while keeping everyone safe," said PIC CEO Tony Allen.

Below are additional details regarding these inaugural activities:

- Pass in Review: After the official swearing-in ceremony on the West front of the U.S. Capitol, the President-elect, First Lady, Vice President-elect, and Second Gentleman will participate in a Pass in Review on the East front with members of the military. Pass in Reviews are a long-standing military tradition that reflect the peaceful transfer of power to a new Commander-in-Chief, during which the President-elect, hosted by the Commander of Joint Task Force-National Capital Region, will review the readiness of military troops. Every branch of the military will be represented in this event. Participants will be socially distanced and PIC will have vigorous health and safety protocols in place.
- Presidential Escort: The President-elect will receive a Presidential Escort from 15th Street to the White House, providing the American people and world with historic images of the President-elect proceeding to the White House without attracting large crowds and gatherings. Every branch of the military will be represented in the escort, including The U.S. Army Band, a Joint Service Honor Guard, and the Commander-in-Chief's Guard and Fife and Drum Corps from the 3rd U.S. Infantry "The Old Guard." Participants will be socially distanced and PIC will have vigorous health and safety protocols in place.
- Virtual Parade Across America: In light of the pandemic, the PIC will produce a virtual parade across America that will be televised for the American people and feature diverse, dynamic performances in communities across the country. The parade will celebrate America's heroes, highlight Americans from all walks of life in different states and regions, and reflect on the diversity, heritage, and resilience of the country as we begin a new American era. The PIC will announce participants in the coming weeks.

This programming will honor long-standing inaugural traditions; provide the American people with the iconic images of a new president, a new vice president, and their families making their way to the White House; and feature musical acts, local bands, poets, dance troupes, and more paying homage to America's heroes on the frontlines of the pandemic.

"We are excited about the possibilities and opportunities this moment presents to allow all Americans to participate in our country's sacred inaugural traditions. This innovative programming will keep people safe and use new ways to bring in Americans across the country — from rural towns and urban cities to younger and older Americans to everybody and everywhere in between. This is an ambitious goal but we are committed to an inclusive and accessible celebration that brings Americans together and unifies our nation, especially during such a tough time for our country," said PIC Executive Director Maju Varghese.

As announced last week, Dr. Kessler will continue advising the PIC on how best to hold inaugural events that prioritize health and safety. Additionally, PIC Executive Producers Stephanie Cutter and Ricky Kirshner and Senior Advisor Rod O'Connor will play key roles in creating and producing the virtual parade across America.

The PIC will announce further details about events and how Americans can participate as it becomes available in the coming weeks.

WASHINGTON — Today, the Presidential Inaugural Committee (PIC) announced additional details about inauguration that will follow the official swearing-in ceremony on January 20, which will include a Pass in Review on the East Front of the Capitol, a Presidential Escort to the White House, and a virtual parade across America.

"This is an exciting opportunity to work with Americans across the country to showcase President-elect Biden and Vice President-elect Harris' steadfast commitment to a diverse, inclusive, and unified nation. There are many grand traditions to the inaugural and we plan to honor them by highlighting more of our nation's people than ever before while keeping everyone safe," said PIC CEO Tony Allen.

Below are additional details regarding these inaugural activities:

- Pass in Review: After the official swearing-in ceremony on the West front of the U.S. Capitol, the President-elect, First Lady, Vice President-elect, and Second Gentleman will participate in a Pass in Review on the East front with members of the military. Pass in Reviews are a long-standing military tradition that reflect the peaceful transfer of power to a new Commander-in-Chief, during which the President-elect, hosted by the Commander of Joint Task Force-National Capital Region, will review the readiness of military troops. Every branch of the military will be represented in this event. Participants will be socially distanced and PIC will have vigorous health and safety protocols in place.
- Presidential Escort: The President-elect will receive a Presidential Escort from 15th Street to the White House, providing the American people and world with historic images of the President-elect proceeding to the White House without attracting large crowds and gatherings. Every branch of the military will be represented in the escort, including The U.S. Army Band, a Joint Service Honor Guard, and the Commander-in-Chief's Guard and Fife and Drum Corps from the 3rd U.S. Infantry "The Old Guard." Participants will be socially distanced and PIC will have vigorous health and safety protocols in place.
- Virtual Parade Across America: In light of the pandemic, the PIC will produce a virtual parade across America that will be televised for the American people and feature diverse, dynamic performances in communities across the country. The parade will celebrate America's heroes, highlight Americans from all walks of life in different states and regions, and reflect on the diversity, heritage, and resilience of the country as we begin a new American era. The PIC will announce participants in the coming weeks.

This programming will honor long-standing inaugural traditions; provide the American people with the iconic images of a new president, a new vice president, and their families making their way to the White House; and feature musical acts, local bands, poets, dance troupes, and more paying homage to America's heroes on the frontlines of the pandemic.

"We are excited about the possibilities and opportunities this moment presents to allow all Americans to participate in our country's sacred inaugural traditions. This innovative programming will keep people safe and use new ways to bring in Americans across the country — from rural towns and urban cities to younger and older Americans to everybody and everywhere in between. This is an ambitious goal but we are committed to an inclusive and accessible celebration that brings Americans together and unifies our nation, especially during such a tough time for our country," said PIC Executive Director Maju Varghese.

As announced last week, Dr. Kessler will continue advising the PIC on how best to hold inaugural events that prioritize health and safety. Additionally, PIC Executive Producers Stephanie Cutter and Ricky Kirshner and Senior Advisor Rod O'Connor will play key roles in creating and producing the virtual parade across America.

The PIC will announce further details about events and how Americans can participate as it becomes available in the coming weeks.

THE HOT STORY

Derivatives regulator uses Dodd-Frank to target foreign bribery

The Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC) has started to investigate and police bribery by multinational corporations despite not having the statutory authority to enforce antibribery laws directly. Earlier this month, it reached a $95m settlement with Swiss energy firm Vitol for alleged misconduct stemming from bribes paid to state-controlled oil companies in Brazil, Ecuador and Mexico. The basis for the CFTC's enforcement action against Vitol is an antimanipulation rule that was introduced as a result of the 2010 Dodd-Frank Act and modeled after a securities law prohibiting insider trading. The rule prohibits the use of a "manipulative device, scheme, or artifice to defraud" in connection with the U.S. derivatives markets. Trading on material nonpublic information isn't prohibited by U.S. commodities laws. But it may violate the CFTC's rules if it is done in breach of a pre-existing duty or if the information is obtained fraudulently.

CYBERSECURITY

IRS taxpayer data wasn't exposed in SolarWinds hack, says TIGTA

TIGTA has to date not uncovered any evidence that taxpayer data was accessed during the SolarWinds hack at federal agencies, including the Treasury Department and the Internal Revenue Service. "We are heartened that initial findings suggest that the recent cyber-attack on our government did not compromise taxpayer information lodged with the IRS," House Ways and Means Subcommittee Chairman Bill Pascrell, D-New Jersey, and ranking member Mike Kelly, R-Pennsylvania, said in a joint statement. "Americans should have confidence that their personal data is protected and secure. We continue to urge TIGTA, the IRS and the Treasury to be as transparent as possible with the American public on any breaches that they might subsequently find as they continue their investigations."

GoDaddy scams own staff with bonus email

Workers have hit out at GoDaddy after the Scottsdale, Arizona headquartered internet domain giant sent an email to staff offering them a $650 one-time holiday bonus if they submitted location details by reply. But the email turned out to be a security test sent out by the company to see if employees would fall for a phishing scam. After the holiday email was sent out, the company hosted a town hall where employees told higher ups that the test was tone deaf.

STRATEGY

How 2020 accelerated digitization

The Wall Street Journal examines how businesses have accelerated plans to embrace digitization over 2020, implementing strategies within months after the pandemic struck rather than bringing in change over several years. Shifts that began as temporary fixes are likely to become permanent, says the Journal's Greg Ip. Loren Padelford, vice president at Shopify, says: "Covid has acted like a time machine: it brought 2030 to 2020," adding: "All those trends, where organizations thought they had more time, got rapidly accelerated." However, the shift from physical to virtual could partially reverse once a vaccine is widely administered and fear of the virus fades, says Mr Ip, who goes on to cite Joel Mokyr, an economic historian at Northwestern University, who cautions that dematerialization can't continue indefinitely. "Diminishing returns works here as well. We can mimic reality, but we are not digital creatures ourselves, and..., our evolutionary background will continue to demand physical experiences," says Mokyr.

China launches investigation into Alibaba

China's State Administration of Market Regulation has launched an investigation into Alibaba, the country's biggest tech company, for suspected monopolistic behavior. The probe comes a month after authorities halted sister company Ant Group's $37bn initial public offering. China's market regulator said it was investigating practices including Alibaba's tactic of forcing merchants to sell exclusively on its platform, among other issues. The People's Bank of China, China Banking Regulatory Commission, China Securities Regulatory Commission and State Administration of Foreign Exchange said they would also meet Ant Group for "supervisory and guidance" talks. Ant Group is the developer of the Alipay mobile payment system. An editorial in the People's Daily state newspaper said: "This investigation does not mean that the country's attitude towards the encouragement and support of the platform economy has changed."

Consumer brands expect home working to continue post-pandemic

Many food-and-consumer-products companies across the U.S. are expanding factories and revamping production lines to cater for the change in consumer habits brought about by the pandemic. Brands are predicting that shifts in behavior will be long-lasting as working from home becomes routine even post-pandemic, with companies involved in food production, toilet paper manufacturing and grooming making strategic adjustments.

ECONOMY

U.S. consumer confidence down in December

U.S. consumer confidence unexpectedly fell in December to a four-month low amid surging COVID-19 cases that are spurring more states to tighten restrictions on businesses and travel. The Conference Board's index of consumer confidence dropped to 88.6 in the first two weeks of December, from a revised 92.9 in November, missing estimates in a Bloomberg survey of economists that had called for 97. The measure of sentiment about current conditions fell the most since April, while the expectations gauge rose from a four-year low. "Overall, it appears that growth has weakened further in [the fourth quarter], and consumers do not foresee the economy gaining any significant momentum in early 2021", said Lyn Franco, senior director of economic indicators at the Conference Board.

U.S. credit card applications tumble

Demand for consumer credit in the U.S. has fallen dramatically during the COVID-19 crisis, with credit card applications hitting multiyear lows, according to the New York

Federal Reserve. Between February and October, the proportion of households applying for any form of credit over the past 12 months fell by 11 percentage points, to 35%. The drop in demand was most acute for new credit cards, where the application rate fell 10 points to just under 16%.

Forensic accounting specialists have been brought in to help with the ongoing investigation by the Manhattan District Attorney's Office into President Trump's business transactions. District Attorney Cyrus R. Vance Jr. asked FTI Consulting to advise prosecutors on whether or not Mr. Trump or his company altered the value of some assets for tax purposes. Washington-headquartered FTI provides a "complete range of forensic, investigative, data analytic and litigation services," according to a corporate brochure. Jason Zirkle of the Association of Certified Fraud Examiners observes that Mr. Vance, who is a Democrat, may hope that the inclusion of an outside firm may help deflect criticism that his investigation is politically motivated.

Remote workers are ditching previously routine tasks that now feel like a waste of time. Jennifer Chatman, a professor of management at the University of California Berkeley's Haas School of Business, observes: "Employees are in a position where they are calling more of the shots than they did before . . . That has shifted the power balance a little bit." Jessica Calarco, a sociology professor at Indiana University, says those remote staffers who are re-evaluating their workday should prioritize tasks that advance a company's core mission and demote reports or projects that are being done solely for tracking purposes.

Michigan Passes $465 Million Covid-19 Relief Stimulus Package

LANSING, Mich. – Today, the Michigan state legislature passed Senate Bill 748, a bipartisan bill that provides $465 million in COVID-19 economic relief from state and federal tax revenues. The spending plan was passed earlier today in Michigan's state House of Representatives after being passed 35-2 in Michigan's GOP-controlled state Senate last week.

The package will include relief payments for furloughed workers and struggling businesses, as well as funds for vaccine distribution and more. The bill is expected to be approved by Michigan governor Gretchen Whitmer in the coming days.

According to the text of the bill, approximately $443 million will be appropriated from Michigan's state general fund while nearly $22 million will come from federal revenues.

Of the major appropriations outlined in the bill, some of the stimulus funding will include:

- $220 million for unemployment
- $55 million in small business survival grants
- $51 million for COVID vaccine distribution and testing
- $45 million in grants for workers laid off or furloughed in business impacted by restrictions

When broken down further, the $220 million for unemployment will include an extension of unemployment benefits up to 26 weeks for struggling Michiganders, a six-week increase from the previous cap of 20 weeks.

The $55 million allocated for small business survival grants will benefit Michigan businesses who have experienced income loss as a result of Michigan's recent Gatherings and Face Mask Order, the state's latest measure of restricting the spread of COVID-19.

Survival grants given to small businesses will vary in amount depending on how long they have been closed due to the state's order.

For businesses that have been closed for the duration of the gatherings and face mask order can receive up to $20,000 in grant money from the state. On the other hand, if they have only been partially closed during the order, then businesses can receive a maximum of $15,000 in grants.

According to S.B. 748, businesses receiving a survival grant will be expected to spend the grant on "payroll expenses, rent, mortgage payments, utility expenses or other similar expenses."

Besides the $51 million allocated for vaccine strategy use, the Michigan legislature also approved a continuation of the state's $2 hourly wage hike for health care workers at hospitals and nursing homes. The wage hike will help frontline workers starting January 1, 2021 through to February 28, 2021.

For workers who have been laid off or have been furloughed in recent months due to the pandemic, individuals will be eligible to receive up to $1,650 from the employee assistance fund under the Michigan Department of Treasury.

In addition to these line items, the legislation will also provide $3.5 million in grants for concert and live-entertainment venues, with a maximum of $40,000 allocated to eligible venues.

The latest round of COVID-19 relief is an expansion of Whitmer's previous ask of $100 million last month.

"I proposed this stimulus plan to the legislature in November because I know how much our families, frontline workers, and small businesses need relief as we head into the winter," stated Whitmer in a public statement.

“This bipartisan relief bill will provide families and businesses the support they need to stay afloat as we continue working to distribute the safe and effective vaccine and eradicate COVID-19 once and for all.

“This bill does not mark the end of the fight against COVID-19, but it is another critical step in helping Michiganders battle the virus and survive the repeated shutdowns of our economy,” said the legislation’s sponsor, Michigan Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman Jim Stamas, in a public statement.

“This budget bill provides critical support to the workers and small, family businesses who have been left behind by their government and extends a lifeline right when they need it the most,” said Michigan Republican House Speaker Lee Chatfield in a public statement.

“People are worried about the effects of the latest shutdown and what it means for their families,” continued Chatfield.

“We are listening and looking for ways to help. Of course, the best way to help people is to follow the science and safely and securely reopen Michigan’s schools and small businesses.

“Until that happens, we will continue to fight for the people we represent, support working families with our votes and ensure everyone can continue to make ends meet,” stated Chatfield.

Hi, Sam.

Attached please find the Residential Flood Insurance Program in the provided memo format.

We also added context regarding the District's Resilient Strategy as well as an alternatives section at the end. The last sentence is highlighted as a reminder that a contact person needs to be inserted based on the format (was not sure whether that should stay on top or be at the end).

Please let us know if you have any questions or need something else.

Regards,

Robert

Hello Chris,

Please see the response below:

- Does your agency have a contract(s) related to GPS (or similar devices like Auto Vehicle Locator) and/or other District Driver Safety programs? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s). Yes
- Are there video recorders in your assigned fleet vehicles? There is video surveillance camera in the newer additions to the fleet If so, is there a process on when the recordings are download/stored? We are currently working through this component as a part of a of larger system enhancement. Is this managed by a third party? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- For your fleet vehicles, how does the agency manage the keys to the vehicle(s) and the tracking of employees driving? For fleet vehicles, vehicles are signed in/out daily for each user. For school buses, keys are stored on the active fleet and locked for fleet not in use.
- Does your agency have any concerns with staff usage of the fleet or driving, or anything you would like to make us aware of? No.

We will send copies of the contracts as soon as possible. Please let me know if you have any additional questions.

Good Afternoon Director Brumley & Deputy Meyers,

I hope you are doing well. I am Chris Vass, Management Analyst with the DC Office of Risk Management (ORM). On behalf of Jed Ross, Director/Chief Risk Officer, I am reaching out to you and other District agencies in order to undertake a review and analysis of city-wide fleet safety programs that are being used by District agencies. In order for me to begin the review and analysis, I need your assistance to compile all data and information related to your safety program:

- Does your agency have a contract(s) related to GPS (or similar devices like Auto Vehicle Locator) and/or other District Driver Safety programs? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- Are there video recorders in your assigned fleet vehicles? If so, is there a process on when the recordings are download/stored? Is this managed by a third party? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- For your fleet vehicles, how does the agency manage the keys to the vehicle(s) and the tracking of employees driving?

- Does your agency have any concerns with staff usage of the fleet or driving, or anything you would like to make us aware of?

The goal of this project is to ultimately bring all agencies under one city-wide management system for GPS, liability documentation (video), safe driving training, data collection (life of vehicle, miles driven, speeding, dangerous driving, possible maintenance needs, performance metrics, etc....). We are in the early stages of this endeavor but feel it could lead to monumental change for the District. One procurement, one system, economies of scale, and better data for everyone.

Please let know if you have any question or concerns.

Thanks,

Chris Vass

Hello Chris,

Please see the response below:

- Does your agency have a contract(s) related to GPS (or similar devices like Auto Vehicle Locator) and/or other District Driver Safety programs? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s). Yes
- Are there video recorders in your assigned fleet vehicles? There is video surveillance camera in the newer additions to the fleet If so, is there a process on when the recordings are download/stored? We are currently working through this component as a part of a of larger system enhancement. Is this managed by a third party? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- For your fleet vehicles, how does the agency manage the keys to the vehicle(s) and the tracking of employees driving? For fleet vehicles, vehicles are signed in/out daily for each user. For school buses, keys are stored on the active fleet and locked for fleet not in use.
- Does your agency have any concerns with staff usage of the fleet or driving, or anything you would like to make us aware of? No.

We will send copies of the contracts as soon as possible. Please let me know if you have any additional questions.

On behalf of Mayor Bowser, we want to announce the following transitions of executive leadership in the Cabinet:

Appointment

Robert Contee, appointed Acting Chief of Police, Metropolitan Police Department (MPD)

A native Washingtonian and 31 year MPD veteran, Acting Chief Contee began his career joined MPD as a police cadet in November 1989. He became a sworn member of the Department three years later and quickly rose through the ranks, serving in a variety of assignments. Most recently, Acting Chief Contee served as the Assistant Chief of the Investigative Services Bureau at MPD, which works with the community to solve crimes, bring offenders to justice, support the recovery of victims, and protect witnesses. Assistant Chief Contee holds a Bachelor's Degree in Professional Studies with a concentration in Police Science from George Washington University. He has also completed the Management College at the Institute for Law Enforcement Administration and the Senior Management Institute for Police (SMIP) of the Police Executive Research Forum in Boston, Massachusetts.

Departure

Director Karima Holmes will step down from her role in late January 2021, after leading the Office of Unified Communications (OUC) since 2016. Among her accomplishments, Director Holmes created infrastructural redundancy for the OUC emergency operations and launched the Office of Professional Standards and Development. This office modernized the agency's workforce by creating pathways full time staff and a training and quality assurance program following national best practices.

Please join us in congratulating Acting Chief Contee as he takes on this new role. We also thank outgoing Chief Peter Newsham for his long tenure of service and leadership at MPD. His dedication to DC is noteworthy, and we appreciate his leadership during this trying time. We also applaud Director Holmes for her work at OUC over the years and wish her the best as she transitions to her next opportunity. As always, thank you for your service and commitment to DC!

Sincerely,

For Catholics in the Archdiocese of Washington, expanded access to church — and thus the core sacrament of Communion, wherein Catholicism teaches Jesus is present in the bread and wine — came only after a lawsuit challenging the city's 50-person cap per church as unconstitutional. A few days after the suit was filed, D.C. Mayor Muriel E. Bowser (D) raised the cap to 250 people, or 25 percent capacity, whichever is smaller.

But praying apart is not the same as praying together. We recently brought legal action to protect the free exercise of religion in the nation's capital. This was a last resort, as we could no longer bear the burden of turning away the faithful from Mass due to D.C.'s 50-person cap on religious services when big-box stores, retailers, and even liquor stores and many other venues continued to operate without similar limits. The right of the faithful to assemble for religious services is one of our most cherished constitutional legacies, and we maintain it should be treated as an “essential” activity — just as D.C. regards shopping and so many other activities as essential. We simply ask that religious worship be treated in the same way so that we may continue to worship together and serve those in need. (D.C. Mayor Muriel E. Bowser subsequently eased the 50-person cap on Dec. 16.)

COVID-19

Hundreds of thousands of doses of virus vaccine headed to Virginia, Maryland, D.C. this week

December 21, 2020

The Washington Post // Patricia Sullivan, Julie Zauzmer and Lola Fadulu

Hundreds of thousands of doses of coronavirus vaccines are beginning to come into the greater Washington area as the number of infections and death continues to build.

The District expects to receive more than 30,000 doses this week, substantially increasing the city's ability to vaccinate front-line workers as the arrival of the newly approved Moderna vaccine helps offset reductions in the number of Pfizer vaccine doses being distributed this week.

In the first days of vaccine delivery last week, the city administered more than 4,500 of the 6,825 doses of the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine that it received from the federal government, D.C. coronavirus vaccine program leader Ankoor Shah said at a news conference Monday. This week, the federal government will allot an additional 4,875 doses of the Pfizer vaccine and 12,600 doses of the newly approved Moderna vaccine to the city.

The District will also receive 8,775 doses of the Pfizer vaccine from Virginia and 8,000 doses of the Moderna vaccine from Maryland, Shah said, after they agreed to share their supply to help vaccinate health-care workers, many of whom live outside the city, at their places of work in the District.

The District does not have any agreement in place for receiving further batches from its neighboring states, said John Falcicchio, deputy mayor for planning and economic development.

Altogether, Maryland was allocated more than 191,000 doses of the Pfizer and Moderna vaccines, which will allow it to vaccinate 90 percent of the state's front-line hospital staff, according to a Monday news release.

The state anticipates that this week it will receive 104,300 doses of the Moderna vaccine, which was authorized by the Food and Drug Administration on Friday. Officials also expect an additional 36,075 doses of the Pfizer vaccine; the state received 50,700 doses of that vaccine last week.

Maryland nursing home staffers and residents also can expect to get vaccinated in coming days, officials said.

Alena Yarmosky, a spokeswoman for Virginia Gov. Ralph Northam (D), said that the state received 72,125 doses from Pfizer last week and that some of its expected 146,000 Moderna doses began arriving Monday.

The coronavirus's deadly march through D.C., Maryland and Virginia continues, with 32 deaths reported Monday and an additional 6,446 people reported to have tested positive for the virus, according to numbers released by the three jurisdictions.

Virginia reported 4,042 new cases, Maryland reported 2,265 and D.C. 139, slightly higher than the rolling seven-day average. Maryland had the most deaths reported Monday, with 23, followed by D.C.'s five and Virginia's four.

Since the pandemic began, the greater Washington region has had 590,703 reported coronavirus cases and 10,867 deaths due to covid-19, the disease caused by the virus. Virginia has reported 310,890 cases and 4,654 deaths. Maryland has tallied 253,073 total cases and 5,471 deaths. The District has counted 26,740 cases and 742 deaths.

Since the Pfizer vaccine is much more difficult to store than the Moderna vaccine, the District's Pfizer doses will go to hospitals to treat their workers, Shah said.

The Moderna vaccine will go to several nonprofit organizations and for-profit companies — including Bread for the City, Mary's Center, Community of Hope, Giant Food and Safeway — where workers such as home health aides can register to receive the vaccine. CVS and Walgreens pharmacists will visit long-term care facilities to administer the vaccine to residents and staffers.

The general public will not be able to receive the vaccine at pharmacies like those at Safeway and Walgreens until prioritized populations have received it first.

Meanwhile, the demand for coronavirus tests that spiked in the fall has remained high in the city. Mayor Muriel E. Bowser (D) said Monday that the city tested 20,700 people last week, an increase of 2,000 from the week before.

The city also clarified some of its requirements for restaurants after Bowser issued a late-night order Friday to shut down indoor dining and indoor visits to libraries and museums for three weeks, beginning Wednesday. Tents and awnings at outdoor seating locations must be open on at least two sides, officials said. Restaurants will no longer be asked to close outdoor dining when temperatures drop below 32 degrees, only during snow emergencies, Falcicchio said.

"Some of the protocols that we put in place were a little more stringent than they needed to be," he said. "The temperature could drop while somebody is in the middle of a meal."

Bowser said that the city health department advised a three-week shutdown, and Falcicchio said he did not expect the hiatus on indoor dining would be extended further into January.

"We have every intention to lift it after the 15th," he said.

Mayor chooses veteran officer Robert J. Contee as District's next police chief

The Washington Post // Peter Hermann

D.C. Mayor Muriel E. Bowser has chosen Robert J. Contee III as the city's newest police chief, forgoing a national search and picking a veteran officer and native Washingtonian to lead the force amid a period of rising homicides and social justice reckoning.

Contee, a 31-year veteran who joined the force as a cadet while still in high school, will take over from Police Chief Peter Newsham in early January, and will serve on an acting basis pending confirmation by the D.C. Council. He has a wife and two children.

Contee, 48, grew up in a Northeast Washington neighborhood battered by violence during the crack cocaine epidemic of the late 1980s and has talked of seeing officers using brute force. That perspective has given him added credibility at a time when the city is working to overhaul policing.

Newsham announced his departure last month to take the police chief's job in Prince William County, Va. He initially said he would work through the Jan. 20 presidential inauguration.

Bowser (D) tapped Newsham, who also has been on the force three decades, as police chief in 2017. Contee was a top candidate for the job at that time.

Bowser is scheduled to name Contee at a news conference Tuesday.

"I'm a hometown kid; this is the city that birthed me," Contee said in an interview with The Washington Post ahead of the formal announcement. "I went to school here. I raised my family here."

Contee will immediately face challenges that include a spike in homicides, which have reached a 15-year high, and demands from lawmakers and social justice activists to shift funds away from police and into alternative programs that take a public health approach to fighting crime.

"I don't think it has to be an either-or approach," Contee said Monday night. "We have way too many people dying in our city. ... We need focused, balanced and fair law enforcement. I also see the value in some of the public health approaches that have been discussed."

Contee said all voices should be heard — including lawmakers, advocates and community members. "They are all important lenses that need to be taken into consideration," he said, "to formulate the blueprint of what law enforcement will look like in the future."

Newsham is among many police chiefs in the Washington area and across the country departing amid social change. Many D.C. Council members felt that predominantly African American neighborhoods were overpoliced, and that Newsham did not readily embrace changes they felt were needed. Newsham accused lawmakers of not fully grasping the devastating toll of violence that he was charged with curbing.

Contee also probably will have to confront demonstrations in the days leading up to the Jan. 20 presidential inauguration. Loyalists to President Trump who do not accept his defeat in the election have come to the city for protests, which have turned violent at times.

Contee's name surfaced as a possible chief almost as soon as Newsham's retirement became public last month.

By selecting Contee without conducting a national search, Bowser all but ignored a plea from the ACLU, which said hiring an outsider is the only way to repair what it described as the "toxic culture" of D.C. police. It was not immediately clear whether Bowser considered other candidates, but quickly naming Newsham's replacement renders moot a call by the Police Reform Commission — appointed by the council — that urged community meetings and public participation in the selection process.

Bowser has accepted some changes pushed through by council members to improve transparency and alter some tactics viewed as overly harsh. But she objected to cutting the police budget by $15 million, which she said would make the District less safe. The cuts are forcing the department to halt hirings and lower the size of the 3,700-member force by as many as 200 officers through attrition.

In an interview, Contee said he is "concerned about the number of police officers," noting the rise in shooting and homicides, and the strain of demonstrations that have become routine.

Contee said he joined the police department at a time when it was underfunded, when D.C. police officers fatally shot more people than any other agency in the country. He said too few officers and not enough money can lead to a strained department where officers more often use force.

"I don't want to regress to that time because of lacking of funding," Contee said.

At the same time, Contee said he agrees that alternatives to policing should be explored. The council, for instance, has discussed sending health professionals instead of police to calls involving people experiencing mental-health crises.

"I believe the community wants to be safe," Contee said. "I believe the community wants a police department that is well funded." He said it's important the police "have the pulse of the community."

Contee grew up in the Carver-Langston neighborhood in Northeast Washington, nicknamed "Little Vietnam" in the 1980s because of rampant crime. It remains a hot spot for violence.

In July, he described to The Washington Post the challenges of growing up in such a neighborhood, and of being a Black police officer during this year of protest and unrest stemming from the killing of George Floyd by police in Minneapolis. He also talked about how police 30 years ago were more likely to use force.

“This is not the department I joined 30 years ago,” Contee said during the July interview, referring to changes over the years. “I think we’ve gotten smarter about things in terms of the way that we deal with the communities that we serve. We’ve learned that you can’t arrest your way out of problems.”

In that article, Contee talked of how police now enroll every recruit in a curriculum at the National Museum of African American History and Culture. “Officers coming here need to understand not just the city, but the people in this city,” Contee said.

Contee is currently the assistant chief of the investigative services bureau, which includes overseeing commanders of the homicide unit and several other branches dealing with violent and nonviolent crime.

He started his career as a patrol officer in the 3rd District, which includes Adams Morgan, Shaw, Columbia Heights and Dupont Circle. He has worked as a district commander in some of the District’s wealthiest communities and overseen patrol officers in the most violent neighborhoods. He has overseen police discipline, human resources and training.

Contee has a bachelor’s degree in professional studies from George Washington University. He completed a management program at the Institute for Law Enforcement Administration and at the Police Executive Research Forum.

Staff, Residents at Nursing Homes in DC Will Receive COVID-19 Vaccine Early

NBC 4 // Mark Segraves

Staff and residents at long-term care facilities will now be included in the first wave of coronavirus inoculations in D.C., thanks to the expected arrival of thousands of doses of the Moderna vaccine this week, D.C. Mayor Muriel Bowser announced Monday.

Those now included in the first wave of vaccinations include:

- Staff and residents at assisted living facilities
- Front line hospital workers
- Urgent care workers
- Pharmacy staff
- Home health aides
- D.C. Fire and EMS staff

The District has already administered more than 4,500 doses of the vaccine. Those doses have gone to front line hospital workers and D.C. Fire and EMS staff.

“Now we are able to spread the vaccine to other high-risk healthcare workers,” said Dr. Ankoor Shah, of D.C.’s Department of Health.

In order to coordinate the vaccination of these groups, those who have been added to Group 1A will have to register online. That process will begin later this week.

District officials say 12,600 doses of the Moderna vaccine are arriving from the federal government and 8,000 doses will come from Maryland.

The Moderna shipments will be allocated among the following sites:

- Long-Term Care Facilities (30+ sites, 4,500 doses)
- Bread for the City (1 site, 400 doses)
- Bridgepoint (2 sites, 600 doses per site)
- Community of Hope (2 sites, 200 doses per site)
- Giant Food and Pharmacy (5 sites, 600 doses per site)
- Kaiser Permanente (1 site, 3100 doses)
- Mary's Center (1 site, 600 doses)
- Safeway Pharmacy (10 sites, 500 doses per site)
- Saint Elizabeth's Hospital (1 site, 500 doses)
- United Medical Center (1 site, 500 doses)
- Unity Healthcare (2 sites, 700 doses per site)
- The second and third shipments of the Pfizer vaccine are also expected to arrive this week – 8,775 doses from Virginia and 4,875 from the federal government.

The Pfizer vaccine shipments will be allocated as follows:

- Children's National Hospital (2,925 doses)
- The George Washington University Hospital (1,950, 975)
- Howard University Hospital (1,950 doses, 975 doses)
- MedStar Georgetown University Hospital (1,950 doses, 975 doses)
- MedStar Washington Hospital Center and the National Rehabilitation Hospital (2,925 doses, 975 doses)
- Sibley Memorial Hospital (1,950 doses, 975 doses)

Meanwhile, as local hospitals bare the burden of a new winter surge in COVID-19 cases, D.C. is preparing to enter a phase of renewed restrictions to slow down the spread.

D.C. is suspending indoor dining effective Dec. 23 at 10 p.m., Bowser announced last week. The restrictions will remain in place until Jan. 15.

Bowser said Monday she thinks three weeks of a pause is enough time to have an impact on slowing the spread of the virus.

“We have to sacrifice so hospital workers won’t be overwhelmed during the holidays,” said Mayor Muriel Bowser.

The pressure on hospitals is a real concern. Over the past month, the percentage of COVID-19 patients in D.C. hospitals has more than doubled and the number of people dying is also going up.

Covid Christmas: Packed church wait-lists, live-streamed services and increased giving

The Washington Post // Michelle Boorstein

The usual Christmas pageants, carols and midnight Masses are being replaced during the 2020 coronavirus pandemic with fast-filling attendance registration forms, services on demand and efforts by an exhausted America to get creative for what's usually one of the biggest holidays of the year.

As in the rest of the country, rules in the D.C. region about gathering vary from place to place. The District and counties in Maryland and Virginia each have different attendance limits on in-person services. Restrictions can also vary by denomination and, in some cases, by church.

Generally, religious leaders in the region predict a minority of people will physically be in church on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day, but the ones who attend will in some instances have circumvented wait-lists and long lines. Other faith leaders have urged Christians to stay away from gatherings to reduce the spread of the virus, and they say the most apt way in 2020 to mark the narrative of Jesus' birth is to focus on improving housing and health care.

For Catholics in the Archdiocese of Washington, expanded access to church — and thus the core sacrament of Communion, wherein Catholicism teaches Jesus is present in the bread and wine — came only after a lawsuit challenging the city's 50-person cap per church as unconstitutional. A few days after the suit was filed, D.C. Mayor Muriel E. Bowser (D) raised the cap to 250 people, or 25 percent capacity, whichever is smaller.

"At Christmas we celebrate the birth of Christ, and no city requirement is going to affect that. But it's still disheartening that I have to think about city requirements when considering my religious obligations and attendance," said Emily Lataif, 26, who lives in the Brookland neighborhood in Northeast Washington and will mark her first Christmas away from her big family in Georgia.

She has friends who were turned away from worship elsewhere in the archdiocese and said she hoped once she decided where to sign up, there would be spots on Christmas.

At the Basilica of the National Shrine, the country's largest Catholic church building, Bowser's new rules mean the 3,000-seat church can host 1,750 people total over seven Masses on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day, said Monsignor Walter Rossi, the rector there. Last year over the holiday, 13,650 people came to worship.

By Sunday evening, all three Christmas Eve Masses were full, as was noon Mass on Christmas Day. There were limited spots available for sign-up on Christmas Day. The Mass at 10:30 p.m. on Christmas Eve and the one at noon on Christmas Day will be live-streamed.

Given the recent surge in coronavirus infections, though, the Rev. Tom Bowen, director of the Mayor's Office of Religious Affairs and a social justice minister at Shiloh Baptist Church, said his sense is that most people in the District won't be inside a church on Christmas this year.

“Many folks tell me, ‘I don’t care if church opened back up, we’re not coming back until there is a vaccine,’” he said. He noted a trend other religious leaders have observed around the country during the pandemic: While some people are falling out of the habit of attending regular in-person worship, others are browsing additional services. Some congregations have described a significantly larger online audience since March.

With some churches putting their services on-demand, he said, “we may have some binge-watching.” Bowen said he hopes people will consider not going to communal in-person worship.

“I hope people will look at the science. And at the same time will have their spiritual needs met,” he said.

The lack of a regular Christmas routine — be it church or traditions of seeing certain family and friends — plus the powerful need for positive news have many Americans pouring new energy into making the holiday uplifting. Christmas trees and decorations were up earlier than usual this year, and some clergy say many are reflecting on the season’s meaning in a new way.

“Christmas is going to come whether there’s a pandemic or not. Whether we have restrictions or not. People are looking for something to celebrate, and Christmas brings people hope, joy and also new life,” Rossi said.

The Rev. William Lamar IV is pastor of the Metropolitan African Methodist Episcopal Church in Washington, which has been closed since March and has no plans to immediately reopen. However, he said the predominantly Black church, during a year that has seen intense focus on racism and inequity — as well as the first Black woman elected vice president — has come together.

“People have stepped it up. We have doubled our budget for food relief this year. And we are giving more gifts to kids than ever — by far,” he said. “People want to help.”

Lamar’s is far from the only church that is experiencing more charitable giving. While needs are up due to the pandemic shutdown’s impact on the economy, multiple denominations in the region said people who can afford to donate are donating more than usual this holiday season.

On Christmas, the congregation will have its usual services online. In his sermons, Lamar will continue his pre-pandemic effort to bring the story back to its ancient narrative.

“The Christmas narrative has been sanitized for mass consumption. This is a story of an Afroasiatic young woman, a preteen who is an unwed mother. She is refused housing and health care. Who gives birth among animals,” Lamar said. “If you start from that, the work of Christmas is health care. The work of Christmas is housing. ... If you care about Christmas, what we want to do is alleviate the suffering of the Marys out there, the ones among us who we drive past and give no thought to.”

In a way, the pandemic has pushed suffering more into our vision this Christmas, he said. For people who can quarantine in the “comfort of their own warm home,” it might mean you’re likely to give less thought to the “Marys.”

Some congregations are doing a hybrid of in-person and virtual services. The Episcopal Diocese of Washington, which includes D.C. and suburban Maryland, has about 12 of its 88 churches doing a hybrid. An example would be the Church of the Epiphany on G Street NW, which will host two sidewalk services on Christmas Eve, complete with Communion.

Catholics, for whom Communion is a sacrament that signals their union with the Church, have been given dispensation during the pandemic, including in this region by the two bishops. People who can attend are still encouraged to do so. In the Diocese of Arlington, with 460,000 Catholics, all 70 parishes will be holding public Christmas Masses.

Mass attendance has been fluctuating, the diocese said, at about 30 to 40 percent of what it was before the pandemic.

According to Pew Research, about half of Americans in 2017 said they planned to go to church on Christmas. Eighty-two percent said they planned to gather with family or friends.

Ron Jacobs, a 45-year-old lawyer from Chevy Chase, had wanted to attend his regular Christmas Eve services at Blessed Sacrament parish with his wife and three children. However, his wife and children haven’t felt comfortable in church since the pandemic, and he said he realized a few days ago that he had waited too long to reserve one of the limited number of spots.

With all of them filled, he was trying to hatch a meaningful plan for the family out of TV Mass — which his kids jokingly call “TV church” — and other activities. They will also be missing their usual routine of driving Christmas Day to New Jersey to see his in-laws.

“To have missed Easter was incredibly difficult,” Jacobs said, “and now, to have Christmas be just out of reach.”

Praying apart isn't the same as praying together. That's why we sued D.C.

The Washington Post // Cardinal Wilton Gregory

Cardinal Wilton Gregory is the Archbishop of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Washington

A year that has taken so many we love from us in suffering, sickness and death will soon be coming to an end. We are grateful for the skill and determination of those who have worked so diligently to discover effective treatments and to create a vaccine, as well as all the front-line workers who keep us safe and perform so many essential functions. Their efforts have created untold and tangible hope in a moment of darkness and challenge.

As people of faith and goodwill, we often strive to maintain our hope in the face of difficulty in our lives. In this season of Advent, we may also be searching for reasons to rejoice and reasons to be grateful.

I am particularly grateful to our Catholic community and our dedicated priests, teachers, staff and lay leaders who have accompanied our people in prayer as we work together to love and care for each other. This is the charge to which we are called, despite the presence of all kinds of evil, including racism, injustice and inequalities that existed before this pandemic and have only intensified since. I am grateful for the work of Catholic Charities and the outreach ministries of all of our parishes.

Since arriving in Washington from Atlanta 20 months ago, I have found a richly diverse community of deep faith and many dedicated citizens working in all facets of our government, education and the private sector. Washingtonians are connected in their common desire for a better tomorrow, regardless of where they are from, their economic status or their particular faith tradition.

When the pandemic arrived in early spring, we joined the efforts to slow the spread of this terrible virus. While the stay-at-home orders were in place, we suspended public Mass and switched to virtual services. Once these orders were lifted, we gradually returned to in-person Mass, with many new precautions to keep people safe as they pray and worship: requiring that masks be worn at all times, limiting seating to every other pew, maintaining six feet between worshippers, creating new traffic patterns to maintain social distancing, additional sanitizing and the like.

We appreciate that our local officials have had to make difficult decisions in the face of unprecedented challenges.

But praying apart is not the same as praying together. We recently brought legal action to protect the free exercise of religion in the nation's capital. This was a last resort, as we could no longer bear the burden of turning away the faithful from Mass due to D.C.'s 50-person cap on religious services when big-box stores, retailers, and even liquor stores and many other venues continued to operate without similar limits. The right of the faithful to assemble for religious services is one of our most cherished constitutional legacies, and we maintain it should be treated as an “essential” activity — just as D.C. regards shopping and so many other activities as essential. We simply ask that religious worship be treated in the same way so that we may continue to worship together and serve those in need. (D.C. Mayor Muriel E. Bowser subsequently eased the 50-person cap on Dec. 16.)

We trust that our local authorities will act prudently in crafting policies that benefit the health and safety of our communities, while recognizing that the public welfare is served when people of faith gather to worship, pray and receive spiritual nourishment — particularly in times of crisis. We continue to pray that officials’ decisions will be guided by wisdom and charity.

In a year of social distancing, we have all faced isolation in some form. It is my hope that the Christmas season will draw Christians closer to Jesus, and that all people of goodwill continue to come together to support each other during these challenging times.

May this season of hope and joy fill our hearts with gladness and renewal.

Bowser Administration Imposes New Restrictions

The Washington City Paper // Amanda Michelle Gomez

Amid calls to do something about the rising COVID-19 cases and hospitalizations, Mayor Muriel Bowser's administration imposed new restrictions on restaurants, museums, and libraries that take effect Wednesday night. The restrictions last three weeks.

City Paper broke the news Friday morning that Bowser was going to close indoor dining. "From a public health perspective, it is absolutely the right decision," says Grand Duchess bar manager Sam Ward, in reaction to the news. "For keeping people alive, it's the right decision. But it's unconscionable that it could happen without additional support from the city. It's hard not to feel forsaken to a degree."

Later that Friday, at 10 p.m., Bowser announced a new mayoral order that calls for a "holiday pause." "Taken together, legal restrictions, self-limitation of activity, and the vaccine's employment can prevent disease, save lives, and prevent a crisis at our hospitals," the order says. The order restricts the following activities between 10 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 23 and 5 a.m. on Friday, Jan. 15:

- Restaurants can only offer outdoor dining, along with carry out and delivery services.
- Museums are closed.
- Libraries can only offer curbside pickup services.
- Circulator route on the National Mall is suspended.
- Departments of Parks and Recreation can only operate under reservations for swim and fitness.
- Non-essential businesses are required to telework, except if staff is needed to support minimal operations.

The new order also repeals an occupancy limit on food sellers like grocery stores. In a mayoral order issued last Wednesday, food sellers were capped at 25 percent capacity or 250 people. The order attempted to resolve a lawsuit from the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Washington, which sued the District over an occupancy limit on houses of worship. "Stores must make plans that provide for safe social distancing between persons and limit occupancy to the extent necessary for safety," the latest order says.

During a Monday press conference, Bowser said she does not expect to extend restrictions past Jan. 15. "We know and the health department tells us that three weeks is a good intervention interval," said Bowser.

Outgoing D.C. Council member Brandon T. Todd to lobby for Washington Gas

December 21, 2020

The Washington Post // Michael Brice-Saddler

Outgoing D.C. Council member Brandon T. Todd will join Washington Gas as director of corporate public policy in January, the utility company announced Monday.

In his new role, Todd (D-Ward 4), who lost his seat in the June Democratic primary election to Janeese Lewis George, said he will spearhead Washington Gas's external relations strategy and lobby regulators, lawmakers and trade groups on issues that are important to the company.

Todd was elected to the council five years ago to replace Muriel E. Bowser after she was elected mayor. As a council member, his critics often blasted him as being too loyal to Bowser — though he has received praise from some Ward 4 residents for his focus on constituent services.

He said Wednesday that his new position will allow him to serve local residents beyond the District, namely in Washington Gas's service territories in Maryland and Virginia.

Todd is the second outgoing council member to announce in recent weeks that they were taking up a corporate lobbying role. Council member David Grosso (I-At Large), who decided not to seek reelection, took a job with Arent Fox, where he plans to lobby his former colleagues on behalf of clients including hospitals and cannabis businesses, among others.

Like Grosso, Todd will be subject to the city's ethics rules, which include a one-year ban on lobbying former staffers and a lifetime ban on working on certain issues that he was involved with while in office.

Asked how he'll adhere to those restrictions, Todd said he sought an opinion with D.C.'s Board of Ethics and Government Accountability before accepting the position, "which is pretty thorough on what is and what isn't allowed."

"We will follow it strictly, period," he added.

Brandon Todd To Take Lobbying Job At Washington Gas After Leaving D.C. Council

December 21, 2020

DCist // Hannah Schuster

Outgoing D.C. Councilmember Brandon Todd (D-Ward 4) will lobby for Washington Gas after his term ends.

The utility company said Monday that Todd, who lost a primary to Councilmember-elect Janeese Lewis George, will serve as director of corporate public policy. He will oversee government relations on the federal, state, and local levels, according to a press release.

The Washington Post first reported the news.

“We are delighted to have Brandon join the Washington Gas team,” the company’s president Donald “Blue” Jenkins said in a statement, adding that Todd has a “breadth of experience” and a “deep-rooted commitment to the DC-area and surrounding communities.” Washington Gas says it serves 1.2 million customers in D.C., Maryland, and Virginia.

Todd was first elected in a 2015 special election to fill Mayor Muriel Bowser’s seat. He was Bowser’s handpicked successor and one of her allies on the council. But in June he lost to George, who racked up a series of progressive endorsements.

D.C. council rules on conflicts of interest mean Todd won’t be able to lobby his colleagues on behalf of his new employer for at least a year after his term ends, depending on the issue.

Todd told the Washington Post he asked for an opinion from D.C.’s Board of Ethics and Government Accountability before he took the Washington Gas job. Todd described that opinion as “pretty thorough on what is and what isn’t allowed,” and said he would “follow it strictly, period.”

Outgoing At-Large Councilmember David Grosso also recently announced he is shifting to work for a lobbyist. In early December, he confirmed he will join the law and lobbying firm Arent Fox, which represents major businesses, nonprofits, and charter schools with interests before the city, according to lobbying records. Grosso, who decided not to run for reelection, plans to advise clients in areas such as real estate, education, and the cannabis industry.

Other ex-council members to work as lobbyists include at-large members David Catania, who has his own firm, and Vincent Orange, who has worked for the electric utility Pepco and the D.C. Chamber of Commerce, a move that prompted criticism because he took the job before his term ended and tried to hold both roles at once.

DC joins vehicle emissions pact to lower pollution along with New England states

WJLA 7 // Tom Roussey

On Monday the D.C. mayor's office announced the District is joining several New England states on a climate plan that will begin forcing large gasoline and diesel suppliers to pay for the pollution the city says they are causing in the region.

The city says it will auction off pollution "allowances" and use the money to pay for things like better public transit, bus and bike lanes, sidewalks, and electric buses.

The city says the number of allowances auctioned off will decrease over time and lead to less pollution.

DDOT says more than a third of the money raised will be spent on "underserved and overburdened" neighborhoods where residents are most affected by air pollution.

D.C. says it is joining Connecticut, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island in doing this. It is part of something called the Transportation and Climate Initiative.

The idea of allowances is to raise money by auctioning off the right to emit a certain amount of pollution. Supporters say it encourages companies to cut the amount of pollution they emit in order to save money. The total amount of pollution rights that is auctioned off is reduced over time in order to reduce pollution.

The hope is over time companies will come up with clean energy alternatives to fossil fuel for which they will not need allowances.

Maryland and Virginia have signed on in support of the initiative but have not committed to forcing gas suppliers to buy credits in order to pollute.

DDOT director Jeff Marootian says DC mayor Muriel Bowser does not need city council approval to move forward with the plan because the council already gave her authority to do so under the Clean Energy DC Act, which she signed into law early last year.

The plan will be implemented in stages and is not expected to go fully into effect until 2023.

As of late afternoon, Exxon had not responded to ABC7's request for comment about the District's announcement, but BP sent us a statement calling the Transportation and Climate Initiative "well-designed":

"TCI is a win-win that not only reduces emissions but can also create jobs, boost the economy and help modernize infrastructure," the statement read in part.

However, some critics are concerned about the impact the initiative will have on gas prices.

The conservative Massachusetts Fiscal Alliance accuses TCI of being “a way to tax poor people to fund rich people’s electric vehicles.”

Patrons supportive, restaurant owners frustrated – DC braces for another indoor dining ban

FOX 5 // Stephanie Ramirez

On Monday, FOX 5 heard from a number of business owners and managers who feel they are once again being targeted by the latest coronavirus rollback in the District: a temporary indoor dining ban.

The mayor's office refers to the suspension as a "Holiday Pause" and emphasized, it is a temporary one – only supposed to last around three weeks.

According to D.C. Mayor Muriel Bowser at her Monday COVID-19 news update, they do not plan to extend the temporary ban past the 5 a.m., January 15th deadline. That's when the Mayor says dining would then return to what it is now: 25% capacity.

"We understand the public health need in order to have the ban, in order to really see an impact on resurgence. From the business standpoint through. It's hard it's really difficult. Nobody plans a business based off only using a portion of it," said Hook Hall owner, Anna Valero.

Knowing the struggle her employees and others in the industry are facing, Valero hosted a second "Hook Hall Helps" event, where thanks to the donations from restaurants across the city, Queen Vic Chef Ryan Gordon was able to prepare 200 meals. This was enough for around 65 people to receive three different dinners and a bag of supplies (toilet paper included), from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Northwest DC business on Monday.

The struggling workers this was all prepared for, are restaurant, bar, hotel even entertainment industry employees who have either lost work or are facing hard times as rollbacks and financial woes continue. Valero voiced concern more would be furloughed once the indoor dining suspensions starts on Wednesday.

"A little bit callous. A little bit, you know, we're taking all the burden. Small businesses, we're taking all the burden," said a frustrated Steve Forbes on Monday, responding to the mayor's Monday COVID-19 Update news conference.

Forbes is a managing partner of Proper 21 in Northwest D.C. "If you're going to say fifty-percent indoor dining, why no mandate fifty-percent leases, why not mandate fifty-percent bills, why are we taking the hit? Twenty-five percent? Great. Twenty-five percent lease, twenty-five percent bills. No dining? Then pause our bills. There's some relief coming but it's not close to enough," Forbes added.

Mark Bucher, co-owner of Medium Rare told FOX 5, "If you're going to eliminate half my revenue, 75% of my revenue that's already been adjusted down since March, help me get it back somehow. And the way you help me get it back is you either A say we're going to suspend sales tax remittance for you for 2020, so you keep that money to offset the sales you're losing. We are going to force insurers your businesses interruption insurance key to a percentage of the business that we're limiting you to, so you can recover this. We are going to get you stimulus to keep your people..."

Patrons, understanding of the business owner's frustrations, also tell FOX 5 they support the temporary suspension.

"Where COVID cases are and they're rising, I do think that having - not having indoor dining or now and a period of time might be helpful," said Amy Bhopal, dining on K St. NW with a family member on Monday.

Frederick Williams, looking to enjoy day's warmer winter temps, said, "I don't know how you eat outside here with no covering. I don't see how that works but we have to do what we have to do to get through this pandemic."

"We're asking everybody to make this sacrifice so that our hospital workers won't be overwhelmed," said D.C. Mayor Muriel Bowser.

Barber shops, hair salons and nail salons are still allowed to operate, "by appointment only with stations seated at least six feet apart," according to the Mayor's office.

Other non-essential retail, such as bookstores, gift shops, toy stores, clothing stores and boutiques, are allowed to operate at 25% capacity or no more than 250 people. There must also be social distancing measures.

DC 911 Director Stepping Down

NBC 4 // Mark Segraves

The director of Washington, D.C.'s 911 call center is stepping down to take a job outside of the D.C. region.

Office of Unified Communications Director Karima Holmes will leave the position after the inauguration.

An official announcement will be made Tuesday at a press conference with Mayor Muriel Bowser, sources said.

Holmes becomes the third member of Bowser's public safety team to leave their position in the past several months. It's the fourth public safety position Bowser will have to fill. The D.C. fire and police chiefs also resigned.

Bowser recently promoted the deputy mayor for public safety and justice to become her city administrator and replaced him with the chief medical examiner as the interim deputy mayor for public safety and justice.

Holmes had come under fire recently as the 911 call center sent several dispatches to the wrong addresses. In at least one case a patient died.

Bowser appointed Holmes in January 2016.

A dozen CARE classrooms now reporting COVID cases in D.C.

WJLA 7 // Anna-Lysa Gayle

A dozen CARE classrooms, in 10 schools, are now reporting COVID cases in D.C.

The classrooms provided a small group of students the chance to learn online while being monitored by adults.

“It’s kind of hard to say we’re going to shut the city down and then, turn around and say we’re going to send the kids in,” said a DCPS teacher, who asked to remain anonymous. “At this point, teachers really don’t have anything to say. If they say ‘that’s what we’re going to do,’ I guess that’s what we’re going to do.”

On Monday, Mayor Muriel Bowser was asked if she was concerned about the latest COVID numbers in schools.

“No, I think that it gives me confidence that the system is working as it should,” Bowser said.

Earlier this month, Chancellor Lewis Ferebee told 7 On Your Side that the goal is to return to in-person learning in 2021.

"All DCPS schools will open at the start of Term 3 with in-person programming. School leaders are convening a 'Reopen Community Corps' to inform reopening plans for the remainder of this school year and more information will be shared in early January," according to DCPS.

The information about the cases, comes as the Washington Teachers’ Union (WTU) shares details on their agreement for in-person learning.

“If family demand exceeds availability of bargaining unit members, DCPS may assign bargaining unit members for in-person instruction, for terms 3 and 4,” according to WTU.

The teachers’ union is scheduled to share more details on the agreement in a private meeting on Tuesday.

Overall, not just limited to CARE classrooms, 10 DCPS students and 25 staff members have tested positive for COVID – according to the latest data.

Holiday Reminder: a negative COVID-19 test could give false sense of security

WJLA 7 // Heather Graf

On Monday night, with just days to go before the Christmas holiday, ABC7 found long lines at a free COVID-19 testing site in the District.

"It definitely gives me peace of mind, I would say, but I know it's not 100 percent," one person told us as he waited in line at the firehouse testing site located on Sherman Avenue Northwest.

But health officials and local leaders warn that a negative COVID-19 test result can create a false sense of security. They're reminding people that a negative test today could be a positive test tomorrow.

"Getting tested is not a replacement for exercising good judgement, wearing your mask, washing your hands, staying six feet socially distanced, and limiting your activities," DC Mayor Muriel Bowser said on Monday. "We're asking everyone to protect themselves and their families by staying home, not traveling, and limiting your activities with other households for the Christmas holiday and New Year's Eve and everything in between."

Mayor Bowser also said DC's free coronavirus test sites saw 20,700 people last week, which is about 2,000 more than the week prior.

People waiting in line at the firehouse testing site on Sherman Avenue Northwest said they waited in longer lines the week before Thanksgiving. At that time, back in November, the District did 25,500 tests in a single week.

Montgomery County health officials are also tracking their testing numbers and warning that a negative test prior to seeing family is far from a foolproof plan.

"A test result is like a point in time. It's one data point. More importantly, you've got to take into consideration the people you would be visiting. Who've they been seeing? What have they been doing? So it's more than just your test result," said Mary Anderson with the Montgomery County Department of Health and Human Services.

In Montgomery County, Anderson said they tested 11,000 people last week, between December 13 and December 19. Those pre-Christmas numbers are a bit lower than the 14,000 tests Montgomery County administered the week before Thanksgiving.

Anderson hopes that's perhaps an indicator that people are heeding the advice of health officials and choosing to stay home for the holidays.

"I'm hoping maybe that we're testing less people because people have less plans to go anywhere, which is what we'd really like to see," she said.

Currently, both Montgomery County and the District are able to return test results in an average of 2.5 days.

"Testing is good, we want people to get tested, but we don't want to give people a false sense of security that just because they got a negative test means they can let their guard down," said Anderson. "We need people to stay vigilant."

Washington Gas fined $750,000 after failing to replace regulators like the one blamed in Flower Branch blast

The Washington Post // Steve Thompson

Washington Gas has been ordered to pay a $750,000 fine for failing to notify officials it had not replaced mercury gas regulators such as the one blamed in a deadly 2016 explosion in Silver Spring, Md. The utility pledged more than a decade ago to replace all of its indoor mercury gas regulators, but never did.

In proceedings before the Maryland Public Service Commission, the utility said it decided to focus on addressing a surge of natural gas leaks instead. Washington Gas argued that its pledge to replace the regulators was a “plan” rather than a “commitment.”

The commission disagreed and found that Washington Gas should “at a minimum” have notified the commission that it was not honoring its commitment, said the order issued Friday.

“At no time did [Washington Gas] inform the Commission that it was addressing these leaks at the expense of its commitment” to replace the regulators, the order said.

The fine was based on the number of days over many years that the utility failed to file required annual reports on the replacement effort. The order also accepted a plan by the utility to replace its indoor mercury regulators within about six years.

Faulty vent and regulator caused deadly Silver Spring explosion, federal investigators say

Brian Edwards, a spokesman for Washington Gas, said that although the utility is moving forward with that plan, “it’s important to note that the Commission made no safety-related findings in the case, and the record shows that mercury service regulators (MSRs) operate just as safely as spring-loaded service regulators.”

The gas provider agreed to undisclosed settlements last year to end lawsuits filed by residents of the Flower Branch Apartments, where the deadly blast occurred.

Some in the community say the fine levied Friday didn’t go far enough. State Del. Lorig Charkoudian (D-Montgomery), in whose district the explosion occurred, said she was “shocked and dismayed” by a penalty she called “inconsequential.”

“The public safety implications of [Washington Gas’s] failure was massive,” Charkoudian said in a statement. She said the utility chose to “flagrantly abandon commitments” and should be held more accountable to discourage other utilities from doing likewise.

While seeking a rate increase in 2003, the gas provider said it would replace all 66,793 of its indoor mercury gas regulators over the next decade to address age and environmental concerns.

The utility said it would deploy a staff of seven to replace more than 6,000 regulators a year for 10 years at a cost of about $200 per regulator.

The gas company cited the need to replace the regulators among many reasons it needed more money from customers. It received permission for the rate hike, but never delivered on its plan.

Three years after the regulators were to have been replaced, one became the prime suspect in an explosion that destroyed a building at the Flower Branch apartment complex, killing seven.

The National Transportation Safety Board concluded last year that a failed gas regulator and a disconnected vent line probably allowed gas to build up “to an explosive level” inside a basement meter room at the mostly low-income complex just outside Washington.

The resulting blast injured more than 30 and displaced more than 100.

The regulator and vent were owned and operated by Washington Gas and were the utility’s responsibility to maintain, NTSB investigators said. The regulators reduce the pressure of gas coming into a building. If a regulator leaks or fails, the vent pipe is supposed to carry gas safely outdoors, where it can dissipate.

Washington Gas officials have said that they disagree with the NTSB’s findings and that the agency didn’t sufficiently investigate other potential causes.

The utility has acknowledged it still doesn’t know how many regulators need replacing or where they are, and says it will undertake a survey to find out.

“After we complete this survey over the next year, Washington Gas will remove all multi-family MSRs [mercury service regulators] within 3 years and all single-family and other MSRs within 5 years,” Edwards said.

New Federal, Local Relief For Indie Venues Could Save Some Beloved District Stages

WAMU/DCist // Mikaela Lefrak

The owners of independent music venues and theaters in D.C. received two pieces of good news Monday, one from the national level and one from the local.

First, Congress finally agreed on a massive coronavirus relief package that will include $15 billion in dedicated relief for independent live music venues, movie theaters and museums. The two chambers are expected to pass the year-end package Monday and send it to the president.

The inclusion of the “Save Our Stages Act” in the federal relief package marks a major win for groups like the National Independent Venue Association (NIVA), which formed at the beginning of the pandemic to lobby on behalf of venues that rely on live events.

“This will be a lifesaver for venues in the Washington region and across the country that have been holding on for dear life,” says Audrey Fix Schaefer, the head of communications for both NIVA and I.M.P., the D.C. entertainment company that operates the 9:30 Club, the Anthem and Merriweather Post Pavilion. “Even though it could take weeks or months for the money to start to flow, this is an enormous hurdle that not too many people thought we would be able to achieve.”

The legislation found a valuable advocate in Senate Minority Leader Chuck Schumer (D-NY). Speaking on the House floor Sunday night, Schumer called independent venues “the lifeblood of our communities. They were the first to close and will be the last to open. This bill gives them a fighting chance.”

At this early stage, it’s not clear what the process or timeline for receiving the funding will look like for local businesses. Due to the anticipated weeks-long wait time for the cash to come through, some venues that have gone without dedicated relief for the entirety of the pandemic expect to use the money simply to close without debt.

“Some of these places will still have to close, but at least they won’t have to close in a deficit,” says Aaron Myers, the board chair of the Capitol Hill Jazz Foundation. “These venues have gone so long without assistance.”

Still, he calls the news of the stages-specific relief funding “a much-needed injection of capital and hope.”

While the D.C.’s indie stages wait for clarity on the federal relief package, they can start applying for financial support from the District. On Monday morning, D.C. officials announced the city’s Bridge Fund is now open to entertainment venues.

The city has allocated $29.5 million for live music venues, movie theaters, private museums, nightclubs and other entertainment venues. These types of businesses have been “particularly hard hit, because the public health protocols have caused most of this industry to close during the public health emergency,” Deputy Mayor for Planning and Economic Development John Falcicchio said in a Monday press conference. His office will run a town hall Tuesday to answer questions about the application process, which runs through mid-January.

Venue owners have been waiting for the Bridge Fund to open to them since the program launched last month. The fund is being bankrolled by $20 million in federal CARES Act money and $80 million in local money. Restaurants and hotels have already been allowed to apply.

For some venues in D.C., this new injection of capital will arrive too late. Twins Jazz, Eighteenth Street Lounge and U Street Music Hall have all permanently closed in the past few months. Leaders in the city’s music scene say more closures are on the way.

“Watching them fold has been absolutely excruciating,” says Schaefer. “Your reputation as a great venue won’t save you.” (The federal relief bill will come in time for I.M.P.’s venues — Schaefer says the bill’s passage means the 9:30 Club and the Anthem “will be able to weather the storm.”)

Other venues that were able to partially reopen over the past couple months have decided to temporarily shut their doors again, rather than attempt to pull in meager profits during the winter months.

Bill Spieler, the owner of DC9 Nightclub in Shaw, watched his food and beverage sales drop by half between October and November as the District’s coronavirus numbers ticked up. He has not held a concert in DC9’s live music space since before the pandemic, but he’s been operating the bar and offering food delivery.

Because DC9 has that performance space, its insurance costs are higher than a typical bar or restaurant. On Saturday, Spieler shuttered the business until March 2021 as a way to save money until customers feel safe enough to return.

He thinks the combination of federal relief, Bridge Fund money and his temporary closure will get DC9 through to the other side of the pandemic. “This past weekend was wonderful,” he says. “Many people came in to say goodbye for a little while. A lot of celebrating, a little bit of sadness.”

Metro Could Get Hundreds Of Millions In Federal Relief, Avoid Most Drastic Service Cuts

WAMU/DCist // Jordan Pascale

Metro will likely be able to avoid some of the most drastic service cuts in its budget that begins in July if the Senate approves coronavirus relief funding this week.

Congress is set to vote on a $900 billion relief package today. While the text of the bill isn't out yet, it's expected to include $14 billion for public transit, considerably less than the $32 billion industry groups say they need to keep transit systems afloat.

That money gets doled out based on a set of formulas. Yonah Freemark of the Urban Institute did the math earlier this month when transit was set to get $15 billion. Back then, he estimated the Washington region could get about $530 million in relief. But some of that money goes toward local transit agencies like Alexandria's DASH, Prince George's County's The Bus and more. So it's unclear what exactly will be leftover for WMATA.

Last round in the CARES Act, the region got $1 billion and Metro ended up with $877 million.

If this round follows a similar formula, Metro would get somewhere around $400-plus million. About $175 million would plug a shortfall in this year's budget that ends in July. The rest could fill up some of the $500 million budget gap in Fiscal Year 2022.

Metro's proposed cuts that start in July are valued at about $343 million, according to Metro's budget documents. It includes eliminating weekend train service, running trains every 30 minutes on all lines on weekdays, implementing turnbacks on the Red, Yellow and Silver lines, closing Metrorail at 9 p.m., closing 19 stations and eliminating another 2,400 jobs.

In all, it cuts rail service to 20% of pre-pandemic levels and bus service to 45% of pre-pandemic levels. Some board members said that level of service will force many to find travel alternatives or continue to work from home.

But now some of that could be off the table.

It's unclear what exactly would be changed if additional funds do arrive. Metro has said federal relief is the only option for help it has left, and WMATA General Manager Paul Wiedefeld has repeatedly said it would be much easier to add back service if it came.

The board hasn't addressed which service items would be restored first.

Metro board chair Paul Smedberg said the board has not discussed line by line priorities. He said he's unsure if the board will hold another meeting before the end of the year if funds do come through.

Last week, the board voted to send the budget proposal to the public for comment in January and February.

“We obviously know public input will be negative,” board member Matt Letourneau said during the meeting. “People will not like this.

“But out of all these bad choices, which are the worst?... We have to be able to weigh them against each other.”

That information could help them make the most informed decisions when the budget is formally voted on in March.

Metro board members have expressed distaste for cutting weekend service, closing stations and the turnbacks specifically. Most say the budget is awful, but necessary.

If Metro is able to avoid the proposed cuts and sticks to its current service levels, it would represent about 50% of pre-pandemic rail service and 75% of pre-pandemic bus service. It looks like this:

- Metrorail hours: 5 a.m.-11 p.m.
- Red Line Trains every 5 minutes during peak hours; every 12 minutes during midday; and 15 minutes during evenings.
- Rest of lines: trains every 8 minutes during peak hours; every 15 minutes during midday; and every 20 minutes during evenings.
- Metrobus hours: 4 a.m. until midnight
- About 60 routes operating.

WMATA has been sustaining itself with about $800 million that it got from the CARES Act in May, but that money runs out early next year.

The American Public Transit Association says the industry needs $32 billion to survive. Many Democrats say this bill is merely a “bridge” to a wider funding package in the new year.

Arrest made in cold case murder 10 years after DC mother vanished

FOX 5 // Lindsay Watts

D.C. police have made an arrest in a cold case murder 10 years after a mother vanished from her home as her kids were sleeping.

According to court records, the man police say killed 24-year-old Unique Harris was named early on in the investigation, interviewed several times and was wearing a GPS monitor that confirmed he was at Harris' apartment overnight when she disappeared.

Isaac Moyer, 43, of SE, was arrested last week and charged with second-degree murder while armed.

On Oct. 9, 2010, Harris was in her apartment on Hartford St. SE with her two sons, who were four and five years old, and their 10-year-old cousin.

The boys told police they watched a movie with Harris, went to bed and when they woke up, the apartment was in disarray and she was gone.

Harris is presumed dead even though her body still has never been found.

FOX 5 spoke to Harris' mother in 2016.

"The last words I said to Unique was, 'I love you Yukee Pookie.' That's my nickname for her," said Valencia Harris. "We had a nice conversation on the phone. The boys were rambunctious on the background."

According to arrest records, early in the investigation, Valencia Harris told police she received information that Moyer (identified by his nickname 'Iceburg') had something to do with her daughter's disappearance.

Police interviewed him in 2011, 2016 and 2018.

In 2017, his DNA was confirmed on a couch cushion in Harris' apartment.

His arrest affidavit states that he and Harris talked by phone 13 times on Oct. 9, 2010.

One of the last pieces of information in the 25-page document says that Moyer was being monitored by a GPS tracking device when Harris went missing and was at her apartment building.

"The records continuously indicate that he was present at that location throughout the night," reads the affidavit.

It says that tracking records indicate at 7:20 a.m. Oct. 10, Moye left the apartment building and "walked back to a wooded area alongside his address at 2300 of Good Hope Rd. SE."

It's unclear when investigators obtained this information.

In 2017, a new detective was assigned to the case that re-interviewed witnesses. At that time, Harris' son, who was five at the time of her disappearance, told investigators new information- that he believed he had seen "Iceburg" in the apartment with his mom before she disappeared and heard arguing and then her muffled scream.

The affidavit also states that in Oct. 2020, investigators interviewed a witness in custody who says Moye told him there was a missing girl "but that they will never get him (Moye) because he (Moye) did it the right way so they will never figure it out."

Good morning, Bob. The current split in Arizona is Finance, HR, and a new trend toward the Legal Department in municipal government. A few report to a deputy city manager.

My roles have tended to be in Administrative Services, Finance & Administration, or Central Services.

Hope it helps,

Risk Management at the City of Columbia, MO reports to Finance. This was so structured when the City entered into a self-insurance structure back in 1988. I have a close working relationship with both Legal and HR, and coordinate with the Finance Department Head when there is a need to go to City Administration/Manager.

I don't handle benefits which could make the work with HR more important.

Hi Stephen,

In New Jersey the workers' compensation law is clear about this. Every organization (private, not-for-profit and public sector) who hires contractors is responsible for ensuring the contractor has workers' compensation for their employees and sub-contractors as is law. If the original contracting organization fails to do this then that organization is responsible for the workers' compensation of the injured employee even if not their own.

We had this case wherein a casual laborer was nearly cut in half by a stump grinder and the landscaper who hired this immigrant laborer had let the company's workers' compensation policy lapse at renewal and we did not pick it up upon review of the renewal COI. This young man was married with two children and head of household whose permanent injuries were severe. The case was of serious value and fortunately the landscaper was of serious means and the laborer's attorney and the judge settled with us for an amount that was tolerable by agreeing to forgo our subrogation rights so that the laborer could sue the landscaper directly. We site that claim over and over again in teaching members about workers' compensation and the value of managing contracts and COI's in support of the contracts. We were just lucky that the landscaper had assets.

As workers' compensation is state law, I suggest you ask a workers' compensation respondent attorney in Indiana how IN law would apply.

Good luck and happy holidays,

Scott

Good Morning –

I have a good idea of the answer to my own question, but I am hoping someone can provided a good analysis. Is there a scenario in which a government entity or business can be held responsible for the worker's compensation of a vendor's employee?

If no, why? If yes, what factors would be considered into this determination?
(Ex. Negligence of entity or business owner etc.)

Hi Leslie,

Attached is the Third Party Management Manual we use for this purpose in PDF and Word. I also included the How To Read a Certificate of Insurance guide we use to help our members with this work.. It does not yet contain language for virus coverage as we are uncertain what a reasonable insurance requirement is at present and we are working on a Recognition and Acceptance of Virus Risk Form to identify and manage the risk.

Feel free to use whatever you find valuable. There is no copyright or restriction on any of this.

Good morning everyone. I am in need of some help. I am currently working on our insurance manual/standards for vendor contracts. Was hoping that other entities would be willing to share what they have in place for an insurance manual or what standard language they use for different types of vendor contracts. For example: Services versus goods; construction, professional services, etc. We are trying to develop something like a tiered system so that depending on the type and cost of the contract, making it easier for the contracts department to choose the right insurance coverages.

Any help is greatly appreciated. Happy Holidays everyone.

Good morning, all. The decision to leave Central Arizona Project was very difficult. The opportunity to develop an Enterprise Risk Management program for our community college district was compelling. So . . .

You will see a new email address for me in 2021. (I'm still here through December.)

Central Arizona Project is looking for my successor. I cannot say enough good things about CAP. As part of Arizona's critical infrastructure, it delivers 1.5 million acre feet of water uphill across a 336 mile system of aqueduct and pumping plants, without which there is not enough water in Phoenix and Tucson.

Leadership development is a foundational principle. The General Manager has an ARM-E. The department manager has her CPCU and ARM-E and is excellent to work with. The District owns its own single parent Captive. The people are great, as are the benefits. Association involvement (especially PRIMA) is encouraged. You will not need to worry about being bored!

The position will be posted on PRIMA's job board and is already on AZ PRIMA's website. You can find more information or apply here. Feel free to contact me at the cell phone number below if you want to discuss the opportunity.

Thanks,

THE HOT STORY

Stress tests show U.S. banks can withstand pandemic

The Federal Reserve said Friday that the largest U.S. banks remain strong enough to survive the coronavirus crisis but warned that a prolonged economic downturn could saddle them with hundreds of billions of dollars in losses on soured loans. Under two hypothetical scenarios, in which unemployment remains high and the economy doesn't bounce back for several quarters, the 33 largest U.S. banks could be hit with as much as $600bn in loan losses, the Fed said in the latest iteration of its stress test. That would erode the capital buffers meant to keep them on a sound financial footing, the central bank said. Randal Quarles, the Fed's vice chairman of supervision, said the banking system "has been a source of strength during the past year," adding "Today's stress test results confirm that large banks could continue to lend to households and businesses even during a sharply adverse future turn in the economy."

COMPLIANCE

Monetary award could weaken compliance programs

Some companies say the prospect of financial benefit to compliance professionals for reporting possible violations could weaken compliance programs. Under the terms of a proposed reward program, included in the annual defense-spending bill approved by the Senate last week, whistleblowers could receive a proportion of penalties for reporting potential violations of the Bank Secrecy Act to regulators. Dan Zitting, chief product and strategy officer at Vancouver-based compliance technology firm Galvanize, said that among concerns is that individuals who manage compliance programs would have a financial incentive to report problems to a government agency rather than through internal channels.

Home Depot fined for allegedly violating lead paint rules

Home Depot is to pay a fine of more than $20m after settling with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the Department of Justice for alleged "serious violations" of the EPA's lead paint rule. The civil penalty announced Thursday is the largest such penalty to date under the Toxic Substances Control Act. Under the terms of the proposed settlement, the retailer must implement a program to ensure that contractors hired to perform home renovations are certified to use lead-safe work practices. EPA said its probes of customer complaints about Home Depot renovations identified work subcontracted to firms that did not use lead-safe work practices.

ECONOMY

U.S. poverty levels rise at fastest-ever rate

Nearly 8m Americans fell into poverty this summer, according to a new study assessing the effects of the coronavirus pandemic on the number of people living under the poverty line, the largest jump in a single year dating back 60 years to when the government first started tracking poverty. Researchers at the University of Chicago and the University of Notre Dame found that the poverty rate rose to 11.7% in November, up 2.4 percentage points since June. Thirty percent of Americans are living off twice the federal poverty line, which is roughly $2,126 per month for one person and $4,366 for a family of four. Nearly twice as many Black Americans are living in poverty as white Americans, according to the study, which also shows that more women are under the poverty line than men. The numbers also vary from state to state, with those that issued state of emergency and stay-at-home orders earlier faring better than others. States with higher death rates, however, reported a lesser percentage of people living below the federal poverty line than those with lower death rates.

Is another financial crisis imminent?

Writing for Harvard Business Review, Ehen Harrell wonders whether we are on the verge of another financial crisis. The author observes that in 2008, a collapse in housing prices precipitated a global financial meltdown. Now, John Macomber, a senior lecturer at Harvard Business School, believes history may be about to repeat itself - this time because the financial system hasn't correctly priced in the risk posed by a changing climate, including fires, floods and storms. If a correction occurs suddenly, the collapse in housing prices could spread through the financial system, he suggests.

Global toxic ship fuel scandal

Forbes' Nishan Degnarain reports on a global ship fuel scandal and cover-up in the wake of a Mauritius oil spill in August. A highly toxic mix of chemicals that was expeditiously pushed through as a new type of ship fuel has disrupted the safety of global shipping around the world, he says. The super-pollutant oil has been referred to as a 'Frankenstein Fuel' by leading NGOs. Thousands of ships around the world are at risk of catastrophic engine failures, writes Degnarain, in a still developing scandal that he thinks looks likely to be larger than the Volkswagen emissions scandal.

A Google deal with Saudi state-owned oil producer Aramco which will see the U.S. tech giant start selling its cloud-computing services in Saudi Arabia risks angering staff who oppose doing business with the fossil fuel industry or regimes accused of human rights abuses, reports Bloomberg. Former Google researcher Jack Poulson is worried Google cloud services in Saudi Arabia could be used to monitor citizens. "It's irresponsible of Google to do this without some clarification of its scope," he said.

ORDER GRANTING IN PART AND DENYING IN PART GOVERNMENT'S MOTION FOR A PROTECTIVE ORDER REGARDING SOURCE DOCUMENTS UNDERLYING THE INVESTIGATION OF MISCONDUCT AT DFS

The government has filed a motion requesting a protective order that would limit the use and dissemination of source materials related to the government's investigations of alleged misconduct by employees of the D.C. Department of Forensic Sciences (DFS) and officials of the Metropolitan Police Department (MPD). The government argues that it has shown "good cause" for a protective order, as required by Rule 16(d)(1) of the Superior Court Rules of Criminal Procedure, in that a broad release of the source materials could compromise possible future investigations into the alleged misconduct and infringe on the privacy of DFS employees. It asks that the court authorize the government to withhold certain investigative materials from the defense, specifically bulk collections of emails and internal records reflecting deliberations of the United States Attorney's Office (USAO). The defense has filed an opposition in which it argues that the government should be required to turn over more complete information than it proposes in its motion because the government's "proposed search is . . . effectively limited to a Jencks search and does not address issues related to the integrity of the FEU in processing evidence, processing of evidence in this case, or the maintenance of the chain of custody in this case." Def. Opp. At 5-6. The defense does not object to any of the specific restrictions on the sharing of information set forth in the government's proposed order. The government has filed a reply.

For the reasons stated below, the court concludes that the government has not shown good cause for its request to withhold specific materials, including emails and internal records, but that it has shown good cause to impose some of its requested limitations on the manner in which the defense may use these materials.

Background

On October 8, 2019, the D.C. Office of Inspector General, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and the Fraud and Public Corruption Section of the USAO's Criminal Division began an investigation into allegations of misconduct at DFS and MPD. The allegations "included concerns about DFS operations related to the firearms examination and verification procedures used by the FEU [Firearms Examination Unit] during April and May 2017, in particular, and that DFS and MPD officials whitewashed the allegations and concealed them from the USAO." Gov. Mot. at 9.

The government finished its investigation and filed a report of its findings and recommendations on January 31, 2020. The report, which has been made public, explains that although investigators did not find evidence of criminal intent, their work did reveal "mismanagement, poor judgment, and failures of communication, all of which call into question the integrity and competence of FEU leadership, and broader concerns about DFS management's handling of internal disciplinary matters and Giglio issues." Id. at 10. Local and national news outlets have written about the investigation and the resulting report.

Shortly after the report was released, the government began filing motions in several cases, including this one, requesting protective orders limiting the defense's use and dissemination of source materials related to the investigation. Here, the government states that it will disclose a copy of the report to the defense and that it will also produce certain primary source materials, subject to a protective order. The government also asks that a protective order authorize it to withhold from the defense “(1) the bulk collection of E-Mails obtained during the government’s investigation that were not identified through applicable searches as relevant to the FEU investigation; and (2) internal records of the USAO reflecting both its deliberations about whether it would sponsor a DFS witness and its communications with DFS personnel about this decision.” Gov. Mot. at 14. The government states that its “investigation does not implicate any DFS or MPD employees who are testifying in this case or who had a direct role in the collection, handling, processing, analysis, review, or verification of testing of the evidence in this case.” Id. at 13.

Discussion

The government contends that the Rule 16 “good cause” standard governs its request for a protective order. The defense does not dispute the government’s assertion, and the court agrees that the Rule 16 good cause standard applies. Rule 16(d)(1) provides:

At any time the court may, for good cause, deny, restrict, or defer discovery or inspection, or grant other appropriate relief. The court may permit a party to show good cause by a written statement that the court will inspect ex parte. If relief is granted, the court must preserve the entire text of the party’s statement under seal.

The good cause standard of Rule 16(d)(1) “ensures that a protective order will not issue unless the party asking the court to issue it demonstrates that the order would advance or protect some legitimate interest other than suppression of expression.” Humboldt Baykeeper v. Union Pac. R. Co., 244 F.R.D. 560, 562 (N.D. Cal. 2007). The requesting party must establish a “real” risk of disclosure and show that the feared disclosure “would cause an identifiable, significant harm” Id. At 563. “Broad allegations of harm, unsubstantiated by specific examples or articulated reasoning,” are insufficient to support a good cause showing. Wecht, 484 F.3d at 211. A court considering a request for a protective order must “weigh fairly the competing needs and interests of parties affected by discovery.” Seattle Times, 467 U.S. at 36.

Here, the government has largely failed to show with any specificity how each of the prohibitions it has proposed would protect against an “identifiable, significant harm.” Humboldt Baykeeper, 244 F.R.D. at 562. The government argues that a broad protective order is necessary because the underlying emails may contain sensitive personal information. The court cannot agree. If there is in fact sensitive personal information in the emails, then the government should go through the emails and redact it before the emails are produced to the defense.

The government also argues that it should be permitted to withhold “both internal USAO records reflecting its deliberations and opinions, as well as USAO communications with DFS personnel about these decisions” because the government has an interest in “protecting its internal deliberations and opinions and DC-OIG’s ability to conduct its administrative inquiry without interference.” Gov. Mot. at 17. The court agrees that the government should not be required to disclose internal USAO communications so long as any facts that are contained within those communications and are otherwise subject to disclosure under Brady are shared with the defense. The court is not persuaded that the government should be allowed to withhold communications between the USAO and DFS. Those communications are not internal and have not been shown to be confidential. Indeed, they are contacts between the USAO and an agency the USAO has been investigating. The government therefore has failed to show good cause for this requested protection.

Finally, although the defense has not raised a challenge to this limitation in its opposition, the court finds that the government has failed to provide a satisfactory justification for its request that the defense be required to obtain prior court authorization each time it wishes to share any of the materials with any particular individual interviewed as part of the defense investigation. In addition to the fact that this would be incredibly restrictive and time-consuming for the defense, the court believes that the defense generally should be able to investigate Brady information disclosed by the government without court supervision and with restrictions imposed only as truly necessary to protect truly sensitive information. No such necessity has been shown here, and it is likely, in any event, that any person the defense chooses to show documents to will already know about the information referred to in the documents; presumably, that is the reason the defense will be interviewing the person.

The defense has not challenged other aspects of the government's proposed protective order, and the court finds that the unchallenged provisions impose reasonable limitations aimed at preventing the widespread dissemination of the underlying source materials.

Accordingly, it is this 15th day of June 2020

ORDERED that the government's motion for a protective order is granted in part and denied in part. Specifically, it is further

ORDERED that the United States must produce to the defense: (1) the bulk collection of E-Mails obtained during the government's investigation, with appropriate redactions made for sensitive personal information; and (2) records of the U.S. Attorney's Office for the District of Columbia (USAO) reflecting its communications with DFS personnel about whether it would sponsor a DFS witness. It is

FURTHER ORDERED that the United States does not need to produce to the defense internal records of the U.S. Attorney's Office for the District of Columbia (USAO) reflecting its wholly internal deliberations about whether it would sponsor a DFS witness, and it is

FURTHER ORDERED, pursuant to Super. Ct. R. Crim. P. 16(d) and Rule 3.8(e) of the D.C. Rules of Professional Conduct, that, with respect to the source materials related to its investigation, an index thereof, and any additional investigative materials that will or may be generated in connection with the criminal or administrative investigations and that the United States may come to possess:

1. Materials Subject to this Order. Except as provided herein, this protective order ("Order") governs sensitive investigation materials ("SIM") disclosed by the government in connection with this protective order, and as otherwise designated, at any stage of this case.
2. Legal Defense Team. The "legal defense team" includes defense counsel (defined as counsel of record in this case, including any post-conviction or appellate counsel) and any attorneys, investigators, paralegals, support staff, and expert witnesses who are advising or assisting defense counsel in connection with this case. The legal defense team does not include the defendant or the defendant's family members, friends, or associates.
3. Limitations on Dissemination. Except as otherwise permitted by this Order, the legal defense team shall not disseminate SIM materials directly or through any person or instrumentality to any person, entity, or public forum, other than members of the legal defense team.

4. Limitations on Use. Subject to the limitations contained in this Order, the legal defense team may discuss SIM materials with, and defense counsel may authorize review of SIM materials by, (A) the defendant and (B) other persons interviewed as part of the defense investigation.
5. Limitations on Reproduction. Subject to limitations contained in this Order, the legal defense team may physically or electronically reproduce SIM materials as deemed necessary by defense counsel for use in connection with this case. Except as authorized herein, the legal defense team shall not provide a copy, screenshot, or electronic reproduction of the SIM materials to the defendant or any other person interviewed as part of the defense investigation. Any reproductions of SIM materials authorized by defense counsel shall be treated in the same manner as the original SIM materials.
6. Storage Requirements. Except as authorized herein, the legal defense team shall store SIM materials in a secure physical or electronic environment that limits access to members of the legal defense team. Defense counsel shall be responsible and accountable for maintaining, securing, and storing the SIM materials, including all reproductions thereof, and taking all necessary precautions to prevent unauthorized access.
7. Responsibility to Limit Disclosure of Sensitive Information. If the legal defense team discusses SIM materials with, or defense counsel authorizes the viewing of SIM materials by, the defendant or any other person interviewed as part of the defense investigation, then the legal defense team shall ensure that no such person hears or views any portion of the SIM materials that includes the following information:
  - a. dates of birth;

- b. social security or taxpayer identification numbers;
  - c. driver's license or non-driver's license identification numbers;
  - d. home or school addresses;
  - e. personal telephone numbers, cellular numbers, or e-mail addresses;
  - f. relatives, including names and contact information;
  - g. credit card, bank, debit, or other financial-account numbers; or
  - h. medical or mental health history information.
8. Responsibility to Prevent Reproduction During Viewing. If defense counsel authorizes the defendant or any other person interviewed as part of the defense investigation to view SIM materials, then the legal defense team shall ensure that such person does not copy, photograph, take screenshots, or otherwise reproduce the SIM materials.
9. Viewing by Incarcerated Defendants. If the defendant is incarcerated by the District of Columbia Department of Corrections (hereinafter "DCDOC"), then defense counsel is authorized to provide a copy of the SIM materials to the DCDOC Office of General Counsel so that the defendant can review the SIM materials pursuant to DCDOC's alternative viewing procedure. Before providing a copy of the SIM materials to DCDOC, defense counsel must ensure that the SIM materials provided to the defendant through DCDOC do not contain any sensitive information enumerated in paragraph 7. Nothing in this Order relieves the defendant or the legal defense team of its obligation to execute a waiver, or to comply with any other requirements established by the DCDOC's Procedures for Attorney Visitation and Discovery/Surveillance Review policy.

10. Notification Regarding this Order. Defense counsel must provide a copy of this Order to members of the legal defense team, the defendant, and any other person interviewed as part of the defense investigation before providing such persons with access to, or permitting them to view, SIM materials
11. Disposition Following the Conclusion of this Criminal Case. Following a dismissal or acquittal in this case, defense counsel shall destroy or return to the United States the SIM materials. Following a conviction in this case, defense counsel may retain a copy of the SIM materials. This Order shall remain in effect after the conclusion of this case and shall continue to govern the dissemination, use, reproduction, storage, and retention of SIM materials disclosed in this case. Nothing in this Order prevents the government from seeking a court order to further restrict the retention of SIM materials, and nothing in this Order prevents defense counsel from seeking a court order allowing broader retention of the SIM materials.
12. Automatic Exclusion from this Order. This Order does not apply to SIM materials that are, or later become, part of the public record, including materials that have been received in evidence in this or other public trials, or materials that are publicly released by the USAO or the Government of the District of Columbia, including the Metropolitan Police Department.
13. Scope of this Order. This Order does not prevent any party from objecting to the discovery or admission of SIM materials that it otherwise believes to be improper. This Order also does not constitute a ruling on: (A) any potential objections to the discoverability or admissibility of SIM materials; or (B) whether any particular SIM material is properly discoverable or admissible. This Order is not intended to limit the use of SIM materials in any judicial proceedings in this case.

14. Modification of this Order. Consent to this Order does not constitute a waiver or otherwise prevent any party from seeking modification of this Order.

Hello team,

Thanks you for starting the User Acceptance Testing of the Insurance modules (Property, Builders Risk, etc.). We expect a lot more issues and will try and resolve asap.

Will greatly appreciate if you can create Support Tickets in ERisk so we can track the issues to completion. All other teams are using it and has been a good tool to track open items.

Thank you for your help to test the system so we can best tailor it to your needs.

Subject: Property Policy Report - Sort Issue

Hi Robert,

Thanks for notifying us about the Sort issue. The issue was there is a "Total" row at the bottom of the report that should not be sorted, hence it was created as a merged cell.

In the attached report, I deleted the Total rows at the bottom as well as some empty rows above the header.

Please try if this attached spreadsheet can be sorted/filtered. We can then update the ERisk report to generate this spreadsheet.

Greatly appreciate your and the teams feedback.

Thanks,
Sanjay

Weekly Market Update | Week of December 21, 2020

The Week on Wall Street

Stocks climbed higher amid the COVID-19 vaccine rollout and an improving outlook for a fiscal stimulus bill.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average, which has lagged all year, gained 0.44%. The Standard & Poor's 500 picked up 1.25% while the Nasdaq Composite index surged 3.05%. The MSCI EAFE index, which tracks developed overseas stock markets, rose 2.44%.<sup>1,2,3</sup>

Stocks Climb Higher

In a week that celebrated the national rollout of a COVID-19 vaccine, market enthusiasm was tempered by worries of infection caseload and fresh economic lockdowns.

Investors turned their focus to the fiscal stimulus negotiations in Washington, D.C., with the hope that a relief bill may be the bridge that gets the economy over its near-term troubles until vaccine distribution grows more widespread.

These negotiations were not smooth sailing. When a compromise bill appeared to gather support, markets quickly moved higher, with the Dow Jones Industrial Average, S&P 500, and NASDAQ Composite all setting new record high closes on Thursday.<sup>4</sup>

Stocks slipped in the final day of trading as stimulus hopes wavered.

Fed Outlook on Economy Improves

The Federal Reserve on Wednesday concluded its last meeting of the Federal Open Market Committee for 2020. Fed officials provided more detail for its monthly bond purchase program and reiterated their commitment to a monthly purchase of $120 billion of Treasury and mortgage-back securities until its inflation and employment goals are met.<sup>5</sup>

The Federal Reserve also raised its outlook on the U.S. economy. It revised its September forecast of a 3.7% decline in GDP in 2020 to a 2.4% decline, and increased its 2021 GDP growth forecast from 4.0% to 4.2%. It also expects unemployment at 2020 year-end would fall to 6.7%, substantially lower than its earlier estimate of 7.6%.<sup>6</sup>

Final Thoughts

Our weekly market commentary will not be published next week. We would like to take this moment to wish you and your family a safe and joyous holiday season.

Hello Jed,

We're excited to announce that Route Fifty's DigiGov webcast is available for on demand viewing. I moderated the discussion and encourage you to tune in!

As many Americans are spending more time at home, state and local governments must deliver essential, critical services digitally. Of particular, pressing interest? Unemployment benefits and services. Hundreds of thousands still remain jobless, prompting high levels of traffic to government unemployment portals daily. But it's not just unemployment services that governments must tackle digitally: telemedicine, essential meetings, permits, retirement, taxes, disability—the list continues.

Tune in to hear from the following leaders who are on the frontlines of digital transformation and citizen experience.

- Katrina Flory, Deputy State Chief Information Officer, State of Ohio
- Nicholas Susi, Deputy Chief Information Officer, Projects and Performance, City of Philadelphia
- Rob Forbes, Senior Solutions Architect, Okta

Jed,

FYI – we did try to work on the property report this morning and were unable to do so as what we thought would work would not. The sorting that Sanjay thought was happening was not. Robert figured out what perhaps might be the issue. I think we should change 1 thing at a time, otherwise, it is simply too hard to determine accuracy.

We will try to work on the builders risk this afternoon.

Subject: Property Policy Report - Sort Issue

Hi Robert,

Thanks for notifying us about the Sort issue. The issue was there is a "Total" row at the bottom of the report that should not be sorted, hence it was created as a merged cell.

In the attached report, I deleted the Total rows at the bottom as well as some empty rows above the header.

Please try if this attached spreadsheet can be sorted/filtered. We can then update the ERisk report to generate this spreadsheet.

Greatly appreciate your and the teams feedback.

Thanks,
Sanjay

Good Afternoon Sara,

I would like to start off by saying Direct Ross has spoken very highly of you as partner to ORM. It seems we need your assistance again.

We were scheduled to meet with members of your team today about OSSE's agency costs related to GPS and driver safety. This morning the scheduled meeting was pushed back to January 7, 2021. We are sort of under a time crunch to obtain this information as we need to review and submit a response to OBPM by the end of January. Director Reed has also indicated that she would help obtain this information if we need her assistance. This has a very high priority to OBPM.

All we need is a response to the 4 questions listed below and any ongoing contracts related to GPS and driver safety. Do you think you could assist with expediting this? I would be happy to answer any additional questions.

Thanks,

Christopher Vass

Good Morning,

I completely understand the delay, but I am curious is there is anything we can do to expedite this? We have a deadline for compiling of this information. We can work with pushing this back, but would like to know if there are an concerns I can help alleviate now?

Our goal is to obtain the recent contacts you all have in place related to this and answers for the few questions we asked.

- Does your agency have a contract(s) related to GPS (or similar devices like Auto Vehicle Locator) and/or other District Driver Safety programs? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- Are there video recorders in your assigned fleet vehicles? If so, is there a process on when the recordings are download/stored? Is this managed by a third party? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- For your fleet vehicles, how does the agency manage the keys to the vehicle(s) and the tracking of employees driving?
- Does your agency have any concerns with staff usage of the fleet or driving, or anything you would like to make us aware of?

Thanks,

Subject: District Agency Costs for GPS and the Driver Safety Program (OSSE)

Good Afternoon Director Brumley & Deputy Meyers,

I hope you are doing well. I am Chris Vass, Management Analyst with the DC Office of Risk Management (ORM). On behalf of Jed Ross, Director/Chief Risk Officer, I am reaching out to you and other District agencies in order to undertake a review and analysis of city-wide fleet safety programs that are being used by District agencies. In order for me to begin the review and analysis, I need your assistance to compile all data and information related to your safety program:

- Does your agency have a contract(s) related to GPS (or similar devices like Auto Vehicle Locator) and/or other District Driver Safety programs? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- Are there video recorders in your assigned fleet vehicles? If so, is there a process on when the recordings are download/stored? Is this managed by a third party? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- For your fleet vehicles, how does the agency manage the keys to the vehicle(s) and the tracking of employees driving?
- Does your agency have any concerns with staff usage of the fleet or driving, or anything you would like to make us aware of?

The goal of this project is to ultimately bring all agencies under one city-wide management system for GPS, liability documentation (video), safe driving training, data collection (life of vehicle, miles driven, speeding, dangerous driving, possible maintenance needs, performance metrics, etc....). We are in the early stages of this endeavor but feel it could lead to monumental change for the District. One procurement, one system, economies of scale, and better data for everyone.

Please let know if you have any question or concerns.

Thanks,

Chris Vass

Case No.: 2019-PSWC-00015

FINAL ORDER OF DISMISSAL

I. INTRODUCTION

This case came before the Office of Administrative Hearings on Claimant Pernell Carter's January 29, 2019, appeal of an Office of Risk Management Notice of Determination (NOD) that terminated his temporary total disability benefits.

In June 2020, ORM announced that it would rescind the NOD and pay Claimant wages in arrears and wages going forward. For reasons set out below, this case is dismissed as moot.

II. PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The case at OAH began with a status conference and then mediation at a time Claimant represented himself. The parties reached an agreement in mediation on June 7, 2019, and I entered a Final Order Dismissing the case. Later, when Claimant was represented by counsel, before the terms of the settlement had been met, and with the consent of both parties, I vacated the Final Order.

With the case on a hearing track, discovery progressed. Claimant retained two medical experts who produced reports that contradicted conclusions in the NOD. Before the evidentiary hearing, scheduled for June 11, 2020, was held, ORM rescinded the termination of TTD. On June 23, 2020, ORM issued a Notice of Reinstatement of TTD. Since then, ORM has paid Claimant a lump sum payment of $55,325.08 for the period of January 3, 2019 to June 6, 2020 for retroactive benefits due.

V. CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Reinstatement of TTD was an event that rendered the relief Claimant sought unnecessary. The legal issues presented are no longer “live.” Hence, this case is dismissed as moot. Vaughn v. United States, 579 A2d 170, 175 (D.C. 1990); Thorn v. Walker, 912 A 2d 1192, 1195 (DC. 2002).

VI. ORDER

Accordingly, it is,

ORDERED, that this case is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE; and it is

ORDERED, that the reconsideration and appeal rights of any party aggrieved by this Final Order are set forth below.

_____
Margaret A. Mangan
Administrative Law Judge

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

APPEAL RIGHTS ARE ON THE FOLLOWING PAGE

APPEAL RIGHTS

If you disagree with this Compensation Order you may file an appeal, called an Application For Review, with the Compensation Review Board. The Compensation Review Board is a department within the Labor Standards Bureau of the District of Columbia Department of Employment Services. There is no charge for filing an Application For Review but there are certain procedures that must be followed for your appeal to be processed.

The Application For Review must be filed and received by the Compensation Review Board within 30 days from the date shown on this Compensation Order's Certificate of Service. An Application for Review must include the following:

1. An Application for Review, identifying the Compensation Order from which the petitioner appeals, the office that issued the Compensation Order and attaching a copy of the Compensation Order being appealed; and,
2. A Memorandum of Points and Authorities in support of the Application for Review, setting forth the legal and factual basis for the review.

The Application for Review must be filed using the DOES AHD/CRB electronic filing system ("e-filing"). To use this free e-filing system you must register and have an account. The e-filing system and registration information is found at this web site: <http://efile.does.dc.gov>.

You must also send a paper copy to the Compensation Review Board of the Application for Review that you filed using the e-filing system. The Compensation Review Board's address is 4058 Minnesota Avenue, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20019. The paper copy of the document must be sent or delivered to the Compensation Review Board within 2 business days after it is e-filed.

More information regarding the procedure for filing an appeal can be found at the Compensation Review Board's website: <https://does.dc.gov/page/compensation-review-board>. The Compensation Review Board's staff can help you register for the e-filing system. To make an appointment for assistance, please call the Compensation Review Board at (202)-671-2394 or request an appointment using the Board's email: DOES.CRB@dc.gov. The Compensation Review Board's staff cannot give you legal advice nor can they extend the 30-day deadline for filing an appeal. Please make your appointment for assistance with enough time to meet this deadline.

Questions regarding the procedure for filing an Application for Review can be sent to the CRB at DOES.CRB@dc.gov.

FINAL ORDER OF DISMISSAL

This case came before the Office of Administrative Hearings on Claimant Pernelle Carter's January 29, 2019, appeal of an Office of Risk Management Notice of Determination (NOD) that terminated his temporary total disability benefits. In June 2020, ORM announced that it would rescind the NOD and pay Claimant wages in arrears and wages going forward. For reasons set out below, this case is dismissed as moot.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Reinstatement of TTD was an event that rendered the relief Claimant sought unnecessary. The legal issues presented are no longer "live." Hence, this case is dismissed as moot. Vaughn v. United States, 579 A2d 170, 175 (D.C. 1990); Thorn v. Walker, 912 A 2d 1192, 1195 (DC. 2002). VI.

ORDER Accordingly, it is,

FINAL ORDER OF DISMISSAL

I. INTRODUCTION

This case came before the Office of Administrative Hearings on Claimant Pernell Carter's January 29, 2019, appeal of an Office of Risk Management Notice of Determination (NOD) that terminated his temporary total disability benefits.

In June 2020, ORM announced that it would rescind the NOD and pay Claimant wages in arrears and wages going forward. For reasons set out below, this case is dismissed as moot.

II. PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The case at OAH began with a status conference and then mediation at a time Claimant represented himself. The parties reached an agreement in mediation on June 7, 2019, and I entered a Final Order Dismissing the case. Later, when Claimant was represented by counsel, before the terms of the settlement had been met, and with the consent of both parties, I vacated the Final Order.

With the case on a hearing track, discovery progressed. Claimant retained two medical experts who produced reports that contradicted conclusions in the NOD. Before the evidentiary hearing, scheduled for June 11, 2020, was held, ORM rescinded the termination of TTD. On June 23, 2020, ORM issued a Notice of Reinstatement of TTD. Since then, ORM has paid Claimant a lump sum payment of $55,325.08 for the period of January 3, 2019 to June 6, 2020 for retroactive benefits due.

V. CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Reinstatement of TTD was an event that rendered the relief Claimant sought unnecessary. The legal issues presented are no longer “live.” Hence, this case is dismissed as moot. Vaughn v. United States, 579 A2d 170, 175 (D.C. 1990); Thorn v. Walker, 912 A 2d 1192, 1195 (DC. 2002).

VI. ORDER

Accordingly, it is,

ORDERED, that this case is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE; and it is

ORDERED, that the reconsideration and appeal rights of any party aggrieved by this Final Order are set forth below.

This Final Order is dated when it is served, as certified on the Certificate of Service found at the end of this document.

Margaret A. Mangan
Administrative Law Judge

After an administrative law judge has issued a Final Order, a party may ask the judge to change the Final Order and ask the Compensation Review Board to change the Final Order. There are important time limitations described below for doing so.

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

APPEAL RIGHTS ARE ON THE FOLLOWING PAGE

APPEAL RIGHTS

If you disagree with this Compensation Order you may file an appeal, called an Application For Review, with the Compensation Review Board. The Compensation Review Board is a department within the Labor Standards Bureau of the District of Columbia Department of Employment Services. There is no charge for filing an Application For Review but there are certain procedures that must be followed for your appeal to be processed.

The Application For Review must be filed and received by the Compensation Review Board within 30 days from the date shown on this Compensation Order's Certificate of Service. An Application for Review must include the following:

1. An Application for Review, identifying the Compensation Order from which the petitioner appeals, the office that issued the Compensation Order and attaching a copy of the Compensation Order being appealed; and,
2. A Memorandum of Points and Authorities in support of the Application for Review, setting forth the legal and factual basis for the review.

The Application for Review must be filed using the DOES AHD/CRB electronic filing system ("e-filing"). To use this free e-filing system you must register and have an account. The e-filing system and registration information is found at this web site: <http://efile.does.dc.gov>.

You must also send a paper copy to the Compensation Review Board of the Application for Review that you filed using the e-filing system. The Compensation Review Board's address is 4058 Minnesota Avenue, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20019. The paper copy of the document must be sent or delivered to the Compensation Review Board within 2 business days after it is e-filed.

More information regarding the procedure for filing an appeal can be found at the Compensation Review Board's website: <https://does.dc.gov/page/compensation-review-board>. The Compensation Review Board's staff can help you register for the e-filing system. To make an appointment for assistance, please call the Compensation Review Board at (202)-671-2394 or request an appointment using the Board's email: DOES.CRB@dc.gov. The Compensation Review Board's staff cannot give you legal advice nor can they extend the 30-day deadline for filing an appeal. Please make your appointment for assistance with enough time to meet this deadline.

Questions regarding the procedure for filing an Application for Review can be sent to the CRB at DOES.CRB@dc.gov.

FINAL ORDER OF DISMISSAL

This case came before the Office of Administrative Hearings on Claimant Pernelle Carter's January 29, 2019, appeal of an Office of Risk Management Notice of Determination (NOD) that terminated his temporary total disability benefits. In June 2020, ORM announced that it would rescind the NOD and pay Claimant wages in arrears and wages going forward. For reasons set out below, this case is dismissed as moot.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Reinstatement of TTD was an event that rendered the relief Claimant sought unnecessary. The legal issues presented are no longer "live." Hence, this case is dismissed as moot. Vaughn v. United States, 579 A2d 170, 175 (D.C. 1990); Thorn v. Walker, 912 A 2d 1192, 1195 (DC. 2002). VI.

ORDER Accordingly, it is,

FINAL ORDER OF DISMISSAL

I. INTRODUCTION

This case came before the Office of Administrative Hearings on Claimant Pernell Carter's January 29, 2019, appeal of an Office of Risk Management Notice of Determination (NOD) that terminated his temporary total disability benefits.

In June 2020, ORM announced that it would rescind the NOD and pay Claimant wages in arrears and wages going forward. For reasons set out below, this case is dismissed as moot.

II. PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The case at OAH began with a status conference and then mediation at a time Claimant represented himself. The parties reached an agreement in mediation on June 7, 2019, and I entered a Final Order Dismissing the case. Later, when Claimant was represented by counsel, before the terms of the settlement had been met, and with the consent of both parties, I vacated the Final Order.

With the case on a hearing track, discovery progressed. Claimant retained two medical experts who produced reports that contradicted conclusions in the NOD. Before the evidentiary hearing, scheduled for June 11, 2020, was held, ORM rescinded the termination of TTD. On June 23, 2020, ORM issued a Notice of Reinstatement of TTD. Since then, ORM has paid Claimant a lump sum payment of $55,325.08 for the period of January 3, 2019 to June 6, 2020 for retroactive benefits due.

V. CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Reinstatement of TTD was an event that rendered the relief Claimant sought unnecessary. The legal issues presented are no longer “live.” Hence, this case is dismissed as moot. Vaughn v. United States, 579 A2d 170, 175 (D.C. 1990); Thorn v. Walker, 912 A 2d 1192, 1195 (DC. 2002).

VI. ORDER

Accordingly, it is,

ORDERED, that this case is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE; and it is

ORDERED, that the reconsideration and appeal rights of any party aggrieved by this Final Order are set forth below.

This Final Order is dated when it is served, as certified on the Certificate of Service found at the end of this document.

Margaret A. Mangan
Administrative Law Judge

After an administrative law judge has issued a Final Order, a party may ask the judge to change the Final Order and ask the Compensation Review Board to change the Final Order. There are important time limitations described below for doing so.

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

APPEAL RIGHTS ARE ON THE FOLLOWING PAGE

APPEAL RIGHTS

If you disagree with this Compensation Order you may file an appeal, called an Application For Review, with the Compensation Review Board. The Compensation Review Board is a department within the Labor Standards Bureau of the District of Columbia Department of Employment Services. There is no charge for filing an Application For Review but there are certain procedures that must be followed for your appeal to be processed.

The Application For Review must be filed and received by the Compensation Review Board within 30 days from the date shown on this Compensation Order's Certificate of Service. An Application for Review must include the following:

1. An Application for Review, identifying the Compensation Order from which the petitioner appeals, the office that issued the Compensation Order and attaching a copy of the Compensation Order being appealed; and,
2. A Memorandum of Points and Authorities in support of the Application for Review, setting forth the legal and factual basis for the review.

The Application for Review must be filed using the DOES AHD/CRB electronic filing system ("e-filing"). To use this free e-filing system you must register and have an account. The e-filing system and registration information is found at this web site: <http://efile.does.dc.gov>.

You must also send a paper copy to the Compensation Review Board of the Application for Review that you filed using the e-filing system. The Compensation Review Board's address is 4058 Minnesota Avenue, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20019. The paper copy of the document must be sent or delivered to the Compensation Review Board within 2 business days after it is e-filed.

More information regarding the procedure for filing an appeal can be found at the Compensation Review Board's website: <https://does.dc.gov/page/compensation-review-board>. The Compensation Review Board's staff can help you register for the e-filing system. To make an appointment for assistance, please call the Compensation Review Board at (202)-671-2394 or request an appointment using the Board's email: DOES.CRB@dc.gov. The Compensation Review Board's staff cannot give you legal advice nor can they extend the 30-day deadline for filing an appeal. Please make your appointment for assistance with enough time to meet this deadline.

Questions regarding the procedure for filing an Application for Review can be sent to the CRB at DOES.CRB@dc.gov.

FINAL ORDER OF DISMISSAL

This case came before the Office of Administrative Hearings on Claimant Pernelle Carter's January 29, 2019, appeal of an Office of Risk Management Notice of Determination (NOD) that terminated his temporary total disability benefits. In June 2020, ORM announced that it would rescind the NOD and pay Claimant wages in arrears and wages going forward. For reasons set out below, this case is dismissed as moot.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Reinstatement of TTD was an event that rendered the relief Claimant sought unnecessary. The legal issues presented are no longer "live." Hence, this case is dismissed as moot. Vaughn v. United States, 579 A2d 170, 175 (D.C. 1990); Thorn v. Walker, 912 A 2d 1192, 1195 (DC. 2002). VI.

ORDER Accordingly, it is,

FINAL ORDER OF DISMISSAL

I. INTRODUCTION

This case came before the Office of Administrative Hearings on Claimant Pernell Carter's January 29, 2019, appeal of an Office of Risk Management Notice of Determination (NOD) that terminated his temporary total disability benefits.

In June 2020, ORM announced that it would rescind the NOD and pay Claimant wages in arrears and wages going forward. For reasons set out below, this case is dismissed as moot.

II. PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The case at OAH began with a status conference and then mediation at a time Claimant represented himself. The parties reached an agreement in mediation on June 7, 2019, and I entered a Final Order Dismissing the case. Later, when Claimant was represented by counsel, before the terms of the settlement had been met, and with the consent of both parties, I vacated the Final Order.

With the case on a hearing track, discovery progressed. Claimant retained two medical experts who produced reports that contradicted conclusions in the NOD. Before the evidentiary hearing, scheduled for June 11, 2020, was held, ORM rescinded the termination of TTD. On June 23, 2020, ORM issued a Notice of Reinstatement of TTD. Since then, ORM has paid Claimant a lump sum payment of $55,325.08 for the period of January 3, 2019 to June 6, 2020 for retroactive benefits due.

V. CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Reinstatement of TTD was an event that rendered the relief Claimant sought unnecessary. The legal issues presented are no longer “live.” Hence, this case is dismissed as moot. Vaughn v. United States, 579 A2d 170, 175 (D.C. 1990); Thorn v. Walker, 912 A 2d 1192, 1195 (DC. 2002).

VI. ORDER

Accordingly, it is,

ORDERED, that this case is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE; and it is

ORDERED, that the reconsideration and appeal rights of any party aggrieved by this Final Order are set forth below.

This Final Order is dated when it is served, as certified on the Certificate of Service found at the end of this document.

Margaret A. Mangan
Administrative Law Judge

After an administrative law judge has issued a Final Order, a party may ask the judge to change the Final Order and ask the Compensation Review Board to change the Final Order. There are important time limitations described below for doing so.

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

APPEAL RIGHTS ARE ON THE FOLLOWING PAGE

APPEAL RIGHTS

If you disagree with this Compensation Order you may file an appeal, called an Application For Review, with the Compensation Review Board. The Compensation Review Board is a department within the Labor Standards Bureau of the District of Columbia Department of Employment Services. There is no charge for filing an Application For Review but there are certain procedures that must be followed for your appeal to be processed.

The Application For Review must be filed and received by the Compensation Review Board within 30 days from the date shown on this Compensation Order's Certificate of Service. An Application for Review must include the following:

1. An Application for Review, identifying the Compensation Order from which the petitioner appeals, the office that issued the Compensation Order and attaching a copy of the Compensation Order being appealed; and,
2. A Memorandum of Points and Authorities in support of the Application for Review, setting forth the legal and factual basis for the review.

The Application for Review must be filed using the DOES AHD/CRB electronic filing system ("e-filing"). To use this free e-filing system you must register and have an account. The e-filing system and registration information is found at this web site: <http://efile.does.dc.gov>.

You must also send a paper copy to the Compensation Review Board of the Application for Review that you filed using the e-filing system. The Compensation Review Board's address is 4058 Minnesota Avenue, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20019. The paper copy of the document must be sent or delivered to the Compensation Review Board within 2 business days after it is e-filed.

More information regarding the procedure for filing an appeal can be found at the Compensation Review Board's website: <https://does.dc.gov/page/compensation-review-board>. The Compensation Review Board's staff can help you register for the e-filing system. To make an appointment for assistance, please call the Compensation Review Board at (202)-671-2394 or request an appointment using the Board's email: DOES.CRB@dc.gov. The Compensation Review Board's staff cannot give you legal advice nor can they extend the 30-day deadline for filing an appeal. Please make your appointment for assistance with enough time to meet this deadline.

Questions regarding the procedure for filing an Application for Review can be sent to the CRB at DOES.CRB@dc.gov.

FINAL ORDER OF DISMISSAL

This case came before the Office of Administrative Hearings on Claimant Pernelle Carter's January 29, 2019, appeal of an Office of Risk Management Notice of Determination (NOD) that terminated his temporary total disability benefits. In June 2020, ORM announced that it would rescind the NOD and pay Claimant wages in arrears and wages going forward. For reasons set out below, this case is dismissed as moot.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Reinstatement of TTD was an event that rendered the relief Claimant sought unnecessary. The legal issues presented are no longer "live." Hence, this case is dismissed as moot. Vaughn v. United States, 579 A2d 170, 175 (D.C. 1990); Thorn v. Walker, 912 A 2d 1192, 1195 (DC. 2002). VI.

ORDER Accordingly, it is,

FINAL ORDER OF DISMISSAL

I. INTRODUCTION

This case came before the Office of Administrative Hearings on Claimant Pernell Carter's January 29, 2019, appeal of an Office of Risk Management Notice of Determination (NOD) that terminated his temporary total disability benefits.

In June 2020, ORM announced that it would rescind the NOD and pay Claimant wages in arrears and wages going forward. For reasons set out below, this case is dismissed as moot.

II. PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The case at OAH began with a status conference and then mediation at a time Claimant represented himself. The parties reached an agreement in mediation on June 7, 2019, and I entered a Final Order Dismissing the case. Later, when Claimant was represented by counsel, before the terms of the settlement had been met, and with the consent of both parties, I vacated the Final Order.

With the case on a hearing track, discovery progressed. Claimant retained two medical experts who produced reports that contradicted conclusions in the NOD. Before the evidentiary hearing, scheduled for June 11, 2020, was held, ORM rescinded the termination of TTD. On June 23, 2020, ORM issued a Notice of Reinstatement of TTD. Since then, ORM has paid Claimant a lump sum payment of $55,325.08 for the period of January 3, 2019 to June 6, 2020 for retroactive benefits due.

V. CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Reinstatement of TTD was an event that rendered the relief Claimant sought unnecessary. The legal issues presented are no longer “live.” Hence, this case is dismissed as moot. Vaughn v. United States, 579 A2d 170, 175 (D.C. 1990); Thorn v. Walker, 912 A 2d 1192, 1195 (DC. 2002).

VI. ORDER

Accordingly, it is,

ORDERED, that this case is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE; and it is

ORDERED, that the reconsideration and appeal rights of any party aggrieved by this Final Order are set forth below.

This Final Order is dated when it is served, as certified on the Certificate of Service found at the end of this document.

Margaret A. Mangan
Administrative Law Judge

After an administrative law judge has issued a Final Order, a party may ask the judge to change the Final Order and ask the Compensation Review Board to change the Final Order. There are important time limitations described below for doing so.

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

APPEAL RIGHTS ARE ON THE FOLLOWING PAGE

APPEAL RIGHTS

If you disagree with this Compensation Order you may file an appeal, called an Application For Review, with the Compensation Review Board. The Compensation Review Board is a department within the Labor Standards Bureau of the District of Columbia Department of Employment Services. There is no charge for filing an Application For Review but there are certain procedures that must be followed for your appeal to be processed.

The Application For Review must be filed and received by the Compensation Review Board within 30 days from the date shown on this Compensation Order's Certificate of Service. An Application for Review must include the following:

1. An Application for Review, identifying the Compensation Order from which the petitioner appeals, the office that issued the Compensation Order and attaching a copy of the Compensation Order being appealed; and,
2. A Memorandum of Points and Authorities in support of the Application for Review, setting forth the legal and factual basis for the review.

The Application for Review must be filed using the DOES AHD/CRB electronic filing system ("e-filing"). To use this free e-filing system you must register and have an account. The e-filing system and registration information is found at this web site: <http://efile.does.dc.gov>.

You must also send a paper copy to the Compensation Review Board of the Application for Review that you filed using the e-filing system. The Compensation Review Board's address is 4058 Minnesota Avenue, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20019. The paper copy of the document must be sent or delivered to the Compensation Review Board within 2 business days after it is e-filed.

More information regarding the procedure for filing an appeal can be found at the Compensation Review Board's website: <https://does.dc.gov/page/compensation-review-board>. The Compensation Review Board's staff can help you register for the e-filing system. To make an appointment for assistance, please call the Compensation Review Board at (202)-671-2394 or request an appointment using the Board's email: DOES.CRB@dc.gov. The Compensation Review Board's staff cannot give you legal advice nor can they extend the 30-day deadline for filing an appeal. Please make your appointment for assistance with enough time to meet this deadline.

Questions regarding the procedure for filing an Application for Review can be sent to the CRB at DOES.CRB@dc.gov.

FINAL ORDER OF DISMISSAL

This case came before the Office of Administrative Hearings on Claimant Pernelle Carter's January 29, 2019, appeal of an Office of Risk Management Notice of Determination (NOD) that terminated his temporary total disability benefits. In June 2020, ORM announced that it would rescind the NOD and pay Claimant wages in arrears and wages going forward. For reasons set out below, this case is dismissed as moot.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Reinstatement of TTD was an event that rendered the relief Claimant sought unnecessary. The legal issues presented are no longer "live." Hence, this case is dismissed as moot. Vaughn v. United States, 579 A2d 170, 175 (D.C. 1990); Thorn v. Walker, 912 A 2d 1192, 1195 (DC. 2002). VI.

ORDER Accordingly, it is,

FINAL ORDER OF DISMISSAL

I. INTRODUCTION

This case came before the Office of Administrative Hearings on Claimant Pernell Carter's January 29, 2019, appeal of an Office of Risk Management Notice of Determination (NOD) that terminated his temporary total disability benefits.

In June 2020, ORM announced that it would rescind the NOD and pay Claimant wages in arrears and wages going forward. For reasons set out below, this case is dismissed as moot.

II. PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The case at OAH began with a status conference and then mediation at a time Claimant represented himself. The parties reached an agreement in mediation on June 7, 2019, and I entered a Final Order Dismissing the case. Later, when Claimant was represented by counsel, before the terms of the settlement had been met, and with the consent of both parties, I vacated the Final Order.

With the case on a hearing track, discovery progressed. Claimant retained two medical experts who produced reports that contradicted conclusions in the NOD. Before the evidentiary hearing, scheduled for June 11, 2020, was held, ORM rescinded the termination of TTD. On June 23, 2020, ORM issued a Notice of Reinstatement of TTD. Since then, ORM has paid Claimant a lump sum payment of $55,325.08 for the period of January 3, 2019 to June 6, 2020 for retroactive benefits due.

V. CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Reinstatement of TTD was an event that rendered the relief Claimant sought unnecessary. The legal issues presented are no longer “live.” Hence, this case is dismissed as moot. Vaughn v. United States, 579 A2d 170, 175 (D.C. 1990); Thorn v. Walker, 912 A 2d 1192, 1195 (DC. 2002).

VI. ORDER

Accordingly, it is,

ORDERED, that this case is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE; and it is

ORDERED, that the reconsideration and appeal rights of any party aggrieved by this Final Order are set forth below.

This Final Order is dated when it is served, as certified on the Certificate of Service found at the end of this document.

Margaret A. Mangan
Administrative Law Judge

After an administrative law judge has issued a Final Order, a party may ask the judge to change the Final Order and ask the Compensation Review Board to change the Final Order. There are important time limitations described below for doing so.

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

APPEAL RIGHTS ARE ON THE FOLLOWING PAGE

APPEAL RIGHTS

If you disagree with this Compensation Order you may file an appeal, called an Application For Review, with the Compensation Review Board. The Compensation Review Board is a department within the Labor Standards Bureau of the District of Columbia Department of Employment Services. There is no charge for filing an Application For Review but there are certain procedures that must be followed for your appeal to be processed.

The Application For Review must be filed and received by the Compensation Review Board within 30 days from the date shown on this Compensation Order's Certificate of Service. An Application for Review must include the following:

1. An Application for Review, identifying the Compensation Order from which the petitioner appeals, the office that issued the Compensation Order and attaching a copy of the Compensation Order being appealed; and,
2. A Memorandum of Points and Authorities in support of the Application for Review, setting forth the legal and factual basis for the review.

The Application for Review must be filed using the DOES AHD/CRB electronic filing system ("e-filing"). To use this free e-filing system you must register and have an account. The e-filing system and registration information is found at this web site: <http://efile.does.dc.gov>.

You must also send a paper copy to the Compensation Review Board of the Application for Review that you filed using the e-filing system. The Compensation Review Board's address is 4058 Minnesota Avenue, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20019. The paper copy of the document must be sent or delivered to the Compensation Review Board within 2 business days after it is e-filed.

More information regarding the procedure for filing an appeal can be found at the Compensation Review Board's website: <https://does.dc.gov/page/compensation-review-board>. The Compensation Review Board's staff can help you register for the e-filing system. To make an appointment for assistance, please call the Compensation Review Board at (202)-671-2394 or request an appointment using the Board's email: DOES.CRB@dc.gov. The Compensation Review Board's staff cannot give you legal advice nor can they extend the 30-day deadline for filing an appeal. Please make your appointment for assistance with enough time to meet this deadline.

Questions regarding the procedure for filing an Application for Review can be sent to the CRB at DOES.CRB@dc.gov.

DISTRICT INTEGRATED FINANCIAL SYSTEM
OFFICE OF THE CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER

To our Valued Stakeholders,

As we wrap up 2020 and look to the months and years ahead, we wanted to provide you with a brief DIFS Program update and clear path forward. So much has happened over the past few months since the start of our Pre-Construction Phase. For instance, we have:

- Collected proposed Program and Cost Center value lists from all agencies;
- Engaged with OFOS on a weekly basis to confirm the DIFS chart of accounts structure, values, and hierarchies;
- Conducted over 19 Business Process Re-engineering Focus group sessions, collecting critical pain points and gaps in business processes;
- Completed nine information gathering sessions to better understand the proposed Interagency and old Intra-District pain points;
- Conducted over ten deep dives with Cluster Agencies and Central Offices to standardize Interagency business processes and improve transparency, accuracy, and CAFR reporting; and
- Reached consensus with OFOS with respect to paper agencies, pending OBP, the Mayor, and Council's review and approval.

And that's just a short list of our many accomplishments – only possible with your partnership. But perhaps most notably – on December 3, 2020 – the DIFS Executive Steering Committee unanimously voted to approve the ERP-First Implementation timeline, projected to Go-Live in October 2022. Here's a closer look at implications for your work.

What We're Doing.

On December 3, 2020, the DIFS Executive Steering Committee unanimously voted to approve the ERP First Implementation Timeline.

Based on case studies from the City of Boulder, Catholic Relief Services, Loudoun County, City of Detroit, the State of Illinois, and MITs (District of Columbia OCFO) – the ERP First Implementation framework most effectively meets the District of Columbia's OCFO objectives for the DIFS Program and aligns with the District of Columbia's existing structure and current needs.

Why It Matters.

The ERP-First Implementation will allow for a smooth transition to the DIFS system across all decentralized budget offices, agencies, and clusters.

The District of Columbia operates with fiscal and Cluster Offices spread out – in all, a highly complex municipal framework. Most other cities operate with one centralized Budget Office. The ERP-First Implementation simplifies the DIFS system transition.

Further, only one year after ERP First Go-Live, the CAFR can be produced with the existing tools in the system – as there will be a full year of transactions available. This will result in a reducing the time to create the CAFR, as well as mitigate the risk of a mid-year conversion.

What this Means for You.

The ERP-First Implementation is a shift in the initial project plan.

The DIFS Core Team and DIFS Stakeholders will reprioritize activities and key milestones accordingly. More DIFS End Users will be engaged earlier in the Implementation lifecycle across the touchpoints of Training, User Acceptance Testing (UAT), System Integration Testing (SIT), etc.

To our Valued Stakeholders,

As we wrap up 2020 and look to the months and years ahead, we wanted to provide you with a brief DIFS Program update and clear path forward. So much has happened over the past few months since the start of our Pre-Construction Phase. For instance, we have:

- Collected proposed Program and Cost Center value lists from all agencies;
- Engaged with OFOS on a weekly basis to confirm the DIFS chart of accounts structure, values, and hierarchies;
- Conducted over 19 Business Process Re-engineering Focus group sessions, collecting critical pain points and gaps in business processes;
- Completed nine information gathering sessions to better understand the proposed Interagency and old Intra-District pain points;
- Conducted over ten deep dives with Cluster Agencies and Central Offices to standardize Interagency business processes and improve transparency, accuracy, and CAFR reporting; and
- Reached consensus with OFOS with respect to paper agencies, pending OBP, the Mayor, and Council’s review and approval.

And that’s just a short list of our many accomplishments – only possible with your partnership. But perhaps most notably – on December 3, 2020 – the DIFS Executive Steering Committee unanimously voted to approve the ERP-First Implementation timeline, projected to Go-Live in October 2022. Here’s a closer look at implications for your work.

Good Morning,

I completely understand the delay, but I am curious is there is anything we can do to expedite this? We have a deadline for compiling of this information. We can work with pushing this back, but would like to know if there are an concerns I can help alleviate now?

Our goal is to obtain the recent contacts you all have in place related to this and answers for the few questions we asked.

- Does your agency have a contract(s) related to GPS (or similar devices like Auto Vehicle Locator) and/or other District Driver Safety programs? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- Are there video recorders in your assigned fleet vehicles? If so, is there a process on when the recordings are download/stored? Is this managed by a third party? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- For your fleet vehicles, how does the agency manage the keys to the vehicle(s) and the tracking of employees driving?
- Does your agency have any concerns with staff usage of the fleet or driving, or anything you would like to make us aware of?

Thanks,

Subject: District Agency Costs for GPS and the Driver Safety Program (OSSE)

Good Afternoon Director Brumley & Deputy Meyers,

I hope you are doing well. I am Chris Vass, Management Analyst with the DC Office of Risk Management (ORM). On behalf of Jed Ross, Director/Chief Risk Officer, I am reaching out to you and other District agencies in order to undertake a review and analysis of city-wide fleet safety programs that are being used by District agencies. In order for me to begin the review and analysis, I need your assistance to compile all data and information related to your safety program:

- Does your agency have a contract(s) related to GPS (or similar devices like Auto Vehicle Locator) and/or other District Driver Safety programs? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- Are there video recorders in your assigned fleet vehicles? If so, is there a process on when the recordings are download/stored? Is this managed by a third party? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- For your fleet vehicles, how does the agency manage the keys to the vehicle(s) and the tracking of employees driving?
- Does your agency have any concerns with staff usage of the fleet or driving, or anything you would like to make us aware of?

The goal of this project is to ultimately bring all agencies under one city-wide management system for GPS, liability documentation (video), safe driving training, data collection (life of vehicle, miles driven, speeding, dangerous driving, possible maintenance needs, performance metrics, etc....). We are in the early stages of this endeavor but feel it could lead to monumental change for the District. One procurement, one system, economies of scale, and better data for everyone.

Please let know if you have any question or concerns.

Thanks,

Chris Vass

Good morning Jed,

I hope this finds you well. I thought you would find this of interest, given that you are always so supportive of my community service activities. Last night I had the wonderful opportunity, along with several special organizations, to be a blessing to several families across the Baltimore area, for this upcoming Christmas. Groups such as the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity Inc, Nu Sigma Sigma Chapter's Sigma Santa program, C.H.I.A. Inc., You Make a Difference STEMMA Corporation, Sigma R.E.A.C.H, Inc., Blue Properties, LLC, and many individual donators, who freely gave so deserving families could have a Merry Christmas. We were able to service about 10 families. I've included a few photographs.

Thank you for your leadership and your continued support. Wishing you and yours a Joyous Holiday and a Happy New Year.

Robert

Good Afternoon Director Brumley & Deputy Meyers,

I hope you are doing well. I am Chris Vass, Management Analyst with the DC Office of Risk Management (ORM). On behalf of Jed Ross, Director/Chief Risk Officer, I am reaching out to you and other District agencies in order to undertake a review and analysis of city-wide fleet safety programs that are being used by District agencies. In order for me to begin the review and analysis, I need your assistance to compile all data and information related to your safety program:

- Does your agency have a contract(s) related to GPS (or similar devices like Auto Vehicle Locator) and/or other District Driver Safety programs? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- Are there video recorders in your assigned fleet vehicles? If so, is there a process on when the recordings are download/stored? Is this managed by a third party? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- For your fleet vehicles, how does the agency manage the keys to the vehicle(s) and the tracking of employees driving?
- Does your agency have any concerns with staff usage of the fleet or driving, or anything you would like to make us aware of?

The goal of this project is to ultimately bring all agencies under one city-wide management system for GPS, liability documentation (video), safe driving training, data collection (life of vehicle, miles driven, speeding, dangerous driving, possible maintenance needs, performance metrics, etc....). We are in the early stages of this endeavor but feel it could lead to monumental change for the District. One procurement, one system, economies of scale, and better data for everyone.

Please let know if you have any question or concerns.

Thanks,

Chris Vass

THE HOT STORY

Robinhood settles SEC charges

Robinhood Financial, which offers a mobile app and website that allows users to deal in shares without trading fees or account minimum, has agreed to pay $65m to settle regulatory claims that it didn't sufficiently disclose its business deals with high-speed trading firms. According to the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), Robinhood failed until 2018 to fully reveal on its website how it makes money from deals with speedy trading firms such as Citadel Securities and Virtu Financial Inc. Robinhood and other retail brokerage firms generate revenue by routing customers' orders to high-speed traders, which pay for the right to execute many of the trades. "Robinhood provided misleading information to customers about the true costs of choosing to trade with the firm," said Stephanie Avakian, director of the SEC's enforcement division. "Brokerage firms cannot mislead customers about order execution quality." Robinhood settled the case without an admission of guilt and said it has changed the practices cited in the complaint.

CYBERSECURITY

Senators push IRS for details of SolarWinds hack

Sens. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) and Ron Wyden (D-OR), the chairman and top Democrat on the Senate Finance Committee, have written to IRS Commissioner Charles Rettig, requesting a briefing on the SolarWinds hack on numerous federal agencies, citing concerns that personal taxpayer information may have been stolen in the breach. SolarWinds, the maker of widely used network-management software, reported last week that hackers working for Russia had breached its systems. The Treasury Department, where the IRS is housed, was breached in the hack, according to people familiar with an investigation into the hack, along with many other agencies, including the Commerce Department and the State Department. The lawmakers asked for details about how the IRS was mitigating potential damage, ensuring the hackers didn't "still have access to internal IRS systems," and for what it was doing to prevent future hacks of taxpayer data.

Congress passes two-day spending bill to avert shutdown

Congress has approved a two-day spending bill to avoid a government shutdown and continue debate over critically needed coronavirus relief. With five hours before the midnight deadline on Friday, the House of Representatives voted 320-60 followed by an affirmative vote in the Senate to support a one-page resolution to keep the government funded through Sunday. Congressional leaders agreed to include $300 federal unemployment aid added to unemployment benefits, along with small business funding, government assistance to distribute the COVID-19 vaccine, as well as some form of direct payments to millions of Americans. While Congress has agreed that there should be some form of direct checks to Americans, following a one-time payment from April that put $1,200 into millions of Americans' bank accounts, Republicans have rejected efforts to do the same, eight months later. Meanwhile, Senator Pat Toomey of Pennsylvania introduced a measure to kneecap the incoming Joe Biden administration by limiting the Federal Reserve's emergency lending powers under the CARES Act.

Bank employees raised concerns about integrity of data

The World Bank says managers pressured staff to alter data used in its flagship report on business competitiveness. The manipulated data helped China and Saudi Arabia gain ground in the annual Doing Business (DB) report. The bank's audit followed on from employees who raised their concerns through an internal survey about the integrity of data used for the report. The audit found that nine out of the 15 employees on the report's production team had been directly or indirectly pressured to manipulate data while preparing the reports issued in 2017 and 2019. “Pressure from stakeholders as part of the DB report production and publication process has not been effectively managed,” the audit report said. “The lack of a safe speak-up environment within the DB team led to a fear of retaliation for those who would escalate and report pressures to manipulate data.”

Coca-Cola’s diversity efforts have lost ground

Coca-Cola’s diversity efforts are floundering two decades after the company agreed to pay $192.5m to settle a race-discrimination class-action lawsuit and said it would implement comprehensive changes to hiring, promotion and compensation practices. By 2010, Black employees held 15% of executive roles in the U.S., up from 1.5% in 1998, but now the share of Black executives stands at 8%, according to company data. “We didn’t keep our eye on the North Star,” said Valerie Love, who leads Coke’s HR for North America. The Wall Street Journal observes that a shift in focus toward gender diversity derailed the initiative to add Black leaders and employees. New programs are planned for 2021 to improve hiring and promotion of Black executives and staff.

Vanguard to push firms on racial diversity

Malvern, Pennsylvania-based money manager Vanguard may vote against company directors who fail to push for greater racial and gender diversity on their boards. “Diverse groups make better decisions, and better decisions can lead to better results for shareholders over the long term,” the company, which oversees $6.3 trillion, said. Vanguard acknowledged that organizations may be in the early stages of developing boardroom diversity strategies, “But when we see a lack of commitment to progress on diversity, for example, a board lacking any gender diversity or any racial or ethnic diversity, we become concerned that long-term shareholder returns may suffer.”

Nordic banks continue to be probed over possible fraud

SEB, Swedbank and Danske Bank are being investigated by the U.S. Department of Justice and FBI over possible breaches of U.S. anti-money laundering regulations and fraud, according to a report in Swedish newspaper Dagens Industri. The lenders have admitted to probes by U.S. authorities over the past year, but Reuters says the latest report is a reminder that the scandal could yield further penalties after each bank was fined by local regulators. "We have previously communicated . . . that U.S. authorities continue to investigate Swedbank's historic work against money-laundering and historic publication of information," Swedbank spokeswoman Unni Jerndal said in response to the newspaper's report.

Pinterest vows culture changes after discrimination settlement

Pinterest is pledging to make changes including the adoption of anti-bias training and increased transparency around employee compensation following a $22.5m settlement of claims of discrimination and retaliation brought by Françoise Brougher, the Silicon Valley company's former chief operating officer, who said she was fired after speaking up about mistreatment. The Wall Street Journal notes that workplace experts believe culture change to be among the toughest tasks companies face. Y-Vonne Hutchinson, founder and CEO of Oakland, Calif., consulting firm ReadySet, which specializes in helping employers foster more inclusive work environments, said Pinterest will need to follow through "with constant accountability" if the company is to drive real change.

The National Audubon Society, Center for Biological Diversity, Friends of the Earth, the Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC) and three Gwich'in tribal governments are among groups suing.

AFO Instructions and Guidance for DIFS Program, Cost Center, and Crosswalk Workbook

DUE NOVEMBER 13th, ONE WORKBOOK PER AGENCY, SUBMISSIONS PACKAGED BY CLUSTER / ACFO

1. Review Power Point slides from the Program and Cost Center COA Kick-Off Presentation (email DIFSChangeManagement@dc.gov if you don't have a copy)

- This will help you understand the purpose of this exercise and other information related to it.
- Remember Program and Cost Center values are unique and independent of one another-- budget and transaction data will reside at the *intersection* of a Program and Cost Center.

• AFOs are expected to take the lead on this effort, with support/validation from executive-level program/agency staff and ACFOs

2. Review reference material for your agency

- Review your agency's organizational chart-- not the one in the budget book (Table 4), but rather the agency org chart(s) on the program side. This will help you fill in new Cost Center values for your agency.
- Review your Agency Performance Plan at the end of each agency budget chapter in the budget book. This will help you fill in new Program values for your agency.

3. Fill in the "Questionnaire" tab

- Replace "AGENCY" with your Agency Code in the "Questionnaire" tab.

4. Fill in the "Cost Center_AGENCY" data tab

- Review the "Cost Cntr Definitions, Examples" tab
- Replace "AGENCY" with your Agency Code in the "Cost Center_AGENCY" tab.
- Populate new values for your agency cost centers.
- This is the "where" or "who" data, such as Department, Division, Office/Branch
- The data will closely mirror your agency's organizational chart

• Importantly, you want to capture the level of detail needed for budget and financial transactions-- not too broad, but not too detailed either. Keeping things simple will make for easier budgeting and reporting-- for most agencies, 2 to 3 levels will be sufficient.

5. Fill in the "Program_AGENCY" data tab

- Review the "Program Definitions, Examples" tab
- Replace "AGENCY" with your Agency Code in the "Program_AGENCY" tab.
- Populate new values for your agency programs.
- This is the "what" data, such as Program, Activity, Service, Task. There should not be "who" or "where" information in any Program value-- those would be Cost Centers.

• Use your agency's strategic objectives, outlined in the Agency Performance Plan in the budget book, to come up with a proposed set of programs. Also work with agencies within your cluster to ensure common programs are included and standardized.

• Capture only the level of detail needed for budgeting and financial transactions, and financial reporting needs-- for most agencies, 2 to 3 levels will be sufficient.

• Familiarize yourself with and utilize or amend existing activities within the AFO and AMP programs

• Below are the current AFO and AMP activities; however, you may add Service and Task levels to your AMP activities. You may also add additional AMP activities.

- Agency Financial Operations Program (AFO) – (1) Budget Operations, (2) Accounting Operations, (3) ACFO.

• Agency Management Program (AMP) – (1) Personnel, (2) Training and Employee Development, (3) Labor-Management Partnerships, (4) Contracting and Procurement, (5) Property Management, (6) Information Technology, (7) Financial Management, (8) Risk Management, (9) Legal Services, (10) Fleet Management, (11) Communications, (12) Customer Service, (13) Performance Management, (14) Language Access, and (15) Court-Ordered Supervision. Many agencies do not include all 15 of these activities

6. Fill in Crosswalk Data

• AFTER filling in the "Cost Center" and "Program" data, click on the "Crosswalk" tab, filter for your agency, then fill in Columns Q and R for the corresponding new program and cost center values.

• On the crosswalk, only fill in the lowest level (child) values for program and cost center associated with each budget/expenditure/revenue line.

• One Program or Org in SOAR may point (crosswalk) to multiple Programs or Cost Centers in Oracle-- the *combination* of attributes on a line will help guide you to choose the appropriate Oracle Program and Cost Center on the crosswalk.

• Indices (Indexes) and PCAs are included on each line of the crosswalk as a *reference guide* only, you do NOT need to create unique Programs or Cost Centers for each Index or PCA. Please refer to the FAQ for more information on this.

• Some historical programs and orgs in the crosswalk may no longer be in use-- you still need to crosswalk these to the most appropriate new program and cost center for reporting purposes. Orgs and programs with budget or expenditure balances between FY19 and FY21 (through 9.21.20) are included in the crosswalk.

7. Questions?

Email: DIFSChangeManagement@dc.gov and cc Dan.Proudfoot@dc.gov

Workshops: General and Cluster specific workshops are being scheduled.

8. By November 13th, BY CLUSTER/ACFO, turn in final program, cost center, and crosswalk values (ONE WORKBOOK PER AGENCY) to DIFSChangeManagement@dc.gov

| Cost Center Roll-Up | Definition   |
| Level 1             | Entity responsible for managing resources and carrying out the programs and activities of the Agency (IT IS NOT YOUR AGENCY). It is used to identify the highest levels of leadership in the Agency. For example: Bureau or Department, such as Operations Bureau, Services Bureau, Energy Department, Natural Resources Department. "Bureau" or "Department" does NOT have to be in the name, these are just examples. |
| Level 2             | Identifies an entity that manages resources below the Agency leadership level, and represents a grouping of similar offices. For example: Division, such as Special Operations Division, Risk Management Division, Air Quality Division, Energy Assistance Division. "Division" does NOT have to be in the name. These are just examples.   |
| Level 3 - OPTIONAL  | Carries out the activities of the Level 2 Org roll-up, and in most instances will represent the agency resources responsible for executing agency-specific programs. For example: Office or Branch, such as Compliance Office, Communications Office, or Special Events Branch. Office or Branch does NOT have to be in the name. These are just examples   |
| Level 4- OPTIONAL   | Aligns transactions with the lower levels of the Agency's organizational structure. If an agency doesn't have this level in the org structure, this level is named the same as that used for level 3 and all transactions are posted at this level. MOST AGENCIES WILL NOT REQUIRE A LEVEL 4 COST CENTER.  |

| Program Roll-Up                      | Definition  |
|--------------------------------------|---|
| Level 1 (Program)             | Comprised of a set of activities that have a common purpose or result, and for performance measurement purposes. Programs are a set of related activities that achieve an ongoing purpose or promote a specific objective. Programs are either cross-cutting (district-wide) or agency-specific. If they are agency-specific, they should tie to the strategic objectives of the agency. Programs are typically long-standing initiatives of the district/agency. For example: Agency Management Program, Agency Financial Operations, Public Safety, Affordable Housing, Homeless Services, Secondary Education, etc |
| Level 2 (Activity)            | A component part of the District's program structure that is comprised of a set of services grouped around a common purpose or result. For example: Program Analytics, Grants Administration, Fire Prevention, Rail Safety, Accounting Operations, Operating Budget Book Publication.  |
| Level 3 (Service) - OPTIONAL  | The deliverables or products that the customer receives. Services are discrete units of governmental functions that together make up an activity. For Example: Litigation Support, Leadership and Management Training, Stormwater Services, Software Support, Construction and relocation support  |
| Level 4 (Task) - OPTIONAL     | Identifies the actual work task or step performed in producing and delivering products and services within a program. MOST AGENCIES WILL NOT REQUIRE A TASK LEVEL   |
| Level 5 (Sub-Task) - OPTIONAL | A further breakdown of the task level for agencies that require more granular delineation of tasks. If an agency doesn't have a sub-task, this level is named the same as that used for the task and all transactions are posted at this level. MOST AGENCIES WILL NOT REQUIRE A SUB-TASK LEVEL.  |

DUE NOVEMBER 13th, ONE WORKBOOK PER AGENCY, SUBMISSIONS PACKAGED BY CLUSTER / ACFO

1. Review Power Point slides from the Program and Cost Center COA Kick-Off Presentation (email DIFSChangeManagement@dc.gov if you don't have a copy)

- This will help you understand the purpose of this exercise and other information related to it.
- Remember Program and Cost Center values are unique and independent of one another-- budget and transaction data will reside at the *intersection* of a Program and Cost Center.

• AFOs are expected to take the lead on this effort, with support/validation from executive-level program/agency staff and ACFOs

2. Review reference material for your agency

- Review your agency's organizational chart-- not the one in the budget book (Table 4), but rather the agency org chart(s) on the program side. This will help you fill in new Cost Center values for your agency.
- Review your Agency Performance Plan at the end of each agency budget chapter in the budget book. This will help you fill in new Program values for your agency.

3. Fill in the "Questionnaire" tab

- Replace "AGENCY" with your Agency Code in the "Questionnaire" tab.

4. Fill in the "Cost Center_AGENCY" data tab

- Review the "Cost Cntr Definitions, Examples" tab
- Replace "AGENCY" with your Agency Code in the "Cost Center_AGENCY" tab.
- Populate new values for your agency cost centers.
- This is the "where" or "who" data, such as Department, Division, Office/Branch
- The data will closely mirror your agency's organizational chart

• Importantly, you want to capture the level of detail needed for budget and financial transactions-- not too broad, but not too detailed either. Keeping things simple will make for easier budgeting and reporting-- for most agencies, 2 to 3 levels will be sufficient.

5. Fill in the "Program_AGENCY" data tab

- Review the "Program Definitions, Examples" tab
- Replace "AGENCY" with your Agency Code in the "Program_AGENCY" tab.
- Populate new values for your agency programs.
- This is the "what" data, such as Program, Activity, Service, Task. There should not be "who" or "where" information in any Program value-- those would be Cost Centers.

• Use your agency's strategic objectives, outlined in the Agency Performance Plan in the budget book, to come up with a proposed set of programs. Also work with agencies within your cluster to ensure common programs are included and standardized.

• Capture only the level of detail needed for budgeting and financial transactions, and financial reporting needs-- for most agencies, 2 to 3 levels will be sufficient.

Familiarize yourself with and utilize or amend existing activities within the AFO and AMP programs

• Below are the current AFO and AMP activities; however, you may add Service and Task levels to your AMP activities. You may also add additional AMP activities.

- Agency Financial Operations Program (AFO) – (1) Budget Operations, (2) Accounting Operations, (3) ACFO.

• Agency Management Program (AMP) – (1) Personnel, (2) Training and Employee Development, (3) Labor-Management Partnerships, (4) Contracting and Procurement, (5) Property Management, (6) Information Technology, (7) Financial Management, (8) Risk Management, (9) Legal Services, (10) Fleet Management, (11) Communications, (12) Customer Service, (13) Performance Management, (14) Language Access, and (15) Court-Ordered Supervision. Many agencies do not include all 15 of these activities

6. Fill in Crosswalk Data

• AFTER filling in the "Cost Center" and "Program" data, click on the "Crosswalk" tab, filter for your agency, then fill in Columns Q and R for the corresponding new program and cost center values.

• On the crosswalk, only fill in the lowest level (child) values for program and cost center associated with each budget/expenditure/revenue line.

• One Program or Org in SOAR may point (crosswalk) to multiple Programs or Cost Centers in Oracle-- the *combination* of attributes on a line will help guide you to choose the appropriate Oracle Program and Cost Center on the crosswalk.

• Indices (Indexes) and PCAs are included on each line of the crosswalk as a *reference guide* only, you do NOT need to create unique Programs or Cost Centers for each Index or PCA. Please refer to the FAQ for more information on this.

• Some historical programs and orgs in the crosswalk may no longer be in use-- you still need to crosswalk these to the most appropriate new program and cost center for reporting purposes. Orgs and programs with budget or expenditure balances between FY19 and FY21 (through 9.21.20) are included in the crosswalk.

7. Questions?

Email: DIFSChangeManagement@dc.gov and cc Dan.Proudfoot@dc.gov

Workshops: General and Cluster specific workshops are being scheduled.

8. By November 13th, BY CLUSTER/ACFO, turn in final program, cost center, and crosswalk values (ONE WORKBOOK PER AGENCY) to DIFSChangeManagement@dc.gov

| Cost Center Roll-Up | Definition   |
| Level 1             | Entity responsible for managing resources and carrying out the programs and activities of the Agency (IT IS NOT YOUR AGENCY). It is used to identify the highest levels of leadership in the Agency. For example: Bureau or Department, such as Operations Bureau, Services Bureau, Energy Department, Natural Resources Department. "Bureau" or "Department" does NOT have to be in the name, these are just examples. |
| Level 2             | Identifies an entity that manages resources below the Agency leadership level, and represents a grouping of similar offices. For example: Division, such as Special Operations Division, Risk Management Division, Air Quality Division, Energy Assistance Division. "Division" does NOT have to be in the name. These are just examples.   |
| Level 3 - OPTIONAL  | Carries out the activities of the Level 2 Org roll-up, and in most instances will represent the agency resources responsible for executing agency-specific programs. For example: Office or Branch, such as Compliance Office, Communications Office, or Special Events Branch. Office or Branch does NOT have to be in the name. These are just examples   |
| Level 4- OPTIONAL   | Aligns transactions with the lower levels of the Agency's organizational structure. If an agency doesn't have this level in the org structure, this level is named the same as that used for level 3 and all transactions are posted at this level. MOST AGENCIES WILL NOT REQUIRE A LEVEL 4 COST CENTER.  |

|--------------------------------------|--|
| Level 1 (Program)             | Comprised of a set of activities that have a common purpose or result, and for performance measurement purposes. Programs are a set of related activities that achieve an ongoing purpose or promote a specific objective. Programs are either cross-cutting (district-wide) or agency-specific. If they are agency-specific, they should tie to the strategic objectives of the agency. Programs are typically long-standing initiatives of the district/agency. For example: Agency Management Program, Agency Financial Operations, Public Safety, Affordable Housing, Homeless Services, Secondary Education, etc |
| Level 2 (Activity)            | A component part of the District's program structure that is comprised of a set of services grouped around a common purpose or result. For example: Program Analytics, Grants Administration, Fire Prevention, Rail Safety, Accounting Operations, Operating Budget Book Publication.  |
| Level 3 (Service) - OPTIONAL  | The deliverables or products that the customer receives. Services are discrete units of governmental functions that together make up an activity. For Example: Litigation Support, Leadership and Management Training, Stormwater Services, Software Support, Construction and relocation support  |
| Level 4 (Task) - OPTIONAL     | Identifies the actual work task or step performed in producing and delivering products and services within a program. MOST AGENCIES WILL NOT REQUIRE A TASK LEVEL   |
| Level 5 (Sub-Task) - OPTIONAL | A further breakdown of the task level for agencies that require more granular delineation of tasks. If an agency doesn't have a sub-task, this level is named the same as that used for the task and all transactions are posted at this level. MOST AGENCIES WILL NOT REQUIRE A SUB-TASK LEVEL.  |

Hi Danny,

I hope your Thanksgiving Holiday went great!

Wanted to circle back on the demo and plan for implementation of the incident reporting system/process.

Any update and timing there?

Heard we are good on the GPS front and thanks for that.

Much appreciated and stay safe.

Thank you,

Thanks Danny,

We look forward to moving ahead on incident reporting. As Director Geldart and I discussed, this is the city-wide system and we are sure all agencies will be moving to use it (even non-mayoral agencies). The CA is the one that authorized our implementation and use of ERisk District-wide back in 2017 when he was my direct supervisor as the Deputy CA.

We look to partner to provide the best solution possible specific to DPW. I look forward to finding a time in the near future to show Director Geldart the system. There should be no heavy lifts for you all, except possibly training and requesting for employees to use the system. Finally, I had discussed with Chris getting access to existing GPS tracking reports that you all have put into the fleet (all new vehicles have GPS installed I believe). There are no concerns here and ORM is the right place to be tracking city-wide safety issues with driving (we already do with tickets). Please let me know the best login credentials for use of the existing GPS module and the website, definitely appreciated.

We thank you for your efforts! We know making DPW safer and better is no small feat and are glad you are there.

Much appreciated.

Thank you,

Jed Ross

Good afternoon All,

Please excuse my late email notification. We have another District priority which caused a scheduling conflict for this afternoon—as such, the WebEx call has been cancelled. I was able to pick Director Geldart's brain for 30 seconds and have a path forward to DPW's engagement and participation in eRisk. Please allow me until COB tomorrow to circle back with our General Counsel and get back to you.

Thanks all for your patience and flexibility.

Daniel,

You are correct. Directors Ross and Geldart did connect earlier today to discuss a number of topics including having DPW integrating their data with ERisk and using ERisk as the incident reporting system. Since the meeting will be similar to the last one we had with the group in August, I am cc'ing Pat and Angela as they are the lead on this and can coordinate with you and Ms. Cain.

Sam,

I believe that Director Geldart and Director Ross discussed this topic this afternoon. As a result of that discussion, I have been tasked with coordinating with your office to set up a Teams or WebEx call for a capabilities presentation on E-Risk. This would be similar (if not the same) to the previous demonstrations that your office provided to me and my team; however, the audience would now include DPW's executive team.

Is this something that we can coordinate? If so, please let me and Ms. Cain (cc'd) know your availability.

Thanks in advance.

David L. Gadis, Chief Executive Officer

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA WATER AND SEWER AUTHORITY | 1385 CANAL STREET, SE | WASHINGTON, DC 20003

DATE: December 24, 2020
TO: Chairman Tommy Wells and Board Members
FROM: David L. Gadis, CEO/General Manager
SUBJECT: Highlights from the Week of December 21

On Monday, December 21, I shared my Holiday Message with staff, thanking them for their extraordinary service and flexibility during the pandemic. In recognition of their committed service, I have authorized early four-hour releases for staff today and on New Year's Eve. I also used the opportunity to celebrate the deep and impressive diversity represented at the Authority as reflected in the 'We Are DC Water' Holiday Video. Such efforts are an important part of our effort to improve inclusion at DC Water, and make all employees feel they are part of a team that values and embraces diversity. It is my hope that staff will be able to use the extra time to prepare for the winter holidays, no matter which holiday they observe.

The video, which has been shared internally and externally, features Authority staff sharing holiday greetings in nine of the many languages represented at DC Water: English, Spanish, Amharic, Afrikaans, American Sign Language, Gujarati, Vietnamese, French and Russian. I encourage you to click the ? above to view the video.

My team continues to share timely and important updates on COVID to help staff navigate the challenges of keeping safe during holidays typically shared with family and close friends. This week, we emphasized with staff the importance of staying home when sick, how to receive a COVID test and the latest guidance from the Centers for Disease Control to minimize the risk of virus transmission.

As a reminder, the Authority will be closed on Friday, January 1, in observance of New Year's Day. I will transmit next week's highlights on Thursday, December 31.

Please read on for additional highlights from the week:

1. DC Water Moves Forward with the Best of Gray and Green Infrastructure in Rock Creek CSO 049

The non-material Consent Decree (CD) modification for Gray and Green Infrastructure in Rock Creek CSO 049 has been approved by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, U.S. Department of Justice, DC Water, and the District government. The resulting joint stipulation was filed in Federal Court on December 22, 2020.

The requirements of the non-material CD modification mirror the recommendations included in the Rock Creek Practicability Assessment that was presented to, and approved by, the Board on June 4, 2020.

This includes a hybrid alternative comprising the best of both gray and green infrastructure, optimizing each to achieve the same degree of control as the Long Term Control Plan (9.5 mg) and implementing the gray and green controls on the same schedule – by March 23, 2030. The non-material CD modification represents a win-win for both DC Water and District residents by implementing the best technologies in the best locations, achieving water quality requirements, and delivering triple bottom line co-benefits.

2. Authority Staff Delivers Holiday Cheer to Local Families

For nearly two decades, DC Water employees have participated in an annual donation drive for Bread for the Soul, a District based charity that serves local families affected by HIV/AIDS. Lisa Barton (Senior Executive Coordinator to the CEO / OCEO) led the drive again this year.

Typically, staff donate physical goods emphasizing toys, books and warm clothing for children served by the program, but because of the pandemic, the focus this year has been on electronic gift cards that can be used by the family for such products. A listing of donors and the amount raised will be shared in the upcoming issue of FOCUS.

3. September 10 Flooding Response Update

Although incoming claims have slowed considerably, our teams continue to assist families affected by the September 10 flooding with guidance and support on claims as needed.

As of this morning, 280 related claims for reimbursement have been received. For the DC Water cleaning program, (Service Masters and ServePro), approximately 175 customer properties have requested the service and, in all but nine of those cases, cleaning services have started, and the remaining are in the scheduling process. To date, DC Water has been invoiced for cleaning totaling $533,135.

On behalf of my team, we wish you a wonderful holiday season and look forward to working with you on an ambitious agenda for the Authority in the new year.

At the meeting yesterday, I indicated that we had not yet received the UI financial statements. I was incorrect as they had been uploaded to the portal which I had failed to check before yesterday's meeting. I apologize for the inaccurate information that I presented to the Committee.

The financial statements are in pretty good shape and had sufficient COVID related disclosures, subject to future revision. DOES also indicated that they were further refining the claimants payable, due from federal government, governmental contributions and unemployment benefits line items.

We appreciate the support of this Committee.

Jack

At the meeting yesterday, I indicated that we had not yet received the UI financial statements. I was incorrect as they had been uploaded to the portal which I had failed to check before yesterday's meeting. I apologize for the inaccurate information that I presented to the Committee.

The financial statements are in pretty good shape and had sufficient COVID related disclosures, subject to future revision. DOES also indicated that they were further refining the claimants payable, due from federal government, governmental contributions and unemployment benefits line items.

We appreciate the support of this Committee.

Jack

At the meeting yesterday, I indicated that we had not yet received the UI financial statements. I was incorrect as they had been uploaded to the portal which I had failed to check before yesterday's meeting. I apologize for the inaccurate information that I presented to the Committee.

The financial statements are in pretty good shape and had sufficient COVID related disclosures, subject to future revision. DOES also indicated that they were further refining the claimants payable, due from federal government, governmental contributions and unemployment benefits line items.

We appreciate the support of this Committee.

THE HOT STORY

Internal auditors adjust work processes to account for COVID risks

Internal auditors are testing their companies' controls over key processes and procedures earlier than normal, and reevaluating risks as they deal with a wider range of issues that could imperil the business during the pandemic. Since the onset of the pandemic, internal auditors have taken on additional tasks to ensure that their companies comply with health guidelines on social distancing and returning to the workplace, often while working remotely themselves. They are spending more time screening risks related to companies' supply chains and business-continuity plans, said Richard Chambers, chief executive of the Institute of Internal Auditors. The pandemic continues to disrupt businesses across sectors, forcing companies to make changes to their operations. To stay on top of risk issues, internal auditors have moved up tests and examinations. Atlas Air's internal auditors examine key controls around the financial-audit procedure by, for example, checking that the company's accountants resolve any discrepancies between the financials and the bank statements. Working largely from home, Atlas Air's internal auditors now rely more heavily on electronic documents and signatures as well as emails when they verify audit evidence, said Charles Windeknecht, vice president of the company's internal audit unit. "This pandemic has been a significant challenge, just because of the speed with which it brought change to the risk profile," Mr. Windeknecht said. "You have to be responsive."

LEGAL

Derivatives regulator uses Dodd-Frank to target foreign bribery

The Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC) has started to investigate and police bribery by multinational corporations despite not having the statutory authority to enforce antibribery laws directly. Earlier this month, the regulator reached a $95m settlement with Swiss energy firm Vitol for alleged misconduct stemming from bribes paid to state-controlled oil companies in Brazil, Ecuador and Mexico. The basis for the CFTC's enforcement action against Vitol is an antimanipulation rule that was introduced as a result of the 2010 Dodd-Frank Act and modeled after a securities law prohibiting insider trading. The rule prohibits the use of a "manipulative device, scheme, or artifice to defraud" in connection with the U.S. derivatives markets. Trading on material nonpublic information isn't prohibited by U.S. commodities laws. But it may violate the CFTC's rules if it is done in breach of a pre-existing duty or if the information is obtained fraudulently.

Trader dismissed for spoofing loses U.K. employment fight

A trader who was fired after Citigroup concluded that he was "spoofing" the market for Slovenian government bonds has lost his unfair dismissal case. A London judge said King Yew Choo's "unique pattern of pricing and trading" gave considerable weight to his employer's investigation. Choo had argued that the Financial Conduct Authority, the U.K. financial regulator, never found his trading to be improper and that the bank presumed he was guilty of spoofing. "Where the pricing movements appear strange particularly in the light of the claimant's subsequent trading, in practice the tactical onus lies on the claimant to provide potentially innocent explanations," employment judge Bruce Gardiner opined.

ECONOMY

U.S. jobless claims retreat from three-month high

The number of workers seeking unemployment benefits fell last week, the Labor Department reported on Wednesday, amid signs the economy is continuing to recover, but at a slowing pace. In the seven days to December 19th, new jobless claims totaled 803,000, down from an upwardly-revised 892,000 the prior week and retreating from a three-month high. Economists polled by Dow Jones expected initial claims to rise to 888,000. Continuing jobless claims, a proxy for the number of people receiving benefits via regular state programs, fell to a seasonally adjusted 5.3m in the week ended

December 12th from 5.5m a week earlier. Nela Richardson, chief economist at ADP, said the pandemic, which is surging in many parts of the country, “has always been the boss of the 2020 economy.” She added that while the rollout of coronavirus vaccines provides room for optimism, it “is not going to be a panacea for all the scarring that’s happened in the labor market.”

Consumer spending down 0.4% in November

U.S. household spending fell for the first time in seven months in November, the Commerce Department has reported, down 0.4% as a surge in coronavirus cases and the lack of a new federal aid program weighed on any economic recovery. Personal income slumped 1.1% in November after a revised 0.6% decline in the prior month. This was led by a decrease in government social welfare benefits. Economists had forecast a 0.3% decline. “The economy is entering 2021 with very little dynamism, and the urgency of passing the COVID relief package cannot be understated”, said Gregory Daco, chief U.S. economist at Oxford Economics. “Without it, consumer spending growth could flirt with zero in Q1 – compared with our December baseline forecast of 0.5% (or, 2% annualized) which incorporated a $1 trillion fiscal stimulus package.”

WORKFORCE

States battle over taxing of remote workers' income

A showdown in the Supreme Court over which state gets to tax remote workers' income is looming after more than a dozen states filed legal briefs to weigh in on a petition lodged with the court by New Hampshire in October to prevent Massachusetts from taxing residents who work remotely. The petition says Massachusetts does not have the right to tax the income of New Hampshire residents who before the pandemic had journeyed to their jobs in Massachusetts but now work from home. “The Massachusetts v. New Hampshire issue is no isolated border skirmish between those states. It raises a fundamental national issue that has been festering for decades,” observed Edward Zelinsky, a teacher of tax law at Yeshiva University’s Cardozo Law School in New York City.

Small firms are among the biggest Covid losers

Performing-arts companies, travel agencies and bowling alleys are among the biggest losers of the pandemic, according to data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The data show that employers with fewer than 500 workers experienced higher job losses than big companies in the early days of the pandemic, then recovered more quickly from April to June, only for large companies to post stronger employment gains since then. “Big businesses are just generally better at managing risk and uncertainty,” observed Kenan Fikri, research director of the Economic Innovation Group think-tank. Larger companies “will get a little more slack from capital markets,” he said.

COVID vaccinations not mandatory for GM and Ford employees

Automakers GM and Ford will not require employees to receive COVID-19 vaccinations despite the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission saying employers can require workers to do so. United Auto Workers President Rory Gamble said he believes that none of the union’s 400,000 members should be forced to receive COVID-19 vaccinations, but he encourages the workers to be vaccinated.

SEC approves NYSE direct listing plan

The Securities and Exchange Commission has said that start-ups will no longer have to pay large underwriting fees to Wall Street banks when they raise money on the NYSE. “This innovation democratizes investor access and provides companies with another path to go public,” said NYSE president Stacey Cunningham. Under NYSE’s plan, when stock changes hands once trading commences, new shares will get priority over secondary ones. This will give companies a better chance at reaching their fundraising goals.

REGULATION

Google CEO criticizes antitrust regulation

Google CEO Sundar Pichai has warned that “regulation can get it wrong” as his firm is increasingly targeted by antitrust moves. Last week, the European Commission set out new regulation to curb the power of big tech. The Digital Services Act hopes to increase transparency and competition for tech firms. In an interview with the FT, Mr. Pichai said: “I think it’s an important regulation to think through and get right.” However, he warned that “Governments need to think through these important principles. Sometimes we can design very open ecosystems, they can have security implications.” He added that the failure of the EU data privacy law known as General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) to break down the monopoly of big tech “shows that for a lot of these things, the answers are nuanced, and regulation can get it wrong.”

Letter from the Mayor

Dear Washingtonians,

As we prepare to celebrate the holidays and close out 2020, I want to first thank our entire community for your consistent and ongoing efforts to protect our city and stop the spread of this virus. I know it is a difficult sacrifice, but with the recent rise in cases, hospitalizations, and deaths, we are asking you to celebrate the holidays at home this year.

I know that some Washingtonians have not seen their families since this time last year. For some, it has been even longer. It is not easy to be apart from the ones we love for such a long time and it can be especially difficult during the holidays. But now is not the time to let down our guards or to put our most vulnerable family members and neighbors at risk.

As you plan the next few days and weeks, remember that there is a light at the end of the tunnel. Make these celebrations virtual, but then plan to come together in person once we have our vaccinations and when the virus is under control.

Remember:

- Many people are getting the virus from people who do not even know they have COVID-19. That's because some people who have COVID-19 have no symptoms at all. Don't assume that just because you feel well, you don't have the virus; and don't assume that just because the people you are with feel well, they don't have the virus. Always use caution.

Scheduling Requests:
mayor](http://mayor.dc.gov/page/invite-mayor)

- Wearing a mask protects the people around you, but it also protects you. Wear a mask even when you are with close friends and family members who are not part of your household. Wear a mask around people who look and feel healthy.
- When meeting up with people, outdoors is better than indoors, but you still need to social distance and wear a mask even outdoors. If you are indoors, do not seat people from different households close to each other.
- Testing has its limitations. A negative test today could be a positive test tomorrow. Do not use testing to give yourself a false sense of security.

Finally, please take time to check on your friends, family, and neighbors. This has been a difficult year, and collectively, we have experienced so much loss and isolation. But with safe and effective vaccines in the early stages of distribution, we can go into 2021 with hope. DC has followed the science since the beginning, and now the science has provided us a way out of this pandemic.

I am optimistic that in 2021 we will regain some sense of normalcy, come back even stronger, and once again be able to celebrate with friends and family.

Happy holidays, DC. Stay safe.

With gratitude,

The Fresh Start 5K is Going Virtual

Mayor Bowser is inviting residents to celebrate the New Year by participating in a virtual 7th Annual #FITDC Fresh Start 5K. This year, instead of gathering at one location, residents are encouraged to mask up, social distance, and run/walk in their neighborhood, at a DCPS or DPR track, and/or on one of the suggested routes provided through the registration portal. Residents are encouraged to participate between 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on January 1, 2021, and to share pictures and selfies on social media using the hashtag #FRESHSTART5K2021

Participants who register will receive a #FITDC Fresh Start t-shirt and medal in the days leading up to the 5K via grab-and-go pickup at select DPR recreation centers.

A Safe and Effective Vaccine

Last week, the District received an initial allotment of 6,825 doses of the Pfizer vaccine. By Monday, more than 4,500 health care workers and frontline workers had started receiving the vaccine at hospitals and health care providers across DC.

This week, the District is receiving additional doses of both the Pfizer vaccine and the Moderna vaccine. You can learn more about where these vaccines are going and who will be receiving them in Monday's situational update.

Introduction

Welcome to the Office of Budget and Performance Management (OBPM) Mission Support and Modified Operations Dashboard. This dashboard supports the District's goals of creating and maintaining a highly efficient, transparent, and responsive District government during the COVID-19 pandemic response. This dashboard provides critical metrics in the following eight categories:

Service Usage:

This section contains data on the daily number of unique online applications for benefits (e.g., SNAP, TANF, and medical) as well as the number of calls and call wait times for the Department of Human Services (DHS) call center. Additionally, this section shows the number of individuals quarantining in hotels.

People

This section contains data on the number of people teleworking, quarantining due to exposure to COVID-19, or testing positive for COVID-19. Additionally, this section contains trends for District employee overtime hours for COVID and non-COVID related items.

Supply Chain

This section contains data on the supply and distribution of personal protective equipment (PPE) specific to the COVID-19 response.

Technology

This section contains data on the number of computers powered on with McAfee anti-virus and the amount of users logged on to the District government virtual private network (VPN) each day. Additionally, this section provides data on the top technology issues experienced by District government employees.

Facilities

This section contains data on facility operating and contract statuses as well as the number of facilities with recorded QA/QC inspections after enhanced cleans.

Call Center Operations

This section contains data for EMS transports and 311 service requests, including 311 service requests related to COVID-19.

Energy Usage

This section contains data on the energy usage of closed Department of Parks and Recreation (DPR) and District of Columbia Public Schools (DCPS) sites.

Meals

This section contains data on meals distributed from DAFL, DCPS, and DPR.

Permitting and Vehicle Services

This section contains data on DCRA and DDOT permitting operations as well as DMV transactions (both online and in-person).

The dynamic version of the dashboard can be accessed on Tableau Server, and can be used to filter data by agency. Please contact Lia.Katz@dc.gov for access.

Service Usage

The graphics below depict the number of online applications and calls received by the Department of Human Services (DHS).

Online Applications Received

The majority of applications filed continue to be for SNAP and there is a weekly cyclical trend in when the applications are filed. As of December 21, DHS has received a total of 58,903 applications from both the online and mobile portal.

Unique Online Applications

*UPDT* 12/23/2020. The online portal started accepting applications on April 1, 2020. Some of the online application data were not transferred to a reporting server, however the data as of 4/17 reflects all additional applications added to the server. Additionally on 5/12, it was discovered that the online application submission platform had triggered duplicate submissions for some applications from 4/23 onward. The data currently illustrates the true number of unique applicants.

Unique Applications by Benefit Type

*UPDT* 12/23/2020. The online portal started accepting applications on April 1, 2020. A single application can be used to apply for more than one type of benefit. The number of online applications includes applications submitted through the DHS mobile app that launched on 6/17/20.

Call Center Calls

From December 17 to December 21, there was a 4% increase in the number of calls to the call center. The abandonment rate is currently 30% for the call center. On December 11, the wait time for the call center was 15 minutes, an 8 minute increase from the day before. Effective August 28, the P-EBT call center has been closed.

Call Center Calls

*UPDT* 12/23/2020. Weekends are omitted, as the call center is closed. DHS has been operating another temporary call center to implement the P-EBT (Pandemic-Electronic Benefit Transfer) program, which provides food benefits for school children receiving free or reduced meals during the school year, who are not able to get lunch during school closure, in partnership with OSSE and LEAs since May 20.

Wait Time

Isolation and Quarantine Facilities Usage

From December 19 to December 21, the occupancy rate of hotel rooms stayed below 93% and the number of individuals from the homelessness services system occupying ISAQ hotel rooms has been between 128 and 137 individuals. On December 21, 15 individuals entered ISAQ hotel rooms, a 27 person decrease from the day before. No additional youth have entered the foster-care quarantine respite facility since September 14.

Telework Status, Overtime, & Contact Tracers

Number of Employees By Time Reporting Code and Pay Period End

This information provides data on agencies charging time against the situational telework and regular pay time reporting codes across 19 pay periods (represented by pay period end date). Several agencies do not report their time through PeopleSoft, such as MPD, FEMS, DOC, and QSSSE DOT.

From the pay period ending 11/21 to the pay period ending 12/5, the number of employees charging situational telework held steady, the number of employees charging both regular and situational telework decreased by 4%, and the number of employees charging regular time decreased by 2%.

NOTE: The number of overall employees decreased from 7/4 to 7/16 due to fewer teachers reporting time in PeopleSoft as the end of the school year took effect; similarly, the number of overall employees increased from 8/15 to 8/29 as the beginning of the school year took effect.

*UPOI* 12/21/20

Overtime by Pay Period End

This chart represents overtime dollars, based on total earnings that are paid to employees, and overtime hours accrued over the course of 20 pay periods (shown here by end of pay period date). Telework and OT began on 3/15. COVID-related overtime remained low compared with non-COVID related overtime from the pay period ending 11/21 to the pay period ending 12/5. COVID overtime hours increased by 14%, and earnings increased by 11%.

Technology Usage

The graphics below depict the number of District employees using essential District hardware and software each day. The data below includes the number of District government computers turned on each day, the number of users logging on to the District government's virtual private network (VPN), and the number and type of IT help requests submitted.

Network/Systems Usage and Digital Activity

From the week of December 6 to the week of December 13, the weekly average of turned-on (or left-on) computers for both non-DCPS (DC) and DCPS employees decreased by 1% and increased by 1%, respectively. During the same time frame, the weekly average of unique VPN users increased by 1%.

Key Systems and Platforms

Requests relating to DCPS support accounted for approximately 24% of all OCTOhelps tickets within the past two weeks. From the week of December 6 to the week of December 13, total Remedy tickets decreased by 12%. For the week of December 20, Remedy tickets are at 18% of the prior week's total.

*UPDT* 12/21/2020

*UPDT* 12/21/20. The week of November 29 does not represent a full week's worth of data, which explains the substantial decrease in tickets from the prior week. The full week's data for Sunday - Saturday will be featured in the December 28 dashboard.

Employees can seek assistance from OCTO in two ways, 1) calling OCTOhelps and 2) creating a ticket in the Remedy system. The charts above depict the top 5 most frequent technology issues experienced by users in both systems. DBH, DHS, MPD, and DCPS have their own OCTOhelps number to contact, and these categories encompass all IT issues experienced by these four agencies.

Energy Usage

Non-meal Schools Energy Usage

This data represents 54 closed schools that are confirmed non-meal sites. However, as of mid-June 2020 all schools have been powered up. Any year-over-year savings from mid-June onwards cannot be directly attributed to closed schools (due to COVID-19), but a combination of seasonality and continued distance learning.

Letter from the Mayor

Dear Washingtonians,

As we prepare to celebrate the holidays and close out 2020, I want to first thank our entire community for your consistent and ongoing efforts to protect our city and stop the spread of this virus. I know it is a difficult sacrifice, but with the recent rise in cases, hospitalizations, and deaths, we are asking you to celebrate the holidays at home this year.

I know that some Washingtonians have not seen their families since this time last year. For some, it has been even longer. It is not easy to be apart from the ones we love for such a long time and it can be especially difficult during the holidays. But now is not the time to let down our guards or to put our most vulnerable family members and neighbors at risk.

As you plan the next few days and weeks, remember that there is a light at the end of the tunnel. Make these celebrations virtual, but then plan to come together in person once we have our vaccinations and when the virus is under control.

Remember:

- Many people are getting the virus from people who do not even know they have COVID-19. That's because some people who have COVID-19 have no symptoms at all. Don't assume that just because you feel well, you don't have the virus; and don't assume that just because the people you are with feel well, they don't have the virus. Always use caution.

- Wearing a mask protects the people around you, but it also protects you. Wear a mask even when you are with close friends and family members who are not part of your household. Wear a mask around people who look and feel healthy.
- When meeting up with people, outdoors is better than indoors, but you still need to social distance and wear a mask even outdoors. If you are indoors, do not seat people from different households close to each other.
- Testing has its limitations. A negative test today could be a positive test tomorrow. Do not use testing to give yourself a false sense of security.

Finally, please take time to check on your friends, family, and neighbors. This has been a difficult year, and collectively, we have experienced so much loss and isolation. But with safe and effective vaccines in the early stages of distribution, we can go into 2021 with hope. DC has followed the science since the beginning, and now the science has provided us a way out of this pandemic.

I am optimistic that in 2021 we will regain some sense of normalcy, come back even stronger, and once again be able to celebrate with friends and family.

Happy holidays, DC. Stay safe.

With gratitude,

The Fresh Start 5K is Going Virtual

Mayor Bowser is inviting residents to celebrate the New Year by participating in a virtual 7th Annual #FITDC Fresh Start 5K. This year, instead of gathering at one location, residents are encouraged to mask up, social distance, and run/walk in their neighborhood, at a DCPS or DPR track, and/or on one of the suggested routes provided through the registration portal. Residents are encouraged to participate between 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on January 1, 2021, and to share pictures and selfies on social media using the hashtag #FRESHSTART5K2021

Participants who register will receive a #FITDC Fresh Start t-shirt and medal in the days leading up to the 5K via grab-and-go pickup at select DPR recreation centers.

A Safe and Effective Vaccine

Last week, the District received an initial allotment of 6,825 doses of the Pfizer vaccine. By Monday, more than 4,500 health care workers and frontline workers had started receiving the vaccine at hospitals and health care providers across DC.

This week, the District is receiving additional doses of both the Pfizer vaccine and the Moderna vaccine. You can learn more about where these vaccines are going and who will be receiving them in Monday's situational update.

Greetings Chris, thanks for the kind words Director, and my apologies for the delayed response!

Though it's taken me a couple of days to follow up, I actually connected with Director Brumley on Monday and she said she'd make sure the team got you the answers you were looking for so I'm assuming that's been closed out.

Please let me know if that's not the case, and otherwise have a terrific holiday and happy new year!

Best,
Sara

Good Afternoon Sara,

I would like to start off by saying Direct Ross has spoken very highly of you as partner to ORM. It seems we need your assistance again.

We were scheduled to meet with members of your team today about OSSE's agency costs related to GPS and driver safety. This morning the scheduled meeting was pushed back to January 7, 2021. We are sort of under a time crunch to obtain this information as we need to review and submit a response to OBPM by the end of January. Director Reed has also indicated that she would help obtain this information if we need her assistance. This has a very high priority to OBPM.

All we need is a response to the 4 questions listed below and any ongoing contracts related to GPS and driver safety. Do you think you could assist with expediting this? I would be happy to answer any additional questions.

Thanks,

Good Morning,

I completely understand the delay, but I am curious is there is anything we can do to expedite this? We have a deadline for compiling of this information. We can work with pushing this back, but would like to know if there are an concerns I can help alleviate now?

Our goal is to obtain the recent contacts you all have in place related to this and answers for the few questions we asked.

- Does your agency have a contract(s) related to GPS (or similar devices like Auto Vehicle Locator) and/or other District Driver Safety programs? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).

- Are there video recorders in your assigned fleet vehicles? If so, is there a process on when the recordings are download/stored? Is this managed by a third party? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- For your fleet vehicles, how does the agency manage the keys to the vehicle(s) and the tracking of employees driving?
- Does your agency have any concerns with staff usage of the fleet or driving, or anything you would like to make us aware of?

Thanks,

Good Afternoon Director Brumley & Deputy Meyers,

I hope you are doing well. I am Chris Vass, Management Analyst with the DC Office of Risk Management (ORM). On behalf of Jed Ross, Director/Chief Risk Officer, I am reaching out to you and other District agencies in order to undertake a review and analysis of city-wide fleet safety programs that are being used by District agencies. In order for me to begin the review and analysis, I need your assistance to compile all data and information related to your safety program:

- Does your agency have a contract(s) related to GPS (or similar devices like Auto Vehicle Locator) and/or other District Driver Safety programs? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- Are there video recorders in your assigned fleet vehicles? If so, is there a process on when the recordings are download/stored? Is this managed by a third party? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- For your fleet vehicles, how does the agency manage the keys to the vehicle(s) and the tracking of employees driving?
- Does your agency have any concerns with staff usage of the fleet or driving, or anything you would like to make us aware of?

The goal of this project is to ultimately bring all agencies under one city-wide management system for GPS, liability documentation (video), safe driving training, data collection (life of vehicle, miles driven, speeding, dangerous driving, possible maintenance needs, performance metrics, etc....). We are in the early stages of this endeavor but feel it could lead to monumental change for the District. One procurement, one system, economies of scale, and better data for everyone.

Please let know if you have any question or concerns.

Thanks,

Hello Chris,

Please see the response below:

- Does your agency have a contract(s) related to GPS (or similar devices like Auto Vehicle Locator) and/or other District Driver Safety programs? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s). Yes
- Are there video recorders in your assigned fleet vehicles? There is video surveillance camera in the newer additions to the fleet If so, is there a process on when the recordings are download/stored? We are currently working through this component as a part of a of larger system enhancement. Is this managed by a third party? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- For your fleet vehicles, how does the agency manage the keys to the vehicle(s) and the tracking of employees driving? For fleet vehicles, vehicles are signed in/out daily for each user. For school buses, keys are stored on the active fleet and locked for fleet not in use.
- Does your agency have any concerns with staff usage of the fleet or driving, or anything you would like to make us aware of? No.

We will send copies of the contracts as soon as possible. Please let me know if you have any additional questions.

Though it's taken me a couple of days to follow up, I actually connected with Director Brumley on Monday and she said she'd make sure the team got you the answers you were looking for so I'm assuming that's been closed out.

Please let me know if that's not the case, and otherwise have a terrific holiday and happy new year!

Good Afternoon Sara,

I would like to start off by saying Direct Ross has spoken very highly of you as partner to ORM. It seems we need your assistance again.

We were scheduled to meet with members of your team today about OSSE's agency costs related to GPS and driver safety. This morning the scheduled meeting was pushed back to January 7, 2021. We are sort of under a time crunch to obtain this information as we need to review and submit a response to OBPM by the end of January. Director Reed has also indicated that she would help obtain this information if we need her assistance. This has a very high priority to OBPM.

All we need is a response to the 4 questions listed below and any ongoing contracts related to GPS and driver safety. Do you think you could assist with expediting this? I would be happy to answer any additional questions.

Thanks,

Good Morning,

I completely understand the delay, but I am curious is there is anything we can do to expedite this? We have a deadline for compiling of this information. We can work with pushing this back, but would like to know if there are an concerns I can help alleviate now?

Our goal is to obtain the recent contacts you all have in place related to this and answers for the few questions we asked.

- Does your agency have a contract(s) related to GPS (or similar devices like Auto Vehicle Locator) and/or other District Driver Safety programs? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).

Subject: District Agency Costs for GPS and the Driver Safety Program (OSSE)

Good Afternoon Director Brumley & Deputy Meyers,

I hope you are doing well. I am Chris Vass, Management Analyst with the DC Office of Risk Management (ORM). On behalf of Jed Ross, Director/Chief Risk Officer, I am reaching out to you and other District agencies in order to undertake a review and analysis of city-wide fleet safety programs that are being used by District agencies. In order for me to begin the review and analysis, I need your assistance to compile all data and information related to your safety program:

- Does your agency have a contract(s) related to GPS (or similar devices like Auto Vehicle Locator) and/or other District Driver Safety programs? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- Are there video recorders in your assigned fleet vehicles? If so, is there a process on when the recordings are download/stored? Is this managed by a third party? If yes, please provide a copy of the contract(s).
- For your fleet vehicles, how does the agency manage the keys to the vehicle(s) and the tracking of employees driving?
- Does your agency have any concerns with staff usage of the fleet or driving, or anything you would like to make us aware of?

The goal of this project is to ultimately bring all agencies under one city-wide management system for GPS, liability documentation (video), safe driving training, data collection (life of vehicle, miles driven, speeding, dangerous driving, possible maintenance needs, performance metrics, etc....). We are in the early stages of this endeavor but feel it could lead to monumental change for the District. One procurement, one system, economies of scale, and better data for everyone.

Please let know if you have any question or concerns.

Thanks,

*Chris Vass

Trump vetoes defense bill, setting up possible override vote

President Donald Trump on Wednesday vetoed the annual defense policy bill, following through on threats to veto a measure that has broad bipartisan support in Congress and potentially setting up the first override vote of his presidency. The bill affirms 3% pay raises for U.S. troops and authorizes more than $740 billion in military programs and construction. Read More.

Foundation Opens Door to 'Whole Different World' for Children with Ultra Rare Diseases

WASHINGTON – It began as a story no new parent wants to tell.

“I always say that the day my daughter was born was the happiest day of my life, because that was the only day I didn’t worry about her,” the woman on the other end of the line said.

Speaking in a strong, clear voice that still bore hints of the emotional roller coaster her family has been through, Schillann Rodriguez then went on to describe what it was like to find out her daughter, Rian, suffered from one of the rarest medical conditions in the world.

Little Rian, the mother would learn, is just one of fewer than 150 children in the world that suffer from Aromatic I-amino Acid Decarboxylase Deficiency, an inherited genetic disorder that affects the way signals are passed between certain cells in the nervous system.

“The day after she was born, I knew something was wrong,” Rodriguez said. “She was sleeping too much. She was having feeding difficulties. But all of the doctors around us said, ‘Stop worrying. She’s dirtying her diapers and she’s eating enough to gain weight. She’s okay.’”

Rodriguez would come to learn that her experience is the norm when it comes to AACDd. The condition is so rare, it often goes unrecognized. On a day to day basis, doctors just aren't looking for it.

Four months later, Rian's pediatrician confirmed Rodriguez's worst fears, suggesting the child be taken to a neurologist.

"That's basically when our world came crashing in," Rodriguez said. "That's when we went from being a typical, young, healthy family to ... facing this monster of fear about our daughter's future."

Between the ages of four and 11 months, Rian would be tested for well over 500 conditions.

Most of the testing was invasive. There were muscle biopsies, nerve conduction studies, and blood test after blood test.

All the while, Rian's symptoms grew steadily worse. It was almost impossible for her to hold her head up, and she had difficulty moving. She also began to feed poorly and experienced involuntary writhing movements in her limbs.

"Finally, through a quite progressive test called exome sequencing, which looked at her genetic makeup, they found she had this disease, AADCd," Rodriguez said.

Rian was a month away from her 1st birthday. And for the first time, Rodriguez said, she felt a renewed sense of hope.

"The thing about the day of diagnosis is, they give you an idea ... they can finally give you a name for what it is ... and when things are so rare, you're blessed to be able to call it something," she said.

The diagnosis also, in an instant, made Rian and her family part of a community fighting not just AADCd, but a whole host of ultra rare diseases.

This is critically important because while certain drug treatments can blunt the worst effects of these conditions for a time, the only known transformative and potentially life-saving genetic therapy costs on average, about $2.8 million.

And it's a one-time proposition. According to Dr. Krystof Bankiewicz, perhaps the world's foremost expert on AADCd, the pioneering brain delivered gene therapy treatment he performs can only be done once. A second attempt could actually worsen the condition and hasten the child's death.

After learning the name of her daughter's condition, Rodriguez was ready to fight.

Taking to the internet, she learned of the AADC Research Trust, a U.K.-based trust dedicated to raising funds so that AADCd children can undergo the gene therapy treatment.

The trust in turn put her in touch with Dr. Bankiewicz, who holds an M.D. from Jagiellonian University in Krakow, Poland, and a Ph.D., D.Sc., from the Institute of Neurology and Psychiatry in Warsaw.

Bankiewicz trained at National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., and he is now a world-renowned expert in neuro-restorative medicine. His work in AADCd is proving highly successful not only in stopping the progression of the disease, but in restoring function to children.

Schillann traveled to conferences to hear him speak, and he told her of another group that could help her get the treatment she needed for her daughter, the Columbus Children's Foundation.

CCF is a registered 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization on a mission to ensure equitable and affordable access to the most effective gene therapy solutions for children with ultra-rare genetic diseases.

The nonprofit was founded in Valencia, Spain, in 2017 out of a recognition that because diseases like AADCd are so rare, traditional commercial development of treatments are either overlooked or too costly to be feasible.

A U.S. chapter was established in Chapel Hill, N.C., a year later.

Columbus Children's Foundation creates hope for affected families by applying a nonprofit model to accelerate gene therapy treatments for these devastating diseases.

Through strategic partnerships with other foundations, industry, patient groups and philanthropic donors, it leverages critical scientific and funding resources to fight these ultra-rare diseases in children.

CCF's four core focus areas include providing financial support to accelerate the advancement of gene therapy clinical trials for ultra-rare genetic diseases; ensuring access to manufacturing capacity and expertise — a significant obstacle for ultra-rare gene therapy programs — supporting the open-source data model and standard protocols across the broader gene therapy community; removing the hurdles for children and families to access life-altering clinical trials around the world.

The Columbus Children's Foundation has developed a manufacturing partnership that specifically gives access to lower-cost captive manufacturing for ultra-rare disease programs.

Officials with the organization said access to manufacturing is often a significant slowing step for these as supply is not generally available. This manufacturing partnership is a significant part of CCF's mission to accelerate treatments; without it, these programs will stall and children will die.

Coronavirus Slows Progress

Of course, like every other aspect of contemporary life, the coronavirus outbreak has dramatically slowed treatment for children with ultra rare genetic diseases.

Among them is Michael Pirovolakis, who has Spastic Paraplegia 50, also known as "progressive cerebral palsy," of which there are only 61 known cases in the world.

Terry Pirovolakis, Michael's father, recalls the birth of his third child as being trouble free. Within hours of the delivery, mother and baby were resting at home in the care of a midwife.

But about six months after Michael was born, his parents noticed he wasn't meeting the milestones babies typically reach by that age. As in the Rodriguez's case, doctors initially assured the Pirovolakis they had nothing to worry about.

Months later, even the doctors were concerned. Michael's head appeared to stop growing and his muscle tone was disappearing.

Because Terry Pirovolakis had traveled to Latin America on business, doctors suspected Zika, which was very much in the news at the time, might be the culprit. However, testing for it and other infectious diseases came back negative.

Genetic testing followed. Then came the phone call.

"By that point, we had seen a number of doctors and they'd always called and simply given us the results on the phone," Pirovolakis said. "This time they told us to come ... and to be honest, our first reaction was to wait. After all this time, we were afraid to find out what they'd found.

"Ultimately, we said, 'What does it matter? Why are we hesitating? If he had a disease, he's going to have it.' On April 2, 2019, they told us Michael has SPG50," the boy's father said.

Pirovolakis told The Well News he still clearly remembers that sense that a fog had descended on his family when he was told how rare the condition was and that there was no known treatment.

"It was like a piece of my soul was taken from me," he said.

By the time he left the doctor's office, he was on a mission. From that point on, he said, "I researched everything. I spoke to experts in the field. And I came away knowing exactly what I had to do — create a gene therapy, and do so as quickly as possible if I was going to be able to help my son and other children."

Everyone Pirovolakis knew felt for him, but at the same, "told us we were crazy. This was just too big an effort to undertake.

"Fortunately, we met a few really nice, really smart scientists along the way, and they kind of guided us down the path we needed to be on," he said. "Later, I flew to Washington and met with six of the world's seven experts on SPG50, and by the time I went home to Texas, I'd hired a scientist, Dr. Steven Gray, to develop the gene therapy."

Just as Dr. Bankiewicz had done with the Rodriguez family, Dr. Gray made clear to Pirovolakis that a long, hard road lay ahead and that there were no guarantees.

On top of everything else, Pirovolakis and his wife would have to raise $3 million to $5 million to provide the treatment to Michael and hopefully, several other children.

"That was daunting," Pirovolakis said. "Even if we sold our home and liquidated all of our assets, we wouldn't be able to raise enough money to save Michael. So we established a GoFundMe account, and did golf tournaments and barbecues ... and collectively, as a community, we raised $1.7 million in a year and a half."

The next step was to establish a formal charity, which took time. It was then, just as the charity was getting under way, that the coronavirus pandemic took hold.

“Our fundraising stopped. And government resources were being redirected to battling the coronavirus, and it was at that point in our journey that we met the Columbus Children’s Foundation,” Pirovolakis said.

At this point, due to the scarcity of resources caused by the pandemic, the cost of creating the gene therapy had risen to an estimated $7 million, “which would be unrealistic for a family or a small foundation like ours to raise,” he said.

At a conference in California, Pirovolakis met Laura Hameed, executive director of the Columbus Children’s Foundation. “We got to talking about our cause and our journey, and she said, ‘when you get a safe treatment, reach out to me’ ... and a couple of months later, I did.”

Earlier this week, Hameed explained the Foundation’s approach to The Well News.

“I think it’s really critical to apply a nonprofit mindset to these situations,” she said. “And by that what I mean is, a nonprofit mindset is focused on ‘How do I deliver treatment to kids?’ and we don’t have to balance the potential answer to that question with the return on investment expectations from investors.

“We leverage donors, we leverage industry partners, we leverage government, all to accelerate the speed at which we bring treatments forward ... while investing in programs that would be deemed not investable by the private sector,” Hameed said.

“Ultimately, I would say we fill a market gap for these ultra small patient populations, but we’re not starting from scratch, we work with other foundations, many of them started by parents, who have raised the funding for basic research and development,” she continued. “Our role is to accelerate the process by providing them with access to expertise and manufacturing, which is often the biggest hurdle for them to get over.”

“Now here we are trying to save these 61 kids together,” Pirovolakis added. “If everything goes well and we’re super lucky — and we raise our remaining 1.4 million — we should be treating as many as 43 kids in the next year,” he said.

Anxious Moments

Before Rodriguez and her husband learned of the Columbus Children's Foundation, they were repeatedly told time was not their friend, and that in all likelihood the little girl they'd just welcomed to their home would never see five candles on her birthday cake.

With the help of the foundation, the family flew to Poland in September 2019, for Rian's surgery.

"I remember turning to my husband at one point and saying, 'You know your child is gravely ill when you're traveling to a foreign country so they can have trial brain surgery ... and you're excited about it,'" Rodriguez said.

The night before the surgery, Dr. Bankiewicz and his team walked the family through all the risks.

What was about to occur was an eight-and-a-half hour surgery on a very medically fragile child, he said. She could suffer brain bleed, cardiac arrest, respiratory failure. It was very important that she and her husband were aware of all the risks.

"And I said, 'With all due respect, the risk we would take by not giving her the chance of this intervention is a heck of a lot bleaker. The only alternative is for her to lie in a hospital bed in my living room until she dies. We don't have another choice.'" For all her resolve in the moment, Rodriguez admitted she was "absolutely frightened."

"But we had faith in Dr. Bankiewicz and we had faith in his team," she said.

A month and a half after her surgery, Rian lifted her head up from her reclining wheelchair. On Christmas Eve, 2019, she reached out for the first time in her life to play with something.

"We were losing our minds with excitement," Rodriguez said of how she and her husband felt.

But better was yet to come. Soon, she was able to eat solid food, “which she could never do before,” and nine months after her surgery Rian was able to sit independently for the very first time.

“For so long just the ability to see your child sit independently and play was such a far off dream for us ... and now it’s our everyday reality,” she said. “That might not sound like a lot, but from where we came from to where we are today, it’s a whole different world,” she said.

I have been asked to devise a customer satisfaction survey for City employees to determine what they think about services offered by Risk Management. Has anyone conducted such a survey and if so, do you mind sharing the type of questions asked? Thanks.

Hi Bob,

I'm nestled under Administration & Finance at the University.

I report to the Executive Director of Environmental Safety, Sustainability & Risk (ESSR) I'm the Risk. It's different but it works. In previous lives at local governments and K-12, I've always been in Finance, Central Admin or Management & Budget.

The money people have the broadest reach. The higher up the food chain the better.

I hope that helps.

Risk Management reports to General Services. We used to report to Human Resources until the HR Director was moved to General Services. The new HR Director had no experience with Risk and the decision was made to move us to General Services with the Director who had the experience.

THE HOT STORY

Walmart accused of fueling opioid crisis

The U.S. Justice Department is suing Walmart over what it said was the company's role in fueling the nation's opioid crisis by allowing its network of pharmacies to fill millions of prescriptions for opioids, thousands of which authorities said were suspicious. The lawsuit claims Walmart sought to boost profits by understaffing its pharmacies and pressuring employees to fill prescriptions quickly, making it difficult for pharmacists to reject invalid prescriptions and enabling widespread drug abuse. The allegations date to June 2013, according to the suit. "Many of these prescription drugs would never have hit the streets if Walmart pharmacies had complied with their obligations", said Maria Chapa Lopez, a U.S. attorney in Tampa, Florida, who is one of several prosecutors involved in the suit. In response, Walmart said the lawsuit "invents a legal theory that unlawfully forces pharmacists to come between patients and their doctors, and is riddled with factual inaccuracies and cherry-picked documents taken out of context."

REPUTATION

Amazon's approach to competition under the spotlight

A Wall Street Journal investigation into Amazon's relationship with both rival online retailers, and the smaller merchants that use its platform to sell their products, details the tactics the retail giant employs to gain market share and boost sales of its own-brand products. The report details the creation of a secret team, Project Santos, to replicate parts of Shopify's business model, after learning that an increasing number of third-party sellers were defecting to the Canadian firm. It also highlights how Amazon replicated one firm's best-selling camera tripods, priced it below the original, and then suspended the seller from its platform, alleging that the tripods had authenticity issues. CJ Rosenbaum, a lawyer who works on behalf of Amazon sellers, said some of them now use intermediary "black box" factories to hide suppliers' identities from Amazon: "They get the finished goods and ship them to a black-box factory who will ship their products to Amazon". Amazon has rejected suggestions of wrongdoing.

New York's fast food workers win added job security

The New York City Council has approved a bill that protects fast food workers from being fired without a valid reason, and which allows them to appeal terminations through arbitration. The council also approved another bill requiring fast food restaurants to conduct layoffs based on seniority. The bills regulating firings and layoffs apply to fast food chains that have at least 30 locations nationwide, including Chipotle, Domino's, McDonald's, Burger King and KFC. "No one should get fired on a whim, but for years this has been the norm for fast food workers," said Brad Lander, a Democratic city councilman who sponsored the worker bill. "Today they won a big victory for job stability and dignity," he added. Opponents say the council legislation will do more harm than good because it will encourage restaurants to accelerate automation and reduce labor costs by not having to hire as many workers. "Taking away employers' rights to determine who the worst performers are and being able to easily replace the poor performers with better performers," said Eli Freedberg, a labor lawyer whose firm represents the restaurant industry, "will result in the employer having to incur tens or hundreds of thousands of dollars in defending a just cause challenge, and prevents their ability to maximize the product or service it is offering to the public."

U.S. sanctions watchdog closes probe into Danske Bank

The Office of Foreign Assets Control, the U.S. Treasury Department's sanctions watchdog, has closed an investigation into money-laundering at Copenhagen-headquartered Danske Bank's Estonia unit. The closure of the probe doesn't however mean an end to legal issues precipitated by the scandal, notes the Wall Street Journal, and the lender continues to be investigated by the U.S. Justice Department, U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission and by criminal law enforcement and regulatory agencies in Denmark and France.

Federal drilling lease ban could cost billions in tax revenue

A ban on new oil and gas drilling leases on federal lands would cost eight Western states $8.1bn in tax revenue and $34.1bn in investment in the next five years, according to a study by the state of Wyoming. The report, commissioned by one of the nation's top oil and gas-producing states, aims to push back against President-elect Joe Biden's campaign promise to halt leasing on public lands as part of a sweeping plan to tackle climate change. The policy would be most detrimental to Wyoming and New Mexico, the report said, which are projected to lose $304m and $946m a year in tax revenue, respectively, through 2025.

PCAOB proposal would 'weaken auditor independence rules'

A number of public interest leaders and public officials say that a recent PCAOB proposal to revise auditor independence rules "would weaken auditor independence standards, further undermining investors' faith in the reliability of financial disclosures and putting the integrity of our capital markets at risk." The letter, whose signatories include former SEC chief accountant Lynn Turner of the Alliance for Concerned Investors, continues: "In a gross abuse of process, these changes were adopted by the PCAOB without any opportunity for public comment and without any apparent consideration of how they will affect communications between auditors and audit committees," the group wrote. "They are now being hurried through the approval process at the SEC under an artificially short timeframe. For these and other reasons discussed below, the rule changes should be withdrawn."

Companies ramp up Covid-19 testing for workers

Companies including Delta Air Lines, Goldman Sachs and Netflix are using on-site Covid-19 tests from CVS Health to screen employees more regularly and catch outbreaks before vaccines become widely available. The Wall Street Journal notes that human resources executives say many staff become infected with the virus at social gatherings rather than at the office, but they are starting to offer free testing as a wellness benefit, regardless of whether workers are physically returning to the office.

Coca-Cola is cutting 2,200 jobs globally, including 1,200 in the U.S., as the pandemic accelerates restructuring efforts. Coke expects the job cuts to result in annual savings of between $350m and $550m. The restructuring will enable the business to function more like a network needing “less decision making, less bureaucracy and ultimately less people,” Coke finance chief John Murphy said in an interview last month.

Walmart to use fully driverless trucks in 2021

Walmart will use fully-autonomous box trucks to make deliveries in Arkansas next year. The retailer has been working with a start-up called Gatik on a delivery pilot for the past 18 months. Since last year, the trucks have been operating on a two-mile route between a so-called “dark store” and a nearby outlet in Bentonville, Arkansas. Since then, the vehicles have racked up 70,000 miles in autonomous mode with a safety driver. Next year, the companies intend to start incorporating fully autonomous trucks into those deliveries.

CORPORATE GOVERNANCE

Companies with women on boards perform better

Researchers at France’s NEOMA Business School say boards with greater female representation perform better, and having more women in senior roles leads to less excessive risk-taking and greater efficiency. It was also shown that companies with women on the board are less likely to use accounting techniques which produce financial statements that offer an overly successful view of a firm’s position. Researchers also found that female directors have a greater influence on firms in countries where gender equality is more prominent. The report says: “If a society, in general, holds a biased attitude toward women, it is difficult to believe that female directors will have a voice among their male counterparts." The study, published in International Business Review, looked at 19B6 public firms from 24 countries between 2007 and 2016.

2011 to $108.2 million in FY 2017, including 41 employees who more than doubled their annual salaries by working overtime. Major contributors were the Metropolitan Police Department and Fire and Emergency Medical Services Department, whose overtime use has been reviewed previously. Also experiencing increases were the Department of Youth Rehabilitation Services (DYRS), the Department of Public Works (DPW), the Department of Forensic Sciences (DFS), and the Department of Corrections (DOC) whose policies and procedures were reviewed by ODCA. Insufficient permanent staff was a common element in three of the four agencies. For instance, DOC has seen extensive growth in the District's inmate population from about 1,600 a few years ago to around 2,100 in September 2017. This growth has required DOC to create, through overtime, about 60 recurring posts daily for safety and security. DFS has kept up with growing responsibilities assigned to its Crime Scene Services Division using overtime. DPW has used existing staff on overtime for parking enforcement along the Street Car route. At DYRS, unauthorized staff absences were a large contributor to overtime use, requiring other staff to work overtime to fill necessary positions. ODCA examined policies and practices on overtime documentation at the four agencies, and found instances of failure to comply with DCHR's

District. In addition, ODCA found internal control deficiencies that included a lack of supervisory reviews, segregation of duties, and program monitoring, and unreliable program data. For example, the inequitable treatment involved some employees parking for free at District-owned and leased facilities throughout the District while others paid for parking through enrollment in the Workplace Parking Program . We also found instances when employees who parked for free should have been taxed on a portion of the parking benefits they received . Neither the Office of the Chief Financial Officer nor DGS took the initiative to address this disparity . While DGS created an infrastructure for the Workplace Parking

Program and collected $2 million in revenue annually during FYs 2014 through 2016, it failed to collect at least $331,684 from employees who received free parking and $26,880 from DHCF, an agency that agreed to pay for parking on behalf of its employees. ODCA tallied these amounts from a sample of just six agencies and a review of agency

MOU payments, and we believe the amount of uncollected revenue is much larger. Our analysis also showed that if the District were to expand the program to additional facilities that currently provide parking spaces at no cost to employees, the District could generate an additional $2 million to $4 million in revenue annually. However

r, the internal control deficiencies identified in our report must first be addressed to minimize loss of revenue and the inequities we identified. Furthermore, the $140 monthly fee that Worksite Parking Program participants pay equates to $7 per day and is approximately 39% lower than the market rate for monthly parking. These low rates may be providing incentiv required documentation to OCP for posting to the Awarded Contracts Database, and went on to state that this had occurred prior to the initiation of our engagement. We acknowledge that the contract is now posted on OCP's publicly-accessible website. However, DOEE should take steps to clear up the misconception identified during the course of this engagement.

ment; specifically, the DMPED contracting officer's belief that only sole-source contracts should be posted to the Awarded Contracts Database. As DOEE is reliant on external agencies to award contracts on its behalf, it is important to ensure that sound policies and procedures reside within DOEE to ensure other external partners appropriately

Thanks Jennifer on the review. Definitely a concern on the brand drug Zyprexa, as the cost represented 17% of the total invoice.

See attached for signed invoice.

Importance: High

Good evening Jed & Sam,

I recommend payment to Mitchell in the amount of $22,795.01 for the November pharmacy services per the attached invoice and supporting documentation. All is going well with the program. 13 of the 76 total prescriptions (17%) were filled as brand.

As identified last month, we are working on Claim # 0468-WC-76-0500001.

Also of note for this month is claim # 0468-WC-90-0500023 with Zyprexa. There is a generic available and I have instructed the team to inform all parties that ONLY the generic should be approved going forward.

Thank you,

Good morning Jen,

The review and analysis of the November 2020 Mitchell Pharmacy invoice and back-up data is complete, resulting in no unanticipated concerns or issues. As previously discussed, the CE and NCM are reviewing the prescriptions for 2-534(a)(2) to determine which are authorized as it appears that some have continuously been filled and mailed without authorization updates. Payment of the $22,795.01, invoiced for the November 2020 Mitchell Pharmacy, is recommended.

Good evening Jed & Sam,

I recommend payment to Mitchell in the amount of $22,795.01 for the November pharmacy services per the attached invoice and supporting documentation. All is going well with the program. 13 of the 76 total prescriptions (17%) were filled as brand.

As identified last month, we are working on Claim # 0468-WC-76-0500001.

Also of note for this month is claim # 0468-WC-90-0500023 with Zyprexa. There is a generic available and I have instructed the team to inform all parties that ONLY the generic should be approved going forward.

SENT IN BEHALF OF DIRECTOR ROSS:

Dear ORM Team,

I hope this email finds you well. As always, I first want to say thank you to all of you for all the work you do during these times. The agency continues to operate at a high-level providing support to all our clients and partners thanks to our collective efforts.

In light of the rising number of COVID-19 cases in the District, the Mayor released a new Mayor's Order on December 18, 2020 (Mayor's Order 2020-127) that will take effect tomorrow, December 23, 2020 through January 15, 2021. The order has placed restrictions on most indoor related activities such as restaurant dining, museums, libraries, and others.

Furthermore, the order also mentioned the requirement for non-essential businesses to telework, except in-person staff needed to support minimum business operations. This section applies to government agencies such as ORM, and that's why I am writing today to remind everyone that if you do plan to come to the office to please consult with your Program Administrator first for them to evaluate the need of additional personnel in the office.

I would be remiss if I forget to give additional kudos to our essential staff that have been reporting and will continue to report to the office to support our daily operation. Thank you for your work and always remember to please stay safe and follow current health and social distancing guidelines.

In addition to the Mayor's Order 2020-127, I also would like to go over the changes with Mayor's Order 2020-110.

District government employees who do not reside in the District and travel to a high-risk area are not subject to the self-quarantine or testing requirements of Mayor's Order 2020-110 if they will be in the District for less than 24 hours. They still must self-monitor and cannot come to work if they have recently had close contact with someone diagnosed with COVID-19.

District government employees who reside in the District and who travel to a high-risk area are not subject to the self-quarantine or testing requirements of the Mayor's order if they are performing essential work, and if they have not been exposed to someone with COVID-19 through recent close contact. For the purposes of Mayor's Order 2020-110, the District government considers all employees who are physically reporting to work to be performing essential work, regardless of whether their position is formally designated as an essential or emergency position.

If you have any questions or need additional information please feel free to reach out to me, Sam, and Melbert. You may also find additional information on <https://coronavirus.dc.gov/> or DCHR's policy page at <https://edpm.dc.gov/issuances/human-resources-guidance-covid-19-emergency/>.

Have a wonderful and safe holiday season.

Thank you,
Jed

DEBRA SCARBOROUGH-DRUMMOND, Petitioner/Claimant,

v.

OFFICE OF RISK MANAGEMENT,
Respondent/Administrator,

and

D.C. DEPARTMENT OF YOUTH
REHABILITATION SERVICES,
Respondent/Employer.

---

ORDER DENYING CLAIMANT’S MOTION TO REOPEN

Claimant Debra Scarborough-Drummond seeks to reopen this case after agreeing to a settlement. Although I am sympathetic to Claimant’s situation, I deny Claimant’s motion.

I. BACKGROUND

Claimant, an employee of the Department of Youth Rehabilitation Services, injured her spine in January 2011 when she fell while trying to break up a fight among a group of teenage boys. She was awarded temporary total disability (TTD) benefits by the Office of Risk Management (ORM) until January 28, 2020, when ORM issued a Notice of Determination terminating her TTD benefits. Claimant appealed the Determination to this administrative court.

On October 2, 2020, Claimant participated in a mediation facilitated by Judge Margaret Mangan. She agreed to a settlement with ORM and signed a settlement agreement (Agreement). On October 30, 2020, the parties filed a Joint Motion To Dismiss Case with Prejudice signed by Claimant. Respondents state that Claimant has been paid the sum provided in the Agreement. In accord with the parties' request, I issued an order dismissing the case with prejudice on October 30, 2020.

On December 2, 2020, Claimant submitted an email asking to reopen her case. Claimant stated that she had not been represented by an attorney, that she "didn't understand everything that [Respondents] were saying," and she signed the agreement because she felt "pressured," because she "was worrying about how to keep a roof over my grandsons and my heads," and was "mentally and physically stressed out" because her health was deteriorating. Claimant says that she needs spinal surgery to avoid becoming paralyzed.

Respondents opposed Claimant's motion, asserting that that Claimant had an opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it, and never indicated that she misunderstood its terms. Moreover, Respondents note that the mediation was conducted under the guidance of an experienced Administrative Law Judge who was responsible for ensuring that the parties understood the outcome.

II. DISCUSSION

A. A final order may only be vacated or changed for limited reasons.

Once a final order is issued, a judge's discretion to change the final order is subject to serious limitations. If a party moves to vacate or change a final order within 10 days of when it is issued, the motion is considered to be a motion for reconsideration and the judge may change the final order for "any reason." OAH Rule 2828.5. But if, as here, a party waits more than 10 days before seeking to change a final order, the judge's discretion is limited. The motion is a motion for relief from a final order. OAH Rule 2827.7. Such a motion may be granted only for specified reasons, including, as relevant here:

- (a) Mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect.
- (c) Fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct of an adverse party.

OAH Rule 2828.10.

Claimant has not alleged facts to support any of these reasons to set aside the Final Order and the Agreement. Although Claimant suggests that her understanding of the Agreement was mistaken, she had ample opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it. She was not surprised, and she has not alleged any facts that may be construed as excusable neglect. Nor has she asserted any facts that might constitute fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct by Respondents. She may have misjudged the benefits of the settlement, but there is no evidence that the settlement was misrepresented or that Respondents engaged in other misconduct.

B. Settlements may only be set aside for compelling reasons.

Decisions of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals establish that settlements can only be set aside for very serious, limited reasons. The Court emphasized in Dyer v. Bilaal that a party's subjective understanding of a settlement is irrelevant to its validity.<sup>1</sup>

Settlement agreements are construed under “general principles of contract law.” Goozh v. Capitol Souvenir Co., 462 A.2d 1140, 1142 (D.C. 1983) (quoting Brown v. Brown, 343 A.2d 59, 62 (D.C. 1975)). Accordingly, we enforce a valid and binding settlement just like “any other contract.” Rommel v. West American Insurance Co., 158 A.2d 683, 684–85 (D.C. 1960).

This jurisdiction adheres to an “objective” law of contacts, meaning “the written language embodying the terms of an agreement will govern the rights and liabilities of the parties [regardless] of the intent of the parties at the time they entered into the contract, unless there is fraud, duress, or mutual mistake.” DSP Venture Group, Inc. v. Allen, 830 A.2d 850, 852 (D.C. 2003) . . . . In other words, a party's unexpressed intent is irrelevant if a contract is unambiguous.

The Court has also noted that “The law favors settlement of controversies . . . . [A]n agreement of the parties becomes the law of the case and its terms may not be enlarged or diminished by the court.”<sup>2</sup> “Although a court may set aside a stipulation [of settlement] where justice requires, parties generally are bound by their stipulations, and a stipulation deliberately entered into by parties for final disposition of their controversy ought not to be lightly set

As the Court of Appeals noted in Dyer, notwithstanding the strong policy favoring settlement, a settlement agreement, like any contract, may be set aside in the rare case where a party is able to demonstrate that the settlement was procured by fraud, duress, or mutual mistake. Here, there is no evidence in the record of fraud or mutual mistake, and Claimant does not assert them in her motion. Instead, she states that nearly a month after she signed the agreement and accepted the settlement funds, she concluded that it was a mistake for her to agree to the settlement. But she was not mistaken about the terms of the settlement and the mistake was not mutual. Nor did the stress and worry that led her to execute the settlement constitute the level of coercion necessary to qualify as duress under the law. Duress is “any wrongful threat of one person by words or other conduct that induces another to enter a transaction under the influence of such fear as precludes him from exercising free will and judgment.”<sup>5</sup> Claimant does not assert that Respondents made any threats to her.

I sympathize with Claimant’s plight, one which is unfortunately shared by many other self-represented litigants before OAH. Without a lawyer, she was at a disadvantage negotiating against Respondents’ lawyers and claims specialists. But one of the fundamental principles of the rule of law is that parties should be bound by their agreements. Claimant may have misjudged the benefits that were offered to her, but there is no evidence that she misunderstood them or was intentionally deceived by Respondents.

III. ORDER

Accordingly, it is

ORDERED, that Claimant’s motion to set aside the Final Order is DENIED; and it is further

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

ORDER DENYING CLAIMANT’S MOTION TO REOPEN

Claimant Debra Scarborough-Drummond seeks to reopen this case after agreeing to a settlement. Although I am sympathetic to Claimant’s situation, I deny Claimant’s motion.

I. BACKGROUND

Claimant, an employee of the Department of Youth Rehabilitation Services, injured her spine in January 2011 when she fell while trying to break up a fight among a group of teenage boys. She was awarded temporary total disability (TTD) benefits by the Office of Risk Management (ORM) until January 28, 2020, when ORM issued a Notice of Determination terminating her TTD benefits. Claimant appealed the Determination to this administrative court.

On October 2, 2020, Claimant participated in a mediation facilitated by Judge Margaret Mangan. She agreed to a settlement with ORM and signed a settlement agreement (Agreement). On October 30, 2020, the parties filed a Joint Motion To Dismiss Case with Prejudice signed by Claimant. Respondents state that Claimant has been paid the sum provided in the Agreement. In accord with the parties' request, I issued an order dismissing the case with prejudice on October 30, 2020.

On December 2, 2020, Claimant submitted an email asking to reopen her case. Claimant stated that she had not been represented by an attorney, that she "didn't understand everything that [Respondents] were saying," and she signed the agreement because she felt "pressured," because she "was worrying about how to keep a roof over my grandsons and my heads," and was "mentally and physically stressed out" because her health was deteriorating. Claimant says that she needs spinal surgery to avoid becoming paralyzed.

Respondents opposed Claimant's motion, asserting that that Claimant had an opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it, and never indicated that she misunderstood its terms. Moreover, Respondents note that the mediation was conducted under the guidance of an experienced Administrative Law Judge who was responsible for ensuring that the parties understood the outcome.

Claimant has not alleged facts to support any of these reasons to set aside the Final Order and the Agreement. Although Claimant suggests that her understanding of the Agreement was mistaken, she had ample opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it. She was not surprised, and she has not alleged any facts that may be construed as excusable neglect. Nor has she asserted any facts that might constitute fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct by Respondents. She may have misjudged the benefits of the settlement, but there is no evidence that the settlement was misrepresented or that Respondents engaged in other misconduct.

- (c) Fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct of an adverse party.

OAH Rule 2828.10.

Claimant has not alleged facts to support any of these reasons to set aside the Final Order and the Agreement. Although Claimant suggests that her understanding of the Agreement was mistaken, she had ample opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it. She was not surprised, and she has not alleged any facts that may be construed as excusable neglect. Nor has she asserted any facts that might constitute fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct by Respondents. She may have misjudged the benefits of the settlement, but there is no evidence that the settlement was misrepresented or that Respondents engaged in other misconduct.

B. Settlements may only be set aside for compelling reasons.

Decisions of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals establish that settlements can only be set aside for very serious, limited reasons. The Court emphasized in Dyer v. Bilaal that a party's subjective understanding of a settlement is irrelevant to its validity.<sup>1</sup>

Settlement agreements are construed under “general principles of contract law.” Goozh v. Capitol Souvenir Co., 462 A.2d 1140, 1142 (D.C. 1983) (quoting Brown v. Brown, 343 A.2d 59, 62 (D.C. 1975)). Accordingly, we enforce a valid and binding settlement just like “any other contract.” Rommel v. West American Insurance Co., 158 A.2d 683, 684–85 (D.C. 1960).

This jurisdiction adheres to an “objective” law of contacts, meaning “the written language embodying the terms of an agreement will govern the rights and liabilities of the parties [regardless] of the intent of the parties at the time they entered into the contract, unless there is fraud, duress, or mutual mistake.” DSP Venture Group, Inc. v. Allen, 830 A.2d 850, 852 (D.C. 2003) . . . . In other words, a party's unexpressed intent is irrelevant if a contract is unambiguous.

The Court has also noted that “The law favors settlement of controversies . . . . [A]n agreement of the parties becomes the law of the case and its terms may not be enlarged or diminished by the court.”<sup>2</sup> “Although a court may set aside a stipulation [of settlement] where justice requires, parties generally are bound by their stipulations, and a stipulation deliberately entered into by parties for final disposition of their controversy ought not to be lightly set aside.”<sup>3</sup> ““The general rule is that a compromise and settlement operates as a merger of and bars the right of recovery on any claim therein.”<sup>4</sup>

As the Court of Appeals noted in Dyer, notwithstanding the strong policy favoring settlement, a settlement agreement, like any contract, may be set aside in the rare case where a party is able to demonstrate that the settlement was procured by fraud, duress, or mutual mistake. Here, there is no evidence in the record of fraud or mutual mistake, and Claimant does not assert them in her motion. Instead, she states that nearly a month after she signed the agreement and accepted the settlement funds, she concluded that it was a mistake for her to agree to the settlement. But she was not mistaken about the terms of the settlement and the mistake was not mutual. Nor did the stress and worry that led her to execute the settlement constitute the level of coercion necessary to qualify as duress under the law. Duress is “any wrongful threat of one person by words or other conduct that induces another to enter a transaction under the influence of such fear as precludes him from exercising free will and judgment.”<sup>5</sup> Claimant does not assert that Respondents made any threats to her.

I sympathize with Claimant’s plight, one which is unfortunately shared by many other self-represented litigants before OAH. Without a lawyer, she was at a disadvantage negotiating against Respondents’ lawyers and claims specialists. But one of the fundamental principles of the rule of law is that parties should be bound by their agreements. Claimant may have misjudged the benefits that were offered to her, but there is no evidence that she misunderstood them or was intentionally deceived by Respondents.

III. ORDER

Accordingly, it is

After an administrative law judge has issued a Final Order, a party may ask the judge to change the Final Order and ask the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to change the Final Order. There are important time limitations described below for doing so.

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

Case No.: 2020-PSWC-00015

ORDER DENYING CLAIMANT’S MOTION TO REOPEN

Claimant Debra Scarborough-Drummond seeks to reopen this case after agreeing to a settlement. Although I am sympathetic to Claimant’s situation, I deny Claimant’s motion.

I. BACKGROUND

Claimant, an employee of the Department of Youth Rehabilitation Services, injured her spine in January 2011 when she fell while trying to break up a fight among a group of teenage boys. She was awarded temporary total disability (TTD) benefits by the Office of Risk Management (ORM) until January 28, 2020, when ORM issued a Notice of Determination terminating her TTD benefits. Claimant appealed the Determination to this administrative court.

On October 2, 2020, Claimant participated in a mediation facilitated by Judge Margaret Mangan. She agreed to a settlement with ORM and signed a settlement agreement (Agreement). On October 30, 2020, the parties filed a Joint Motion To Dismiss Case with Prejudice signed by Claimant. Respondents state that Claimant has been paid the sum provided in the Agreement. In accord with the parties' request, I issued an order dismissing the case with prejudice on October 30, 2020.

On December 2, 2020, Claimant submitted an email asking to reopen her case. Claimant stated that she had not been represented by an attorney, that she "didn't understand everything that [Respondents] were saying," and she signed the agreement because she felt "pressured," because she "was worrying about how to keep a roof over my grandsons and my heads," and was "mentally and physically stressed out" because her health was deteriorating. Claimant says that she needs spinal surgery to avoid becoming paralyzed.

Respondents opposed Claimant's motion, asserting that that Claimant had an opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it, and never indicated that she misunderstood its terms. Moreover, Respondents note that the mediation was conducted under the guidance of an experienced Administrative Law Judge who was responsible for ensuring that the parties understood the outcome.

II. DISCUSSION

A. A final order may only be vacated or changed for limited reasons.

Once a final order is issued, a judge's discretion to change the final order is subject to serious limitations. If a party moves to vacate or change a final order within 10 days of when it is issued, the motion is considered to be a motion for reconsideration and the judge may change the final order for "any reason." OAH Rule 2828.5. But if, as here, a party waits more than 10 days before seeking to change a final order, the judge's discretion is limited. The motion is a motion for relief from a final order. OAH Rule 2827.7. Such a motion may be granted only for specified reasons, including, as relevant here:

- (a) Mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect.
- (c) Fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct of an adverse party.

OAH Rule 2828.10.

Claimant has not alleged facts to support any of these reasons to set aside the Final Order and the Agreement. Although Claimant suggests that her understanding of the Agreement was mistaken, she had ample opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it. She was not surprised, and she has not alleged any facts that may be construed as excusable neglect. Nor has she asserted any facts that might constitute fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct by Respondents. She may have misjudged the benefits of the settlement, but there is no evidence that the settlement was misrepresented or that Respondents engaged in other misconduct.

B. Settlements may only be set aside for compelling reasons.

West American Insurance Co.*, 158 A.2d 683, 684–85 (D.C. 1960).

This jurisdiction adheres to an “objective” law of contacts, meaning “the written language embodying the terms of an agreement will govern the rights and liabilities of the parties [regardless] of the intent of the parties at the time they entered into the contract, unless there is fraud, duress, or mutual mistake.” DSP Venture Group, Inc. v. Allen, 830 A.2d 850, 852 (D.C. 2003) . . . . In other words, a party's unexpressed intent is irrelevant if a contract is unambiguous.

The Court has also noted that “The law favors settlement of controversies . . . . [A]n agreement of the parties becomes the law of the case and its terms may not be enlarged or diminished by the court.”<sup>2</sup> “Although a court may set aside a stipulation [of settlement] where justice requires, parties generally are bound by their stipulations, and a stipulation deliberately entered into by parties for final disposition of their controversy ought not to be lightly set aside.”<sup>3</sup> ““The general rule is that a compromise and settlement operates as a merger of and bars the right of recovery on any claim therein.”<sup>4</sup>

As the Court of Appeals noted in Dyer, notwithstanding the strong policy favoring settlement, a settlement agreement, like any contract, may be set aside in the rare case where a party is able to demonstrate that the settlement was procured by fraud, duress, or mutual mistake. Here, there is no evidence in the record of fraud or mutual mistake, and Claimant does not assert them in her motion. Instead, she states that nearly a month after she signed the agreement and accepted the settlement funds, she concluded that it was a mistake for her to agree to the settlement. But she was not mistaken about the terms of the settlement and the mistake was not mutual. Nor did the stress and worry that led her to execute the settlement constitute the level of coercion necessary to qualify as duress under the law. Duress is “any wrongful threat of one person by words or other conduct that induces another to enter a transaction under the influence of such fear as precludes him from exercising free will and judgment.”<sup>5</sup> Claimant does not assert that Respondents made any threats to her.

I sympathize with Claimant’s plight, one which is unfortunately shared by many other self-represented litigants before OAH. Without a lawyer, she was at a disadvantage negotiating against Respondents’ lawyers and claims specialists. But one of the fundamental principles of the rule of law is that parties should be bound by their agreements. Claimant may have misjudged the benefits that were offered to her, but there is no evidence that she misunderstood them or was intentionally deceived by Respondents.

After an administrative law judge has issued a Final Order, a party may ask the judge to change the Final Order and ask the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to change the Final Order. There are important time limitations described below for doing so.

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

D.C. DEPARTMENT OF YOUTH
Respondent/Employer.

---

ORDER DENYING CLAIMANT’S MOTION TO REOPEN

Claimant Debra Scarborough-Drummond seeks to reopen this case after agreeing to a settlement. Although I am sympathetic to Claimant’s situation, I deny Claimant’s motion.

I. BACKGROUND

Claimant, an employee of the Department of Youth Rehabilitation Services, injured her spine in January 2011 when she fell while trying to break up a fight among a group of teenage boys. She was awarded temporary total disability (TTD) benefits by the Office of Risk Management (ORM) until January 28, 2020, when ORM issued a Notice of Determination terminating her TTD benefits. Claimant appealed the Determination to this administrative court.

On October 2, 2020, Claimant participated in a mediation facilitated by Judge Margaret Mangan. She agreed to a settlement with ORM and signed a settlement agreement (Agreement). On October 30, 2020, the parties filed a Joint Motion To Dismiss Case with Prejudice signed by Claimant. Respondents state that Claimant has been paid the sum provided in the Agreement. In accord with the parties' request, I issued an order dismissing the case with prejudice on October 30, 2020.

On December 2, 2020, Claimant submitted an email asking to reopen her case. Claimant stated that she had not been represented by an attorney, that she "didn't understand everything that [Respondents] were saying," and she signed the agreement because she felt "pressured," because she "was worrying about how to keep a roof over my grandsons and my heads," and was "mentally and physically stressed out" because her health was deteriorating. Claimant says that she needs spinal surgery to avoid becoming paralyzed.

Respondents opposed Claimant's motion, asserting that that Claimant had an opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it, and never indicated that she misunderstood its terms. Moreover, Respondents note that the mediation was conducted under the guidance of an experienced Administrative Law Judge who was responsible for ensuring that the parties understood the outcome.

II. DISCUSSION

A. A final order may only be vacated or changed for limited reasons.

Once a final order is issued, a judge's discretion to change the final order is subject to serious limitations. If a party moves to vacate or change a final order within 10 days of when it is issued, the motion is considered to be a motion for reconsideration and the judge may change the final order for "any reason." OAH Rule 2828.5. But if, as here, a party waits more than 10 days before seeking to change a final order, the judge's discretion is limited. The motion is a motion for relief from a final order. OAH Rule 2827.7. Such a motion may be granted only for specified reasons, including, as relevant here:

- (a) Mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect.
- (c) Fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct of an adverse party.

OAH Rule 2828.10.

Claimant has not alleged facts to support any of these reasons to set aside the Final Order and the Agreement. Although Claimant suggests that her understanding of the Agreement was mistaken, she had ample opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it. She was not surprised, and she has not alleged any facts that may be construed as excusable neglect. Nor has she asserted any facts that might constitute fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct by Respondents. She may have misjudged the benefits of the settlement, but there is no evidence that the settlement was misrepresented or that Respondents engaged in other misconduct.

B. Settlements may only be set aside for compelling reasons.

Decisions of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals establish that settlements can only be set aside for very serious, limited reasons. The Court emphasized in Dyer v. Bilaal that a party's subjective understanding of a settlement is irrelevant to its validity.<sup>1</sup>

Settlement agreements are construed under “general principles of contract law.” Goozh v. Capitol Souvenir Co., 462 A.2d 1140, 1142 (D.C. 1983) (quoting Brown v. Brown, 343 A.2d 59, 62 (D.C. 1975)). Accordingly, we enforce a valid and binding settlement just like “any other contract.” Rommel v. West American Insurance Co., 158 A.2d 683, 684–85 (D.C. 1960).

This jurisdiction adheres to an “objective” law of contacts, meaning “the written language embodying the terms of an agreement will govern the rights and liabilities of the parties [regardless] of the intent of the parties at the time they entered into the contract, unless there is fraud, duress, or mutual mistake.” DSP Venture Group, Inc. v. Allen, 830 A.2d 850, 852 (D.C. 2003) . . . . In other words, a party's unexpressed intent is irrelevant if a contract is unambiguous.

The Court has also noted that “The law favors settlement of controversies . . . . [A]n agreement of the parties becomes the law of the case and its terms may not be enlarged or diminished by the court.”<sup>2</sup> “Although a court may set aside a stipulation [of settlement] where justice requires, parties generally are bound by their stipulations, and a stipulation deliberately entered into by parties for final disposition of their controversy ought not to be lightly set aside.”<sup>3</sup> ““The general rule is that a compromise and settlement operates as a merger of and bars the right of recovery on any claim therein.”<sup>4</sup>

As the Court of Appeals noted in Dyer, notwithstanding the strong policy favoring settlement, a settlement agreement, like any contract, may be set aside in the rare case where a party is able to demonstrate that the settlement was procured by fraud, duress, or mutual mistake. Here, there is no evidence in the record of fraud or mutual mistake, and Claimant does not assert them in her motion. Instead, she states that nearly a month after she signed the agreement and accepted the settlement funds, she concluded that it was a mistake for her to agree to the settlement. But she was not mistaken about the terms of the settlement and the mistake was not mutual. Nor did the stress and worry that led her to execute the settlement constitute the level of coercion necessary to qualify as duress under the law. Duress is “any wrongful threat of one person by words or other conduct that induces another to enter a transaction under the influence of such fear as precludes him from exercising free will and judgment.”<sup>5</sup> Claimant does not assert that Respondents made any threats to her.

I sympathize with Claimant’s plight, one which is unfortunately shared by many other self-represented litigants before OAH. Without a lawyer, she was at a disadvantage negotiating against Respondents’ lawyers and claims specialists. But one of the fundamental principles of the rule of law is that parties should be bound by their agreements. Claimant may have misjudged the benefits that were offered to her, but there is no evidence that she misunderstood them or was intentionally deceived by Respondents.

III. ORDER

Accordingly, it is

ORDERED, that Claimant’s motion to set aside the Final Order is DENIED; and it is further

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Case No.: 2020-PSWC-00015

ORDER DENYING CLAIMANT’S MOTION TO REOPEN

Claimant Debra Scarborough-Drummond seeks to reopen this case after agreeing to a settlement. Although I am sympathetic to Claimant’s situation, I deny Claimant’s motion.

I. BACKGROUND

Claimant, an employee of the Department of Youth Rehabilitation Services, injured her spine in January 2011 when she fell while trying to break up a fight among a group of teenage boys. She was awarded temporary total disability (TTD) benefits by the Office of Risk Management (ORM) until January 28, 2020, when ORM issued a Notice of Determination terminating her TTD benefits. Claimant appealed the Determination to this administrative court.

On October 2, 2020, Claimant participated in a mediation facilitated by Judge Margaret Mangan. She agreed to a settlement with ORM and signed a settlement agreement (Agreement). On October 30, 2020, the parties filed a Joint Motion To Dismiss Case with Prejudice signed by Claimant. Respondents state that Claimant has been paid the sum provided in the Agreement. In accord with the parties' request, I issued an order dismissing the case with prejudice on October 30, 2020.

On December 2, 2020, Claimant submitted an email asking to reopen her case. Claimant stated that she had not been represented by an attorney, that she "didn't understand everything that [Respondents] were saying," and she signed the agreement because she felt "pressured," because she "was worrying about how to keep a roof over my grandsons and my heads," and was "mentally and physically stressed out" because her health was deteriorating. Claimant says that she needs spinal surgery to avoid becoming paralyzed.

Respondents opposed Claimant's motion, asserting that that Claimant had an opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it, and never indicated that she misunderstood its terms. Moreover, Respondents note that the mediation was conducted under the guidance of an experienced Administrative Law Judge who was responsible for ensuring that the parties understood the outcome.

II. DISCUSSION

A. A final order may only be vacated or changed for limited reasons.

Once a final order is issued, a judge's discretion to change the final order is subject to serious limitations. If a party moves to vacate or change a final order within 10 days of when it is issued, the motion is considered to be a motion for reconsideration and the judge may change the final order for "any reason." OAH Rule 2828.5. But if, as here, a party waits more than 10 days before seeking to change a final order, the judge's discretion is limited. The motion is a motion for relief from a final order. OAH Rule 2827.7. Such a motion may be granted only for specified reasons, including, as relevant here:

- (a) Mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect.
- (c) Fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct of an adverse party.

OAH Rule 2828.10.

Claimant has not alleged facts to support any of these reasons to set aside the Final Order and the Agreement. Although Claimant suggests that her understanding of the Agreement was mistaken, she had ample opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it. She was not surprised, and she has not alleged any facts that may be construed as excusable neglect. Nor has she asserted any facts that might constitute fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct by Respondents. She may have misjudged the benefits of the settlement, but there is no evidence that the settlement was misrepresented or that Respondents engaged in other misconduct.

B. Settlements may only be set aside for compelling reasons.

Decisions of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals establish that settlements can only be set aside for very serious, limited reasons. The Court emphasized in Dyer v. Bilaal that a party's subjective understanding of a settlement is irrelevant to its validity.<sup>1</sup>

Settlement agreements are construed under “general principles of contract law.” Goozh v. Capitol Souvenir Co., 462 A.2d 1140, 1142 (D.C. 1983) (quoting Brown v. Brown, 343 A.2d 59, 62 (D.C. 1975)). Accordingly, we enforce a valid and binding settlement just like “any other contract.” Rommel v. West American Insurance Co., 158 A.2d 683, 684–85 (D.C. 1960).

This jurisdiction adheres to an “objective” law of contacts, meaning “the written language embodying the terms of an agreement will govern the rights and liabilities of the parties [regardless] of the intent of the parties at the time they entered into the contract, unless there is fraud, duress, or mutual mistake.” DSP Venture Group, Inc. v. Allen, 830 A.2d 850, 852 (D.C. 2003) . . . . In other words, a party's unexpressed intent is irrelevant if a contract is unambiguous.

The Court has also noted that “The law favors settlement of controversies . . . . [A]n agreement of the parties becomes the law of the case and its terms may not be enlarged or diminished by the court.”<sup>2</sup> “Although a court may set aside a stipulation [of settlement] where justice requires, parties generally are bound by their stipulations, and a stipulation deliberately entered into by parties for final disposition of their controversy ought not to be lightly set aside.”<sup>3</sup> ““The general rule is that a compromise and settlement operates as a merger of and bars the right of recovery on any claim therein.”<sup>4</sup>

As the Court of Appeals noted in Dyer, notwithstanding the strong policy favoring settlement, a settlement agreement, like any contract, may be set aside in the rare case where a party is able to demonstrate that the settlement was procured by fraud, duress, or mutual mistake. Here, there is no evidence in the record of fraud or mutual mistake, and Claimant does not assert them in her motion. Instead, she states that nearly a month after she signed the agreement and accepted the settlement funds, she concluded that it was a mistake for her to agree to the settlement. But she was not mistaken about the terms of the settlement and the mistake was not mutual. Nor did the stress and worry that led her to execute the settlement constitute the level of coercion necessary to qualify as duress under the law. Duress is “any wrongful threat of one person by words or other conduct that induces another to enter a transaction under the influence of such fear as precludes him from exercising free will and judgment.”<sup>5</sup> Claimant does not assert that Respondents made any threats to her.

I sympathize with Claimant’s plight, one which is unfortunately shared by many other self-represented litigants before OAH. Without a lawyer, she was at a disadvantage negotiating against Respondents’ lawyers and claims specialists. But one of the fundamental principles of the rule of law is that parties should be bound by their agreements. Claimant may have misjudged the benefits that were offered to her, but there is no evidence that she misunderstood them or was intentionally deceived by Respondents.

After an administrative law judge has issued a Final Order, a party may ask the judge to change the Final Order and ask the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to change the Final Order. There are important time limitations described below for doing so.

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

D.C. DEPARTMENT OF YOUTH
Respondent/Employer.

ORDER DENYING CLAIMANT’S MOTION TO REOPEN

Claimant Debra Scarborough-Drummond seeks to reopen this case after agreeing to a settlement. Although I am sympathetic to Claimant’s situation, I deny Claimant’s motion.

I. BACKGROUND

Claimant, an employee of the Department of Youth Rehabilitation Services, injured her spine in January 2011 when she fell while trying to break up a fight among a group of teenage boys. She was awarded temporary total disability (TTD) benefits by the Office of Risk Management (ORM) until January 28, 2020, when ORM issued a Notice of Determination terminating her TTD benefits. Claimant appealed the Determination to this administrative court.

On October 2, 2020, Claimant participated in a mediation facilitated by Judge Margaret Mangan. She agreed to a settlement with ORM and signed a settlement agreement (Agreement). On October 30, 2020, the parties filed a Joint Motion To Dismiss Case with Prejudice signed by Claimant. Respondents state that Claimant has been paid the sum provided in the Agreement. In accord with the parties' request, I issued an order dismissing the case with prejudice on October 30, 2020.

On December 2, 2020, Claimant submitted an email asking to reopen her case. Claimant stated that she had not been represented by an attorney, that she "didn't understand everything that [Respondents] were saying," and she signed the agreement because she felt "pressured," because she "was worrying about how to keep a roof over my grandsons and my heads," and was "mentally and physically stressed out" because her health was deteriorating. Claimant says that she needs spinal surgery to avoid becoming paralyzed.

Respondents opposed Claimant's motion, asserting that that Claimant had an opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it, and never indicated that she misunderstood its terms. Moreover, Respondents note that the mediation was conducted under the guidance of an experienced Administrative Law Judge who was responsible for ensuring that the parties understood the outcome.

II. DISCUSSION

A. A final order may only be vacated or changed for limited reasons.

Once a final order is issued, a judge's discretion to change the final order is subject to serious limitations. If a party moves to vacate or change a final order within 10 days of when it is issued, the motion is considered to be a motion for reconsideration and the judge may change the final order for "any reason." OAH Rule 2828.5. But if, as here, a party waits more than 10 days before seeking to change a final order, the judge's discretion is limited. The motion is a motion for relief from a final order. OAH Rule 2827.7. Such a motion may be granted only for specified reasons, including, as relevant here:

- (a) Mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect.
- (c) Fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct of an adverse party.

OAH Rule 2828.10.

Claimant has not alleged facts to support any of these reasons to set aside the Final Order and the Agreement. Although Claimant suggests that her understanding of the Agreement was mistaken, she had ample opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it. She was not surprised, and she has not alleged any facts that may be construed as excusable neglect. Nor has she asserted any facts that might constitute fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct by Respondents. She may have misjudged the benefits of the settlement, but there is no evidence that the settlement was misrepresented or that Respondents engaged in other misconduct.

B. Settlements may only be set aside for compelling reasons.

Decisions of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals establish that settlements can only be set aside for very serious, limited reasons. The Court emphasized in Dyer v. Bilaal that a party's subjective understanding of a settlement is irrelevant to its validity.<sup>1</sup>

Settlement agreements are construed under “general principles of contract law.” Goozh v. Capitol Souvenir Co., 462 A.2d 1140, 1142 (D.C. 1983) (quoting Brown v. Brown, 343 A.2d 59, 62 (D.C. 1975)). Accordingly, we enforce a valid and binding settlement just like “any other contract.” Rommel v. West American Insurance Co., 158 A.2d 683, 684–85 (D.C. 1960).

This jurisdiction adheres to an “objective” law of contacts, meaning “the written language embodying the terms of an agreement will govern the rights and liabilities of the parties [regardless] of the intent of the parties at the time they entered into the contract, unless there is fraud, duress, or mutual mistake.” DSP Venture Group, Inc. v. Allen, 830 A.2d 850, 852 (D.C. 2003) . . . . In other words, a party's unexpressed intent is irrelevant if a contract is unambiguous.

The Court has also noted that “The law favors settlement of controversies . . . . [A]n agreement of the parties becomes the law of the case and its terms may not be enlarged or diminished by the court.”<sup>2</sup> “Although a court may set aside a stipulation [of settlement] where justice requires, parties generally are bound by their stipulations, and a stipulation deliberately entered into by parties for final disposition of their controversy ought not to be lightly set

aside.”<sup>3</sup> ““The general rule is that a compromise and settlement operates as a merger of and bars the right of recovery on any claim therein.”<sup>4</sup>

As the Court of Appeals noted in Dyer, notwithstanding the strong policy favoring settlement, a settlement agreement, like any contract, may be set aside in the rare case where a party is able to demonstrate that the settlement was procured by fraud, duress, or mutual mistake. Here, there is no evidence in the record of fraud or mutual mistake, and Claimant does not assert them in her motion. Instead, she states that nearly a month after she signed the agreement and accepted the settlement funds, she concluded that it was a mistake for her to agree to the settlement. But she was not mistaken about the terms of the settlement and the mistake was not mutual. Nor did the stress and worry that led her to execute the settlement constitute the level of coercion necessary to qualify as duress under the law. Duress is “any wrongful threat of one person by words or other conduct that induces another to enter a transaction under the influence of such fear as precludes him from exercising free will and judgment.”<sup>5</sup> Claimant does not assert that Respondents made any threats to her.

I sympathize with Claimant’s plight, one which is unfortunately shared by many other self-represented litigants before OAH. Without a lawyer, she was at a disadvantage negotiating against Respondents’ lawyers and claims specialists. But one of the fundamental principles of the rule of law is that parties should be bound by their agreements. Claimant may have misjudged the benefits that were offered to her, but there is no evidence that she misunderstood them or was intentionally deceived by Respondents.

III. ORDER

Accordingly, it is

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. ORDER DENYING CLAIMANT’S MOTION TO REOPEN

Claimant Debra Scarborough-Drummond seeks to reopen this case after agreeing to a settlement. Although I am sympathetic to Claimant’s situation, I deny Claimant’s motion.

I. BACKGROUND

Claimant, an employee of the Department of Youth Rehabilitation Services, injured her spine in January 2011 when she fell while trying to break up a fight among a group of teenage boys. She was awarded temporary total disability (TTD) benefits by the Office of Risk Management (ORM) until January 28, 2020, when ORM issued a Notice of Determination terminating her TTD benefits. Claimant appealed the Determination to this administrative court.

On October 2, 2020, Claimant participated in a mediation facilitated by Judge Margaret Mangan. She agreed to a settlement with ORM and signed a settlement agreement (Agreement). On October 30, 2020, the parties filed a Joint Motion To Dismiss Case with Prejudice signed by Claimant. Respondents state that Claimant has been paid the sum provided in the Agreement. In accord with the parties' request, I issued an order dismissing the case with prejudice on October 30, 2020.

On December 2, 2020, Claimant submitted an email asking to reopen her case. Claimant stated that she had not been represented by an attorney, that she "didn't understand everything that [Respondents] were saying," and she signed the agreement because she felt "pressured," because she "was worrying about how to keep a roof over my grandsons and my heads," and was "mentally and physically stressed out" because her health was deteriorating. Claimant says that she needs spinal surgery to avoid becoming paralyzed.

Respondents opposed Claimant's motion, asserting that that Claimant had an opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it, and never indicated that she misunderstood its terms. Moreover, Respondents note that the mediation was conducted under the guidance of an experienced Administrative Law Judge who was responsible for ensuring that the parties understood the outcome.

II. DISCUSSION

A. A final order may only be vacated or changed for limited reasons.

Once a final order is issued, a judge's discretion to change the final order is subject to serious limitations. If a party moves to vacate or change a final order within 10 days of when it is issued, the motion is considered to be a motion for reconsideration and the judge may change the final order for "any reason." OAH Rule 2828.5. But if, as here, a party waits more than 10 days before seeking to change a final order, the judge's discretion is limited. The motion is a motion for relief from a final order. OAH Rule 2827.7. Such a motion may be granted only for specified reasons, including, as relevant here:

- (a) Mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect.
- (c) Fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct of an adverse party.

OAH Rule 2828.10.

Claimant has not alleged facts to support any of these reasons to set aside the Final Order and the Agreement. Although Claimant suggests that her understanding of the Agreement was mistaken, she had ample opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it. She was not surprised, and she has not alleged any facts that may be construed as excusable neglect. Nor has she asserted any facts that might constitute fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct by Respondents. She may have misjudged the benefits of the settlement, but there is no evidence that the settlement was misrepresented or that Respondents engaged in other misconduct.

B. Settlements may only be set aside for compelling reasons.

Decisions of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals establish that settlements can only be set aside for very serious, limited reasons. The Court emphasized in Dyer v. Bilaal that a party's subjective understanding of a settlement is irrelevant to its validity.<sup>1</sup>

I sympathize with Claimant’s plight, one which is unfortunately shared by many other self-represented litigants before OAH. Without a lawyer, she was at a disadvantage negotiating against Respondents’ lawyers and claims specialists. But one of the fundamental principles of the rule of law is that parties should be bound by their agreements. Claimant may have misjudged the benefits that were offered to her, but there is no evidence that she misunderstood them or was intentionally deceived by Respondents.

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

D.C. DEPARTMENT OF YOUTH
Respondent/Employer.

ORDER DENYING CLAIMANT’S MOTION TO REOPEN

Claimant Debra Scarborough-Drummond seeks to reopen this case after agreeing to a settlement. Although I am sympathetic to Claimant’s situation, I deny Claimant’s motion.

I. BACKGROUND

Claimant, an employee of the Department of Youth Rehabilitation Services, injured her spine in January 2011 when she fell while trying to break up a fight among a group of teenage boys. She was awarded temporary total disability (TTD) benefits by the Office of Risk Management (ORM) until January 28, 2020, when ORM issued a Notice of Determination terminating her TTD benefits. Claimant appealed the Determination to this administrative court.

On October 2, 2020, Claimant participated in a mediation facilitated by Judge Margaret Mangan. She agreed to a settlement with ORM and signed a settlement agreement (Agreement). On October 30, 2020, the parties filed a Joint Motion To Dismiss Case with Prejudice signed by Claimant. Respondents state that Claimant has been paid the sum provided in the Agreement. In accord with the parties' request, I issued an order dismissing the case with prejudice on October 30, 2020.

On December 2, 2020, Claimant submitted an email asking to reopen her case. Claimant stated that she had not been represented by an attorney, that she "didn't understand everything that [Respondents] were saying," and she signed the agreement because she felt "pressured," because she "was worrying about how to keep a roof over my grandsons and my heads," and was "mentally and physically stressed out" because her health was deteriorating. Claimant says that she needs spinal surgery to avoid becoming paralyzed.

Respondents opposed Claimant's motion, asserting that that Claimant had an opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it, and never indicated that she misunderstood its terms. Moreover, Respondents note that the mediation was conducted under the guidance of an experienced Administrative Law Judge who was responsible for ensuring that the parties understood the outcome.

II. DISCUSSION

A. A final order may only be vacated or changed for limited reasons.

Once a final order is issued, a judge's discretion to change the final order is subject to serious limitations. If a party moves to vacate or change a final order within 10 days of when it is issued, the motion is considered to be a motion for reconsideration and the judge may change the final order for "any reason." OAH Rule 2828.5. But if, as here, a party waits more than 10 days before seeking to change a final order, the judge's discretion is limited. The motion is a motion for relief from a final order. OAH Rule 2827.7. Such a motion may be granted only for specified reasons, including, as relevant here:

- (a) Mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect.
- (c) Fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct of an adverse party.

OAH Rule 2828.10.

Claimant has not alleged facts to support any of these reasons to set aside the Final Order and the Agreement. Although Claimant suggests that her understanding of the Agreement was mistaken, she had ample opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it. She was not surprised, and she has not alleged any facts that may be construed as excusable neglect. Nor has she asserted any facts that might constitute fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct by Respondents. She may have misjudged the benefits of the settlement, but there is no evidence that the settlement was misrepresented or that Respondents engaged in other misconduct.

B. Settlements may only be set aside for compelling reasons.

Decisions of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals establish that settlements can only be set aside for very serious, limited reasons. The Court emphasized in Dyer v. Bilaal that a party's subjective understanding of a settlement is irrelevant to its validity.<sup>1</sup>

Settlement agreements are construed under “general principles of contract law.” Goozh v. Capitol Souvenir Co., 462 A.2d 1140, 1142 (D.C. 1983) (quoting Brown v. Brown, 343 A.2d 59, 62 (D.C. 1975)). Accordingly, we enforce a valid and binding settlement just like “any other contract.” Rommel v. West American Insurance Co., 158 A.2d 683, 684–85 (D.C. 1960).

This jurisdiction adheres to an “objective” law of contacts, meaning “the written language embodying the terms of an agreement will govern the rights and liabilities of the parties [regardless] of the intent of the parties at the time they entered into the contract, unless there is fraud, duress, or mutual mistake.” DSP Venture Group, Inc. v. Allen, 830 A.2d 850, 852 (D.C. 2003) . . . . In other words, a party's unexpressed intent is irrelevant if a contract is unambiguous.

The Court has also noted that “The law favors settlement of controversies . . . . [A]n agreement of the parties becomes the law of the case and its terms may not be enlarged or diminished by the court.”<sup>2</sup> “Although a court may set aside a stipulation [of settlement] where justice requires, parties generally are bound by their stipulations, and a stipulation deliberately entered into by parties for final disposition of their controversy ought not to be lightly set aside.”<sup>3</sup> ““The general rule is that a compromise and settlement operates as a merger of and bars the right of recovery on any claim therein.”<sup>4</sup>

As the Court of Appeals noted in Dyer, notwithstanding the strong policy favoring settlement, a settlement agreement, like any contract, may be set aside in the rare case where a party is able to demonstrate that the settlement was procured by fraud, duress, or mutual mistake. Here, there is no evidence in the record of fraud or mutual mistake, and Claimant does not assert them in her motion. Instead, she states that nearly a month after she signed the agreement and accepted the settlement funds, she concluded that it was a mistake for her to agree to the settlement. But she was not mistaken about the terms of the settlement and the mistake was not mutual. Nor did the stress and worry that led her to execute the settlement constitute the level of coercion necessary to qualify as duress under the law. Duress is “any wrongful threat of one person by words or other conduct that induces another to enter a transaction under the influence of such fear as precludes him from exercising free will and judgment.”<sup>5</sup> Claimant does not assert that Respondents made any threats to her.

I sympathize with Claimant’s plight, one which is unfortunately shared by many other self-represented litigants before OAH. Without a lawyer, she was at a disadvantage negotiating against Respondents’ lawyers and claims specialists. But one of the fundamental principles of the rule of law is that parties should be bound by their agreements. Claimant may have misjudged the benefits that were offered to her, but there is no evidence that she misunderstood them or was intentionally deceived by Respondents.

After an administrative law judge has issued a Final Order, a party may ask the judge to change the Final Order and ask the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to change the Final Order. There are important time limitations described below for doing so.

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

Case No.: 2020-PSWC-00015

ORDER DENYING CLAIMANT’S MOTION TO REOPEN

Claimant Debra Scarborough-Drummond seeks to reopen this case after agreeing to a settlement. Although I am sympathetic to Claimant’s situation, I deny Claimant’s motion.

I. BACKGROUND

Claimant, an employee of the Department of Youth Rehabilitation Services, injured her spine in January 2011 when she fell while trying to break up a fight among a group of teenage boys. She was awarded temporary total disability (TTD) benefits by the Office of Risk Management (ORM) until January 28, 2020, when ORM issued a Notice of Determination terminating her TTD benefits. Claimant appealed the Determination to this administrative court.

On October 2, 2020, Claimant participated in a mediation facilitated by Judge Margaret Mangan. She agreed to a settlement with ORM and signed a settlement agreement (Agreement). On October 30, 2020, the parties filed a Joint Motion To Dismiss Case with Prejudice signed by Claimant. Respondents state that Claimant has been paid the sum provided in the Agreement. In accord with the parties' request, I issued an order dismissing the case with prejudice on October 30, 2020.

On December 2, 2020, Claimant submitted an email asking to reopen her case. Claimant stated that she had not been represented by an attorney, that she "didn't understand everything that [Respondents] were saying," and she signed the agreement because she felt "pressured," because she "was worrying about how to keep a roof over my grandsons and my heads," and was "mentally and physically stressed out" because her health was deteriorating. Claimant says that she needs spinal surgery to avoid becoming paralyzed.

Respondents opposed Claimant's motion, asserting that that Claimant had an opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it, and never indicated that she misunderstood its terms. Moreover, Respondents note that the mediation was conducted under the guidance of an experienced Administrative Law Judge who was responsible for ensuring that the parties understood the outcome.

II. DISCUSSION

A. A final order may only be vacated or changed for limited reasons.

Once a final order is issued, a judge's discretion to change the final order is subject to serious limitations. If a party moves to vacate or change a final order within 10 days of when it is issued, the motion is considered to be a motion for reconsideration and the judge may change the final order for "any reason." OAH Rule 2828.5. But if, as here, a party waits more than 10 days before seeking to change a final order, the judge's discretion is limited. The motion is a motion for relief from a final order. OAH Rule 2827.7. Such a motion may be granted only for specified reasons, including, as relevant here:

- (a) Mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect.
- (c) Fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct of an adverse party.

OAH Rule 2828.10.

Claimant has not alleged facts to support any of these reasons to set aside the Final Order and the Agreement. Although Claimant suggests that her understanding of the Agreement was mistaken, she had ample opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it. She was not surprised, and she has not alleged any facts that may be construed as excusable neglect. Nor has she asserted any facts that might constitute fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct by Respondents. She may have misjudged the benefits of the settlement, but there is no evidence that the settlement was misrepresented or that Respondents engaged in other misconduct.

B. Settlements may only be set aside for compelling reasons.

Decisions of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals establish that settlements can only be set aside for very serious, limited reasons. The Court emphasized in Dyer v. Bilaal that a party's subjective understanding of a settlement is irrelevant to its validity.<sup>1</sup>

Settlement agreements are construed under “general principles of contract law.” Goozh v. Capitol Souvenir Co., 462 A.2d 1140, 1142 (D.C. 1983) (quoting Brown v. Brown, 343 A.2d 59, 62 (D.C. 1975)). Accordingly, we enforce a valid and binding settlement just like “any other contract.” Rommel v. West American Insurance Co., 158 A.2d 683, 684–85 (D.C. 1960).

This jurisdiction adheres to an “objective” law of contacts, meaning “the written language embodying the terms of an agreement will govern the rights and liabilities of the parties [regardless] of the intent of the parties at the time they entered into the contract, unless there is fraud, duress, or mutual mistake.” DSP Venture Group, Inc. v. Allen, 830 A.2d 850, 852 (D.C. 2003) . . . . In other words, a party's unexpressed intent is irrelevant if a contract is unambiguous.

The Court has also noted that “The law favors settlement of controversies . . . . [A]n agreement of the parties becomes the law of the case and its terms may not be enlarged or diminished by the court.”<sup>2</sup> “Although a court may set aside a stipulation [of settlement] where justice requires, parties generally are bound by their stipulations, and a stipulation deliberately entered into by parties for final disposition of their controversy ought not to be lightly set aside.”<sup>3</sup> ““The general rule is that a compromise and settlement operates as a merger of and bars the right of recovery on any claim therein.”<sup>4</sup>

As the Court of Appeals noted in Dyer, notwithstanding the strong policy favoring settlement, a settlement agreement, like any contract, may be set aside in the rare case where a party is able to demonstrate that the settlement was procured by fraud, duress, or mutual mistake. Here, there is no evidence in the record of fraud or mutual mistake, and Claimant does not assert them in her motion. Instead, she states that nearly a month after she signed the agreement and accepted the settlement funds, she concluded that it was a mistake for her to agree to the settlement. But she was not mistaken about the terms of the settlement and the mistake was not mutual. Nor did the stress and worry that led her to execute the settlement constitute the level of coercion necessary to qualify as duress under the law. Duress is “any wrongful threat of one person by words or other conduct that induces another to enter a transaction under the influence of such fear as precludes him from exercising free will and judgment.”<sup>5</sup> Claimant does not assert that Respondents made any threats to her.

I sympathize with Claimant’s plight, one which is unfortunately shared by many other self-represented litigants before OAH. Without a lawyer, she was at a disadvantage negotiating against Respondents’ lawyers and claims specialists. But one of the fundamental principles of the rule of law is that parties should be bound by their agreements. Claimant may have misjudged the benefits that were offered to her, but there is no evidence that she misunderstood them or was intentionally deceived by Respondents.

III. ORDER

Accordingly, it is

ORDERED, that Claimant’s motion to set aside the Final Order is DENIED; and it is further

If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

Case No.: 2020-PSWC-00015

ORDER DENYING CLAIMANT’S MOTION TO REOPEN

Claimant Debra Scarborough-Drummond seeks to reopen this case after agreeing to a settlement. Although I am sympathetic to Claimant’s situation, I deny Claimant’s motion.

I. BACKGROUND

Claimant, an employee of the Department of Youth Rehabilitation Services, injured her spine in January 2011 when she fell while trying to break up a fight among a group of teenage boys. She was awarded temporary total disability (TTD) benefits by the Office of Risk Management (ORM) until January 28, 2020, when ORM issued a Notice of Determination terminating her TTD benefits. Claimant appealed the Determination to this administrative court.

On October 2, 2020, Claimant participated in a mediation facilitated by Judge Margaret Mangan. She agreed to a settlement with ORM and signed a settlement agreement (Agreement). On October 30, 2020, the parties filed a Joint Motion To Dismiss Case with Prejudice signed by Claimant. Respondents state that Claimant has been paid the sum provided in the Agreement. In accord with the parties' request, I issued an order dismissing the case with prejudice on October 30, 2020.

On December 2, 2020, Claimant submitted an email asking to reopen her case. Claimant stated that she had not been represented by an attorney, that she "didn't understand everything that [Respondents] were saying," and she signed the agreement because she felt "pressured," because she "was worrying about how to keep a roof over my grandsons and my heads," and was "mentally and physically stressed out" because her health was deteriorating. Claimant says that she needs spinal surgery to avoid becoming paralyzed.

Respondents opposed Claimant's motion, asserting that that Claimant had an opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it, and never indicated that she misunderstood its terms. Moreover, Respondents note that the mediation was conducted under the guidance of an experienced Administrative Law Judge who was responsible for ensuring that the parties understood the outcome.

II. DISCUSSION

A. A final order may only be vacated or changed for limited reasons.

Once a final order is issued, a judge's discretion to change the final order is subject to serious limitations. If a party moves to vacate or change a final order within 10 days of when it is issued, the motion is considered to be a motion for reconsideration and the judge may change the final order for "any reason." OAH Rule 2828.5. But if, as here, a party waits more than 10 days before seeking to change a final order, the judge's discretion is limited. The motion is a motion for relief from a final order. OAH Rule 2827.7. Such a motion may be granted only for specified reasons, including, as relevant here:

- (a) Mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect.
- (c) Fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct of an adverse party.

OAH Rule 2828.10.

Claimant has not alleged facts to support any of these reasons to set aside the Final Order and the Agreement. Although Claimant suggests that her understanding of the Agreement was mistaken, she had ample opportunity to review the Agreement before signing it. She was not surprised, and she has not alleged any facts that may be construed as excusable neglect. Nor has she asserted any facts that might constitute fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct by Respondents. She may have misjudged the benefits of the settlement, but there is no evidence that the settlement was misrepresented or that Respondents engaged in other misconduct.

B. Settlements may only be set aside for compelling reasons.

Decisions of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals establish that settlements can only be set aside for very serious, limited reasons. The Court emphasized in Dyer v. Bilaal that a party's subjective understanding of a settlement is irrelevant to its validity.<sup>1</sup>

Settlement agreements are construed under “general principles of contract law.” Goozh v. Capitol Souvenir Co., 462 A.2d 1140, 1142 (D.C. 1983) (quoting Brown v. Brown, 343 A.2d 59, 62 (D.C. 1975)). Accordingly, we enforce a valid and binding settlement just like “any other contract.” Rommel v. West American Insurance Co., 158 A.2d 683, 684–85 (D.C. 1960).

This jurisdiction adheres to an “objective” law of contacts, meaning “the written language embodying the terms of an agreement will govern the rights and liabilities of the parties [regardless] of the intent of the parties at the time they entered into the contract, unless there is fraud, duress, or mutual mistake.” DSP Venture Group, Inc. v. Allen, 830 A.2d 850, 852 (D.C. 2003) . . . . In other words, a party's unexpressed intent is irrelevant if a contract is unambiguous.

The Court has also noted that “The law favors settlement of controversies . . . . [A]n agreement of the parties becomes the law of the case and its terms may not be enlarged or diminished by the court.”<sup>2</sup> “Although a court may set aside a stipulation [of settlement] where justice requires, parties generally are bound by their stipulations, and a stipulation deliberately entered into by parties for final disposition of their controversy ought not to be lightly set aside.”<sup>3</sup> ““The general rule is that a compromise and settlement operates as a merger of and bars the right of recovery on any claim therein.”<sup>4</sup>

As the Court of Appeals noted in Dyer, notwithstanding the strong policy favoring settlement, a settlement agreement, like any contract, may be set aside in the rare case where a party is able to demonstrate that the settlement was procured by fraud, duress, or mutual mistake. Here, there is no evidence in the record of fraud or mutual mistake, and Claimant does not assert them in her motion. Instead, she states that nearly a month after she signed the agreement and accepted the settlement funds, she concluded that it was a mistake for her to agree to the settlement. But she was not mistaken about the terms of the settlement and the mistake was not mutual. Nor did the stress and worry that led her to execute the settlement constitute the level of coercion necessary to qualify as duress under the law. Duress is “any wrongful threat of one person by words or other conduct that induces another to enter a transaction under the influence of such fear as precludes him from exercising free will and judgment.”<sup>5</sup> Claimant does not assert that Respondents made any threats to her.

I sympathize with Claimant’s plight, one which is unfortunately shared by many other self-represented litigants before OAH. Without a lawyer, she was at a disadvantage negotiating against Respondents’ lawyers and claims specialists. But one of the fundamental principles of the rule of law is that parties should be bound by their agreements. Claimant may have misjudged the benefits that were offered to her, but there is no evidence that she misunderstood them or was intentionally deceived by Respondents.

III. ORDER

Accordingly, it is

ORDERED, that Claimant’s motion to set aside the Final Order is DENIED; and it is further

After an administrative law judge has issued a Final Order, a party may ask the judge to change the Final Order and ask the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to change the Final Order. There are important time limitations described below for doing so.

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

Subject: DRAFT: Email Communication for Mayor's Order 2020-127

Jed and Sam,

Good morning.

I am writing to quickly send over the draft email/Teams for your review and feedback.

I also incorporated the language from a recent email from DCHR which I thought came in at the right time.

Please see below.

Dear ORM Team,

I hope this email finds you well. As always, I first want to say thank you to all of you for all the work you do during these times. The agency continues to operate at a high-level providing support to all our clients and partners thank to our collective efforts.

In light of the rising number of COVID-19 cases in the District, the Mayor released a new Mayor's Order on December 18, 2020 (Mayor's Order 2020-127) that will take effect tomorrow, December 23, 2020 through January 15, 2021. The order has placed restrictions on most indoor related activities such as restaurant dining, museums, libraries, and others.

Furthermore, the order also mentioned the requirement for non-essential businesses to telework, except in-person staff needed to support minimum business operations. This section applies to government agencies such as ORM, and that's why I am writing today to remind everyone that if you do plan to come to the office to please consult with your Program Administrator first for them to evaluate the need of additional personnel in the office.

I would be remiss if I forget to give additional kudos to our essential staff that have been reporting and will continue to report to the office to support our daily operation. Thank you for your work and always remember to please stay safe and follow current health and social distancing guidelines.

In addition to the Mayor's Order 2020-127, I also would like to go over the changes with Mayor's Order 2020-110.

District government employees who do not reside in the District and travel to a high-risk area are not subject to the self-quarantine or testing requirements of Mayor's Order 2020-110 if they will be in the District for less than 24 hours. They still must self-monitor and cannot come to work if they have recently had close contact with someone diagnosed with COVID-19.

District government employees who reside in the District and who travel to a high-risk area are not subject to the self-quarantine or testing requirements of the Mayor's order if they are performing essential work, and if they have not been exposed to someone with COVID-19 through recent close contact. For the purposes of Mayor's Order 2020-110, the District government considers all employees who are physically reporting to work to be performing essential work, regardless of whether their position is formally designated as an essential or emergency position.

If you have any questions or need additional information please feel free to reach out to me, Sam, and Melbert. You may also find information or <https://coronavirus.dc.gov/> or DCHR's policy page at <https://edpm.dc.gov/issuances/human-resources-guidance-covid-19-emergency/>.

Have a wonderful and safe holiday season.

Thank you,
Jed

AMENDED ORDER AWARDING ATTORNEY'S FEES

On November 17, 2020, Claimant's counsel filed a Consent Motion for Approval of attorney's fees of $4,285, and expenses of $1,715. On December 8, 2020, I issued an order awarding attorney's fees as requested. By mistake, I ordered the award to be paid by Respondents Office of Risk Management and the Department of Public Works. On December 9, 2020, Claimant's counsel filed a motion to modify or correct the order. Counsel noted that the fees and expenses were being claimed from the settlement that Claimant received and were not assessed against the District of Columbia. Claimant has consented to this distribution. For good cause, the motion is granted. Accordingly, it is ORDERED, that Claimant's counsel's motion to modify the order awarding attorney's fees and expenses is GRANTED; and it is further ORDERED, that the December 8, 2020, Order Awarding Attorney's Fees is amended as set forth below; and it is further ORDERED, that an attorney fee of $4,285.00 and reimbursed expenses of $1,715.00 is awarded to Burgos & Burgos LLC from settlement funds received.

After an administrative law judge has issued a Final Order, a party may ask the judge to change the Final Order and ask the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to change the Final Order. There are important time limitations described below for doing so.

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

AMENDED ORDER AWARDING ATTORNEY'S FEES

On November 17, 2020, Claimant's counsel filed a Consent Motion for Approval of attorney's fees of $4,285, and expenses of $1,715. On December 8, 2020, I issued an order awarding attorney's fees as requested. By mistake, I ordered the award to be paid by Respondents Office of Risk Management and the Department of Public Works. On December 9, 2020, Claimant's counsel filed a motion to modify or correct the order. Counsel noted that the fees and expenses were being claimed from the settlement that Claimant received and were not assessed against the District of Columbia. Claimant has consented to this distribution. For good cause, the motion is granted. Accordingly, it is ORDERED, that Claimant's counsel's motion to modify the order awarding attorney's fees and expenses is GRANTED; and it is further ORDERED, that the December 8, 2020, Order Awarding Attorney's Fees is amended as set forth below; and it is further ORDERED, that an attorney fee of $4,285.00 and reimbursed expenses of $1,715.00 is awarded to Burgos & Burgos LLC from settlement funds received.

After an administrative law judge has issued a Final Order, a party may ask the judge to change the Final Order and ask the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to change the Final Order. There are important time limitations described below for doing so.

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

After an administrative law judge has issued a Final Order, a party may ask the judge to change the Final Order and ask the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to change the Final Order. There are important time limitations described below for doing so.

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

AMENDED ORDER AWARDING ATTORNEY'S FEES

On November 17, 2020, Claimant's counsel filed a Consent Motion for Approval of attorney's fees of $4,285, and expenses of $1,715. On December 8, 2020, I issued an order awarding attorney's fees as requested. By mistake, I ordered the award to be paid by Respondents Office of Risk Management and the Department of Public Works. On December 9, 2020, Claimant's counsel filed a motion to modify or correct the order. Counsel noted that the fees and expenses were being claimed from the settlement that Claimant received and were not assessed against the District of Columbia. Claimant has consented to this distribution. For good cause, the motion is granted. Accordingly, it is ORDERED, that Claimant's counsel's motion to modify the order awarding attorney's fees and expenses is GRANTED; and it is further ORDERED, that the December 8, 2020, Order Awarding Attorney's Fees is amended as set forth below; and it is further ORDERED, that an attorney fee of $4,285.00 and reimbursed expenses of $1,715.00 is awarded to Burgos & Burgos LLC from settlement funds received.

After an administrative law judge has issued a Final Order, a party may ask the judge to change the Final Order and ask the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to change the Final Order. There are important time limitations described below for doing so.

HOW TO REQUEST THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE TO CHANGE THE FINAL ORDER

Under certain limited circumstances and within certain time limits, a party may file a written request asking the administrative law judge to change a final order. OAH Rule 2828 explains the circumstances under which such a request may be made. Rule 2828 and other OAH rules are available at www.oah.dc.gov.

A request to change a final order does not affect the party's obligation to comply with the final order and to pay any fine or penalty. If a request to change a final order is received at OAH within 10 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (15 calendar days if OAH mailed the final order to you), the period for filing an appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals does not begin to run until the Administrative Law Judge rules on the request. A request for a change in a final order will not be considered if it is received at OAH more than 120 calendar days of the date the Final Order was filed (125 calendar days if OAH mailed the Final Order to you).

PLEASE NOTE: By the October 9, 2020 Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, all filing deadlines that would otherwise expire during the public health emergency, as declared by the Mayor, are suspended/tolled/extended. Upon the expiration of the public health emergency, the Chief Administrative Law Judge will issue an order ending the suspension/tolling/extension period and parties will have thirty calendar days to timely submit any outstanding filings.

Subject: CMT Notice - January 5-6 Demonstrations

Colleagues,

We are expecting demonstrations in the District this week when the new Congress finalizes the Electoral College vote. I want to provide you with some advanced awareness to help you evaluate and potentially adjust your agency/department operations. The Emergency Operations Center (EOC) conducted a briefing call with your agency operations leads on Thursday to cover this information and answer questions.

We expect the heaviest impact to District roadways and transportation routes on Tuesday, January 5 and Wednesday, January 6, in the downtown core and near the Capitol. We also expect heavy foot traffic along Pennsylvania Avenue, near the White House, and BLM Plaza throughout the day and into the evening. Notably, we expect demonstrators to arrive in the region beginning today and tomorrow (January 3-4). As a result, we may see ad-hoc activities from Monday through Wednesday. This is also a weekday—rather than a weekend—event, so we project more significant impacts to traffic and transportation routes.

To prepare for this event:

- Agencies should review and ensure that staff and facility managers are familiar with the road closures that MPD and Capitol Police have established leading up to the event: <https://mpdc.dc.gov/release/traffic-advisory-first-amendment-activity-4>
- Agencies with services in the closure areas should plan for delays in staff arrival and transit between sites.
- The EOC, which has been activated since March to support the COVID-19 response, will monitor this event beginning at 8am on the 4th, 5th, and 6th. We are not requesting agency liaisons at this time, but we will have a standing WebEx between the EOC and department operations centers to facilitate communication and interagency coordination.

This event is evolving quickly, so we will conduct a brief CMT call on Monday afternoon (invite forthcoming) to provide this group with updated information. In the meantime, please reach out to me if you have any questions.

Regards,
Chris Rodriguez

Subject: CMT Notice - January 5-6 Demonstrations

Colleagues,

We are expecting demonstrations in the District this week when the new Congress finalizes the Electoral College vote. I want to provide you with some advanced awareness to help you evaluate and potentially adjust your agency/department operations. The Emergency Operations Center (EOC) conducted a briefing call with your agency operations leads on Thursday to cover this information and answer questions.

We expect the heaviest impact to District roadways and transportation routes on Tuesday, January 5 and Wednesday, January 6, in the downtown core and near the Capitol. We also expect heavy foot traffic along Pennsylvania Avenue, near the White House, and BLM Plaza throughout the day and into the evening. Notably, we expect demonstrators to arrive in the region beginning today and tomorrow (January 3-4). As a result, we may see ad-hoc activities from Monday through Wednesday. This is also a weekday—rather than a weekend—event, so we project more significant impacts to traffic and transportation routes.

To prepare for this event:

- Agencies should review and ensure that staff and facility managers are familiar with the road closures that MPD and Capitol Police have established leading up to the event: <https://mpdc.dc.gov/release/traffic-advisory-first-amendment-activity-4>
- Agencies with services in the closure areas should plan for delays in staff arrival and transit between sites.
- The EOC, which has been activated since March to support the COVID-19 response, will monitor this event beginning at 8am on the 4th, 5th, and 6th. We are not requesting agency liaisons at this time, but we will have a standing WebEx between the EOC and department operations centers to facilitate communication and interagency coordination.

This event is evolving quickly, so we will conduct a brief CMT call on Monday afternoon (invite forthcoming) to provide this group with updated information. In the meantime, please reach out to me if you have any questions.

Regards,
Chris Rodriguez

David L. Gadis, Chief Executive Officer

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA WATER AND SEWER AUTHORITY | 1385 CANAL STREET, SE | WASHINGTON, DC 20003

DATE: December 31, 2020
TO: Chairman Tommy Wells and Board Members
FROM: David L. Gadis, CEO/General Manager
SUBJECT: Highlights from the Week of December 28

With the winter holiday season here, many employees are taking some well-deserved leave to enjoy extra time with family. As I mentioned in last week's update, I have also authorized an early four-hour release for staff today to allow them extra time to prepare for holiday celebrations.

Rollouts of both the Pfizer and Moderna vaccines are already happening around the region. At this time, access to the vaccine is limited to front line medical personnel and those at the highest risk for severe COVID-related illness. However, the Authority's Incident Management Team (IMT) is monitoring vaccine availability and will communicate vaccination opportunities to employees as appropriate in the weeks and months ahead. I am grateful for the leadership of Kishia Powell (Chief Operating Officer and EVP), Maureen Holman (Executive Vice President / Administration) and the rest of the IMT in delivering a highly effective Recovery Incident Action Plan that continues to protect our staff, our assets and our customers.

Although temperatures are projected to remain above freezing, the District is expected to receive significant rainfall over the next 48 hours and perhaps more than 1.5" inches over the coming weekend. The Office of Emergency Management (OEM) is tracking this system and will update managers and crew leads on weather developments as conditions warrant.

Please read on for additional highlights from the week:

1. Annual Report Production Progress Update

The Office of Marketing and Communication has been working closely with departments across the Authority to compile and present the most compelling stories highlighting our impactful work over the past year. Viewed through the lens of the unprecedented challenges from the pandemic, DC Water has delivered in spectacular fashion for our community.

One exciting aspect of this year's Annual Report is the addition of our progress scorecard for initiatives relating to the strategic programs outlined in The Blueprint. For the first time in recent memory, the Authority is using the Annual Report to highlight these efforts, demonstrate alignment and measure our progress in specific areas that track to program objectives.

Stories featured in this year's Annual Report include our COVID response, the revised Business Development Plan, a Clean Rivers update, the Lead-Free DC program, Customer Assistance Programs, as well as features on the Senior Executive Team (SET) and more.

The Annual Report is expected to be released at the end of January, and I look forward to sharing it with the Board upon completion.

2. September 10 Flooding Response Update

Although incoming claims have slowed considerably, our teams continue to assist families affected by the September 10 flooding with guidance and support on claims as needed.

As of this morning, 280 related claims for reimbursement have been received. For the DC Water cleaning program, (Service Masters and ServePro), approximately 175 customer properties have requested the service and, in all but nine of those cases, cleaning services have started, and the remaining are in the scheduling process. To date, DC Water has been invoiced for cleaning totaling $540,171.

On behalf of my team, please have a wonderful New Year's celebration and raise a glass with us to a healthy and hopeful 2021.

Superior Court |               | Description of Accident: On April 23, 2019, a District owned Fire Engine 5, operated by Deonte Pollard, was responding to an emergency incident and was parked facing southbound with emergency lights activated on 1015 31st Street, NW, Washington, DC, when GEICO's insured, Emily Bone, operating a 2017 Ford Mustang traveling northbound on 31st Street, attempted to pass the Fire Engine and struck and damaged the FEMS vehicle. Reason for Referral: *Note – liability has been accepted and facts are not disputed. This referral is for the storage fees and loss of use portion of this claim only. On October 30, 2019, ORM sent a demand package to GEICO in the amount of $8,242.96 and on September 24, 2020, GEICO issued a settlement check in the amount of $6,469.00. On October 5, 2020, ORM sent GEICO an amended demand letter for $2,070.96 which included the storage fees and loss of use claim not paid by GEICO in the initial settlement. On December 14, 2020, ORM spoke with GEICO claims examiner, Sunny Kaur, who stated that she needed proof that Engine 5 would have been involved in an event. ORM advised Sunny that the District is entitled to loss of use reimbursement without providing proof of a scheduled event and ORM sent Sunny the Fire Code and supporting favorable case law for review. ORM advised Sunny via telephone and in writing that if GEICO did not issue payment by 12/22/2020, ORM would refer this case to OAG for suit To-date, ORM has not received a response from Sunny Kaur. ORM recommends filing suit for loss of use and storage fee only. | Nicole Skibicki | 12/29/2020 8:17 AM  | FEMS  |

Superior Court |               | Description of Accident: Details: On May 24, 2020, a vehicle with Maryland temporary tag number 2-534(a) was discovered abandoned in the southbound lanes of 295 prior to exits 1A, B, and C after the operator struck and damaged a guard rail and attenuator. Reason for Referral: On May 20, 2019, ORM's SIU completed a report which stated that ORM contacted the registered owner of the vehicle, Drivetime and was advised that the vehicle was under the control of Ashley N. Parks. Drivetime refused to provide any additional information regarding Ashley N. Parks. On June 30, 2020, ORM contacted Ashley Parks and was unable to reach her by telephone. On July 16, 2020, ORM contacted Brandy at Drivetime who stated that they could not release customer information without a subpoena. ORM recommends filing suit against Drivetime and potentially Ashley N. Parks.  | Nicole Skibicki | 12/28/2020 11:01 AM | DDOT  |
